Bosox Beat Nats, 11-9; Can Win Title Today; Yanks Lose to A's, 4-1; Cubs Top Cards, 6-5

By Jack Lartz—The Washington Post.

THE RED SOX OBJECT—With clenched fist, Manager Joe McCarthy (left) of the Boston Red Sox, controls his temper as Catcher Birdie Tebbetts tells a thing or two to Umpire Bill Grieve, who called the ball-four which sent Buddy Lewis to first, filling the bases in the ninth inning of yesterday's game at Griffith Stadium. Nerves were strained as the league-leading Sox almost blew the game. But they won, 11-9

Boston Outhit, 18-5; Griffs Rally in 8th And 9th; Leave Tying Run on Base

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

The Red Sox, with the pungent whiff of World Series dividends now delighting their nostrils, escaped from Washington yesterday with a cockeyed and scarefilled 11-9 victory over the Nats.

On a day when they were outhit, 18 to 5, the Red Sox managed to win and set up the slumping second-place Yankees for the possible crusher that could settle the pennant in New York today, when they meet head-on.

The scoreboard had already posted the Yankees' defeat by the Athletics up in the Bronx, when the Red Sox were breezing along in a 10-4 lead. The Nats at that point were a soft touch.

Those 10 runs had been achieved on only three Boston hits in the opening three innings, plus the first 10 of 14 bases on balls. The Nats also threw three damaging misplays into the contest.

And then the Nats, wastrel with their earlier hits, got tough. They knocked Walter Masterson out of the box in the eighth, had Ellis Kinder and the whole Boston assembly in a tizzy in the ninth, before they left the tying runs on base.

Boarding their train for New York last night, the Red Sox had undisputed rights to first place with a full one-game lead, and only the two weekend contests with the Yankees on the schedule.

Kinder, called on to succor the swooning Masterson after the Nats rushed two runs across the plate and cut Boston's lead to 11-7, shuttled from hero in that eighth to semibum in the ninth.

No relief pitcher ever made a more nearly perfect job of it than Kinder in the eighth. With a man on third and none out, he whipped third strikes past Sam Mele, Ed Stewart and Bob Ortiz in succession to devitalize the Nats at that point.

But in that ninth, Kinder was inviting disaster despite his four-run lead, and Boston Manager Joe McCarthy was signalling for help for his eighth-inning hero who

The New York Yankees dropped a full game behind Boston in the American League yesterday by losing, 4-1, to the Philadelphia Athletics at New York and the St. Louis Cardinals dropped to a game behind the idle Brooklyn Dodgers, National League leaders, by bowing to the Chicago Cubs, 6-5, at Chicago.

Steel Union Ordered Out At Midnight

White House Plans No New Action; 25,000 Workers Jump the Deadline

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Half-a-million CIO steelworkers went on strike at 12:01 a. m. today.

They were carrying out an order issued by Philip Murray, president of the CIO and of the United Steelworkers, after another fruitless session with Federal mediators who tried desperately until the last few hours before the deadline to avert a walkout.

Murray's order went to union members at 53 basic steel companies, and several iron ore mining companies.

A few hours earlier, White House officials had announced that President Truman would make no further effort to prevent the walkout. Twice before the Chief Executive had brought about extension of the truce that had kept the Nation's steel mills operating.

"Forced Upon Union"

"This strike has been forced upon the union and the American people by the company" (United States Steel Corp.), Murray's telegram said. "The responsibility for this strike rests entirely with the company.

"The United Steelworkers of America offered to settle its dispute with this company on the terms recommended by the steel industry board appointed by the President of the United States . . .

"The recommendations have been acclaimed by the President of the United States, representing the American people, as a fair and equitable settlement of the pending dispute. This company has stubbornly and obstinately refused to accept the board's recommendations as a settlement of the dispute. . . ."

Benjamin Fairless, president of United States Steel, on the other hand, declared in a statement that "our collective bargaining negotiations with the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) have come to a complete impasse because of the unreasonable attitude of the union."

New Demand Reported

He said the company had been seeking a solution of the dispute "as was requested by the President of the United States," but added:

"To make the negotiations more difficult, the union demanded last Wednesday afternoon not only a complete acceptance of the (steel-fact-finding) board's recommendations on insurance and pensions, but that they be made retroactive to July 16, 1949.

"No such retroactive provision was contained in the board's report. The union also proposed that a wage increase of 12½ cents an hour be negotiated. The board had found that a wage increase at this time was not justified . . .

"Yesterday the union made a new demand for a wage increase of 30 cents an hour as an alterna-

Jury Out 15 Minutes

Wife Acquitted in Milk Bottle Killing of Her Soldier Spouse

Mrs. Ruth Maxwell, 28, was acquitted yesterday in the milk-bottle slaying of her soldier husband July 30.

The trial in Alexandria Corporation Court consumed less than nine hours, including 45 minutes for lunch. Instructions were read to the jury at 5:30 p. m. Closing arguments required about 40 minutes. The jury retired shortly after 6:30 and returned its verdict in 15 minutes.

The trim, soft-spoken widow had taken the stand in her own defense after Commonwealth's Attorney Howard W. Smith, jr., demanded a conviction of second-degree murder.

When Mrs. Maxwell heard the verdict, she sighed audibly.

Later she remarked, "It was bad enough when it happened. It would have been too much if I had been convicted of something I wasn't guilty of."

The slain man, Corpl. Gardner Maxwell, was found the night of July 30 in front of the house at 732 N. Washington st., Alexandria, where the couple had a room. His jugular vein had been slashed.

Mrs. Maxwell, dressed in a black skirt and white blouse, pleaded self-defense in describing an argument with her husband that night at the Belvoir Non-commissioned Officers' Club.

He had given her a dollar "very reluctantly" for cigarettes and beer, she said. He demanded his change immediately, but she put it in her wallet, Mrs. Maxwell testified.

Then the argument ensued, she said.

When they arrived at home, her wallet fell to the ground and he picked it up, she continued. When

Senate Sends Postal, Other Raises to Conference

Amendment Gives Added $100 Hike to First 4 Grades of Classified Workers

By Jerry Kluttz

The Senate yesterday voted to increase the salaries of 1,385,000 Federal workers—885,000 classified and 500,000 in the postal service.

About 175,000 Federal and District Government employes here and nearby would benefit by the measures which were adopted by voice votes after the minimum of opposition.

Also approved in record time was the bill to boost substantially the benefits paid to employes who are injured on the job, and to provide additional payments for the families of employes who are killed in line of duty.

Sent to Conference

The three bills would cost an estimated 225 million dollars a year. As the House had given prior approval to its version of all three bills, the Senate ordered them sent to Senate-House conferences.

Oddly enough, the Senate didn't act on a pending amendment to give its own legislative employes a flat 5 percent pay boost. Senator Flanders (R., Vt.), who introduced the amendment, was out of the city and a score of other Senators were asked but refused to push it.

One major amendment to the classified bill was adopted. It would give employes in the first four classified grades an additional $100 raise. It was offered by Senator Langer (R., N. D.) and it was approved by a 1-to-0 vote. Sixteen Senators were on the floor at the time. When the acting president pro tem, Senator McFarland (D., Ark.), put the motion to a vote, Langer was the only Senator to vote for it and no one voted against it. McFarland hesitated for a moment, looked around the room, and said: "The aye has it."

Hopes to Scale It Down

After the bill had passed, there was a discussion among several Senators over what the Langer amendment provided for. Senator Long, the floor manager of the pay bills, said it was his understanding that it would make $100 the minimum increase in the first four grades. The Senate clerk, however, said it would give employes in the first four grades an additional $100 pay boost. Long then said he would try to get the amendment scaled down in conference as Langer nodded agreement.

The amendment is far more im-

Terps Swamp Hoyas, 33-7, Before 18,227

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Maryland rudely dispelled any dream Georgetown might have had for area football supremacy with a 33-7 rout that 18,227 at College Park last night were willing to call no contest.

Scoring in every period but the third, and making up for that with a two-touchdown blast in the fourth, the Terps merely toyed with the 12-point underdogs.

The Hoyas went into the game with high hopes after their opening upset of favored Holy Cross.

Two early scintillating punt returns by speedy Jim LaRue, for 41 and 38 yards, got Georgetown off balance and they played throughout in a slightly vertical position.

The first burst by LaRue, after he faked a handoff to Johnny Idzik, carried to Georgetown's 41. After a 24-yard run by Joe Tucker, the Hoyas stiffened and took over on the 15. They smeared Tucker for a 5-yard loss on the last play.

Undaunted, LaRue took the next boot for 38 yards to the Hoya 26. In just four wicked smashes, Bob Roulette wheeled all the way.

The Terps broke the game wide open in the second period. Dick Barba helped them along by fumbling on his 36 and center Jake Rowden recovered.

Funny thing, Maryland completed only three of 16 passes but two of them were good for second quarter scores. Tucker threw one that end Hank Fox, a promising soph, speared in the end zone for a 15-yard scoring play.

Later, Stan Levine found Fox with another 15-yard touchdown toss. A wobbly 31-yard pass from Lavine to Joe Kuchto set up the play. Georgetown's Warren Mc-

Fans Acclaim Joe DiMaggio As Baseball's Top Performer

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 30.—Joe DiMaggio, who is being honored Saturday, October 1, at Yankee Stadium on Joe DiMaggio Day, gets the applause of the Nation's ball fans as the "greatest baseball player in the game today."

He is the winner in a coast-to-coast survey just completed by the American Institute of Public Opinion, which also found many fans calling him the greatest player of all time.

Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers get the next largest number of votes as "greatest players" in the game today.

Then come Stan Musial, star of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Lou Boudreau, manager of the Cleveland Indians, whose team won the series last year.

A total of 45 percent of the Nation-wide sample of adults questioned said that they are following big league ball at present. These were asked:

These were asked:

"Who would you, yourself, say is the greatest baseball player in the game today?"

Here are the winners:

1. Joe DiMaggio (Yankees).
2. Ted Williams (Red Sox).
3. Jackie Robinson (Dodgers).
4. Stan Musial (Cardinals).
5. Lou Boudreau (Indians).

Many other players were also mentioned, including:

Also Johnny Mize, who played for both the Giants and the Yankees this season; George Kell, Detroit; Peewee Reese, Brooklyn; Joe Page, Yankees, and Larry Doby, Cleveland.

The greatest baseball player of all time was Babe Ruth, the fans say in the same survey, with Ty Cobb and Lou Gehrig next in rank.

Joe DiMaggio also received a substantial vote, along with Musial, Williams and Robinson.

Among old-timers also mentioned were: Christy Mathewson, Honus Wagner, Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Rogers Hornsby, Tris Speaker, Johnny Evers (of Tinkers-to-Evers-to-Chance fame), Shoeless Joe Jackson, Ed Walsh, Rabbit Maranville and more recent old-timers such as Carl Hubbell, Dizzy Dean, Charley Gehringer, Monty Stratton and Hank Greenberg.

'Scientist X' Identified by House Probers

By The Associated Press

Ending a year-old mystery, the House Un-American Activities Committee yesterday named a young Midwest university professor as the shadowy "Scientist X" it accused of slipping wartime atomic secrets to a man it called a Communist spy.

The committee said "Scientist X" is Dr. Joseph W. Weinberg of the University of Minnesota. It formally recommended that the Justice Department prosecute him on perjury charges.

Weinberg promptly denied the accusation, claiming it was a case of "mistaken identity."

The Justice Department said the FBI has been investigating Weinberg "for a long time," and when FBI reports on the case are completed they will be studied.

In Minneapolis, Weinberg, 32-year-old assistant professor of physics at the University of Minnesota, told newsmen:

"I am innocent. At no time have I participated in any way in disclosure of any secret or classified information or formula to any unauthorized person."

Weinberg called "Scientist X" a "publicity-seeking phrase invented by the committee."

Dr. J. L. Morrill, president of the University of Minnesota, called for an immediate Government investigation to "establish the truth in this tragic situation for the security of the Nation and with strict justice to Professor Weinberg."

Morrill said the university would not knowingly retain on its staff "any person guilty of perjury or traitorous Communist collaboration." But he noted that no formal charges have yet been lodged against Weinberg and the university does not "feel justified" in taking any action "unless he has been indicted."

The House committee said in its report that the man it identified only under the pseudonym of "Scientist X" in a report issued in September, 1948, went to the home of Communist Leader Steve Nelson in March, 1943, and gave Nelson highly confidential information.

Lewis Orders 102,000 Into Pits Monday

Pittsburgh, Sept. 30 (AP).—Householders with empty coal bins got good news today as John L. Lewis ordered one fifth of his 480,000 striking United Mine Workers back into the pits Monday.

The bushy-browed United Mine Workers' chieftain ended a sympathy walkout for 102,000 hard and soft coal diggers.

But the 12-day strike of nearly 400,000 other bituminous coal miners continues unabated. The strike began September 19, after suspension of payments by the mine workers' pension fund. The union said it was a rank-and-file revolt.

The back-to-work order affects 80,000 eastern Pennsylvania anthracite and 22,000 Western bituminous miners. Virtually their entire production—an estimated 1,900,000 tons weekly—is used for house heating.

"The suspension of mining in the Western and anthracite areas is not now vital to the pending wage negotiations," Lewis said in a telegram to UMW district presidents.

He added: The action will "minimize loss to all parties."

Lewis referred to continuing negotiations with Northern and Western bituminous mine operators at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Talks now are at a standstill. There is no sign of agreement. Both sides accuse each other of acting in bad faith.

UMW Vice President Thomas Kennedy read the Lewis telegram to newsmen. John L. is at the bedside of his 91-year-old mother in Springfield, Ill.

In addition to Pennsylvania's hard coal workers, the Lewis back-to-work order affects bituminous diggers in 10 Western States—Washington, Iowa, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Missouri, Wyoming, Utah and Montana.

Kennedy made it clear that the Western mines do not compete with the East, and the action meets special problems of the Far West.

Support Chest 'Peace Drive,' Truman Urges

Calling the Nation-wide Community Chest drive for funds a "peace campaign," President Truman appealed yesterday to all Americans to contribute toward the total goal of 185 million dollars.

The campaign will get under way today. In the greater Washington area, the Red Feather agencies seek a total of $3,991,000.

President Truman's appeal was made in a Nation-wide broadcast over four networks at 10:25 p. m. He asked every citizen to "give generously" toward the "typically American campaign."

Responding to the President's address, Frank J. Luchs, Washington campaign chairman, said there is an "upswing of spirit" among campaign workers here. He emphasized that the drive is for the benefit of "our neighbors" and that "we recognize that what affects one's neighbor affects one's self." He spoke over Station WTOP. Nationally, Henry Ford 2d, chairman of the country-wide drive, responded to the President's appeal.

In his address President Truman said:

My fellow Americans:

We are on the eve of a typically American campaign—a peace campaign that will enlist, during Octo-

Premature Draft Of AEC Report Sparks Explosion at Capitol

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

A hot skirmish, a foretaste of angrier battles to come, broke out yesterday at the Capitol over the issue of printing up a report on the summer's investigation of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The draft held that the AEC is not guilty of the charges of "incredible mismanagement" made against it by Senator Burke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa).

In a letter which he made public, Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) upbraided Chairman Brien McMahon (D., Conn.), of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy for having put into printed form a report on the inquiry.

Knowland's letter appeared to assume that the document, which had been circulated to him, was to be the final report. He said before it was put into final shape and sent to the printer, the views of the rest of the committee should have been sought. Members of the committee, not its staff, should

Officials Report Progress in Talks' Exploratory Phase

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

The United States, Britain and Canada moved a step nearer to full partnership yesterday in developing atomic energy for war or peace.

High officials of the three governments ended what they officially described as "the first stage of exploratory talks," and cautiously reported "good progress."

The discussions have been going on since September 20. They were planned long before the three governments knew of the Soviet atomic explosion. Their purpose was to discover whether, and how, to restore the wartime atomic cooperation of the three countries.

If Congress is willing, there is every prospect now of a three-power agreement early next year providing for:

1. Full interchange of scientists and of atomic information among the three countries, possibly with

Navy Tells Crommelin What Not to Say on Telecast Tonight

Capt. John G. Crommelin, the Navy's rebellious critic of unification, has been ordered to refrain from any discussion of inter-service dissension in a televison program scheduled for tonight.

Adm. Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval operations, issued the directive, after Secretary of the Navy Francis Matthews learned that Crommelin was slated to appear on "Meet the Press" this evening.

Crommelin visited Matthews' office yesterday and spent some time with the Secretary. Afterwards, officials made plain that the order did not bar his appearance on the telecast, but only to refrain from comment on "the relationships between the military departments . . . or the functions of any of them (which) would, in the light of existing circumstances, be prejudicial to the interests of the United States."

Crommelin was reported to have signified that he would "obey orders" to the best of his ability. Disobedience would subject him to courtmartial. It was indicated that he would take part in the program.

The telecast occurs at 10 p. m. over Station WNBW.

Four reporters, Lawrence Spivak of American Mercury, Warren Francis of the Los Angeles Times, Howard Norton of the Baltimore Sun and Barney McQuade of the Manchester, N. H., News will do the questioning.

Army Continues Segregation, But Widens Racial Equality

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Defense Secretary Johnson yesterday approved a new Army policy aimed at giving "greater assurance of equality of treatment and opportunity" for Negroes.

It continues segregation at the company level and below, but gives Negro soldiers a better chance to attend Army schools and acquire specialists' qualifications and promotions.

Negroes familiar with negotiations leading up to the new Army racial policy frankly were disappointed. They withheld comment for the time being, but predicted there would be adverse reaction from Negro leaders.

Early last spring the Army, Navy and Air Force were directed to write new policies carrying out President Truman's directive of last summer calling for racial equality in the armed forces. A two-week deadline was given.

The Navy quickly submitted a plan in line with its already effective policy of nonsegregation. Johnson accepted this, but disapproved plans submitted by the Army and Air Force as not going far enough.

An amended Air Force program, providing for elimination of segregation, later was indorsed by the Defense Secretary.

The Army program approved yesterday by Johnson makes the following changes:

1. Opens all military occupation-

Mao Elected Head of Red China Group

By The Associated Press

Mao Tze-tung, a peasant's son, yesterday was named head of the new Chinese Communist government, which will bid soon for international recognition.

Mao Tze-tung

The 56-year-old Mao thus became leader in name as well as in fact of a regime that has forcibly placed more than half of China under the Red flag.

The Communist radio in Peiping announced that Mao was elected chairman of the "Central People's government" of "the People's Republic of China." The republic's announced aim is close ties with Russia.

The broadcast, listed six vice chairmen who will serve with Mao on the ruling government council.

One is Madame Sun Yat-sen, sister-in-law of Mao's arch enemy, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Her late husband, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, led the 1911 revolution.

Two prominent non-Communists were among the vice chairmen. They are Marshal Li Chi-shen, once Chiang Kai-shek's chief of staff, and Chang Lan, chairman of the Democratic League. The Nationalists outlawed the league, saying the Reds dominated it.

The three other vice chairmen are trusted Communist workers. General Chu Teh, commander in chief of China's Communist armies; Liu Shao-chi, member of the politburo; and Kao Kang, chairman of the regional government of Manchuria.

Li Vetoes Appointment Of Chiang's Close Friend

Canton, Sept. 30 (AP).—The split between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Acting President Li Tsung-jen came out into the open today.

Li vetoed the appointment of Gen. Tang En-po to a new defense position. He then challenged the right of Chiang's emergency council to review his veto.

General Tang is a close friend of Chiang.

486 European Refugees Land In Ireland

Cork, Ireland, Sept. 30 (U.P.).—Crammed into a battered war surplus landing craft designed to hold fewer than 100 soldiers, 486 hungry refugees from eastern Europe arrived here today after a perilous journey across the North Sea from Gothenburg, Sweden.

The passengers included 100 women and 100 children.

They will attempt to cross the Atlantic.

The miscellaneous collection of Jews, Balts, Finns and Poles hope to start life anew either in Canada or the United States.

The skipper of one of the three American ships held by Chinese Nationalists off Shanghai radioed last night that a Chinese destroyer was "threatening to fire on my crew and passengers."

"The situation is desperate," he said, asking quick assistance.

The message from Captain Henry Scurr of the Flying Independent was received by the Shanghai agents of the Isbrandtsen Line of New York.

Hans Isbrandtsen, president of the line, said a later cable advised, however, that the Chinese destroyer had pulled away and gone out of sight.

Scurr said a Chinese destroyer was alongside with the crew at battle stations and loaded guns bearing on his ship, and "the captain is continually threatening to fire on my crew and passengers."

"Please get assistance fast," Scurr urged.

There was no mention of two other Isbrandtsen vessels blockaded by the Nationalists—the Flying Clipper and Flying Trader.

The Flying Independent and Flying Clipper sailed Thursday from Shanghai. The third ship was enroute to Shanghai when it was intercepted.

Admiral Louis Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, declined yesterday to provide American naval intervention for release of three United States merchant ships held at Shanghai by Nationalist gunboats.

Denfeld, replying to a request from the owners, wired that "you will appreciate that the employment of United States naval forces under the present circumstance is not in accord with United States Government policy."

U. N. Buries China's Case

Lake Success, Sept. 30 (AP).—A tie vote today dashed Nationalist China's hopes for a quick hearing of its charges that Russia is aiding Chinese Communists. The Chinese complaint was shoved to the bottom of a list of hot political issues before the United Nations Assembly.

"It's a great disappointment to me," said Dr. T. F. Tsiang, chief Chinese delegate, after losing his battle in the 59-nation political committee of the Assembly.

The United States, Cuba, the Netherlands and others supported Tsiang, but the committee split, 22 to 22, on the proposal by Tsiang to hear his complaint immediately after the question of the prewar Italian colonies.

Committee rules provide that any proposal getting a tie vote is lost. The commitee voted, 41 to 3, to put the item fifth on the list.

Murphy Says Franco Wants to Visit U. S.

Madrid, Spaain, Sept. 30 (U.P.).—Rep. James J. Murphy (D., N. Y.) said today that Generalissimo Francisco Franco told him he would like to visit the United States.

"I told him I hoped he would," Murphy said to reporters. "I almost added 'as my guest' but then decided it might be improper."

The Congressman said earlier reports that Spain was a Fascist state were quite untrue.

Agents of Cominform Kidnap Panchan Lama, London Hears

London, Sept. 30 (U.P.).—Central Asian affairs authorities reported tonight that Cominform agents were believed to have kidnaped the Panchan Lama, one of the great spiritual leaders of Tibet, who lived in seclusion in northwest China.

The authorities said the rapid disintegration of Nationalist influence in northwest China indicated the Communists had either kidnaped the Panchan Lama, reincarnation of the "Buddha of Boundless Light," or were keeping him prisoner in a monastery.

The authorities said the Lama had sought refuge in a monastery at Kumbum in Chinghai province and that the area had now been overrun by the Communists.

British authorities said 14-year-old Panchan Rinpoche was installed during the first week in August at Kumbum as the tenth Panchan Lama, spiritual leader of nine million people.

Central Asian authorities said there was an age-old rivalry between the Panchan Lama and the Dalai Lama, accepted spiritual leader in Lhasa, capital of Tibet. The ninth Panchan Lama fled to China after a disagreement with the Dalai Lama, Tibet's religious and civil leader, and died in 1937. The tenth Panchan Lama was chosen by lot from three "divine" boys.

End Libyan Occupation, Soviet Asks

Lake Success, Sept. 30 (AP).—The Soviet Union made two surprise moves in the United Nations today.

When the Political Committee launched debate on the fate of the former Italian colonies, the Russians proposed that Libya be granted immediate independence and that foreign troops in Libya be withdrawn within three months. The United States and Britain have bases in Libya. Britain is the occupying power.

Hector McNeil, British Minister of State, proposed Libya be given independence within three to five years.

In the special Political Committee Russia proposed that the Assembly wiped out the U. N. Korean Commission. Russia has boycotted the commission since it was created in 1947. The United States, China, Australia and the Philippines have proposed the commission be continued.

Advance billing of the television interview describes Crommelin as "the outspoken war hero who risked his naval career to blast the Unification Act as a menace to American security." When he issued this blast several weeks ago, Captain Crommelin was a member of the joint Army-Navy-Air Force staff.

Later, he was relieved from this post without prejudice and shifted to a purely Navy post outside the Pentagon in the air warfare division of naval operations. Several Navy admirals publicly came to Crommelin's support with the result that Secretary Matthews sent a memorandum to all commands of the Navy requesting them to eschew further public discussions of the "Crommelin case."

Truman to Visit Gun Factory As Celebration Reaches Climax

Headed by President Truman, 100,000 people are expected to visit the Naval Gun Factory today as the week-long celebration of its 150th anniversary reaches its climax this weekend.

Mr. Truman is scheduled to arrive at the plant's gate at 8th and M sts. se. at 12:35 p. m. He will be accorded full military honors, a Navy spokesman said, with a 21-gun salute heralding his arrival.

The Chief Executive will be greeted by Rear Admiral Glenn B. Davis, commandant, Potomac River Naval Command, and Rear Admiral Frank G. Fahrion, gun factory superintendent. After inspecting the honor guard, he will board the presidential yacht Williamsburg at the factory pier.

About 4:30 p. m. the Williamsburg will depart on an overnight cruise. It will return to the gun factory pier Sunday afternoon, the spokesman said.

In a press conference yesterday aboard H.M.S. Snipe, British corvette berthed at the gun factory on a courtesy visit, Vice Admiral R. Van Symonds-Tayler reported that the British Navy has made improvements in attack and defense procedures.

He said that in his opinion, the British Navy has most of the answers to subamine and aerial attack. "There is more research than ever in history" on general naval subjects, he added. The admiral is commander of the American-West Indies Squadron.

Gun factory gates at 8th and M sts. se. and 11th and O sts. se. will open to the public at 10 a. m. today. In view of the expected crowds, visitors were urged not to drive automobiles.

Capital Transit buses V-6, W-6, W-8, A-2, A-4, A-6 and A-8 deposit passengers in the gun factory area, as do streetcar routes 54 and 92.

An afternoon and evening packed with events will get under way at 1:30 p. m. with canoe and shell races. At 2:25 p. m., an hour-long full-dress boat parade will begin, with a loudspeaker description of the boats as they pass the reviewing stand.

Other afternoon activities include a special display of new naval aircraft; an air demonstration by Marine Phantom Jet planes; an air parade by Naval Reserve planes; underwater demolition team demonstration; an air demonstration by 12 District National Guard planes; and an air-sea rescue involving a helicopter pulling a swimmer from the Anacostia River.

Sailing races will be held at 5 p. m. At 7:50 p. m., the United States Army Band will present an overture, followed by an illuminated show featuring shells and canoes in maneuvers and a water ski troup.

From 9 to 9:40 p. m., a boat parade will be featured, along with an Army Band concert. This will be followed by a show of about an hour from the Watergate Symphony Barge, concluding the activities.

Queuille Agrees To Price Cut Demands

Paris, Sept. 30 (NYHT).—Premier Henri Queuille has agreed to Socialist demands for government-imposed price cuts, Guy Mollet, secretary general of the Socialist Party, said today after conferring with the premier.

This is one of the main elements of a compromise being worked out by government leaders in an attempt to end what some French newspapers have dubbed the "amiable crisis" over union wage demands.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

September 9, 1949

Dear Mr. Pruden:

Many times during the past decade the conviction has come to me with increasing force that a revival of the spirit of old-fashioned religion is what the world most needs.

Only when the hearts and minds of men are inspired and guided by the unchanging principles of the Sermon on the Mount can we hope that the nations of the world will find the pathway to a true and enduring peace. Without that help the best efforts of men and nations will fail.

One could hope earnestly that the proposed Evangelistic Crusade to be launched in the District of Columbia on September twenty-fifth will set an example which will bring many to a realization of the strength that lies in the everlasting reality of religion.

Very sincerely yours,
Harry Truman

Two Red Satellites Denounce Tito Pact

London, Sept. 30 (U.P.).—Poland and Hungary today followed Russia's lead in denouncing friendship treaties with Yugoslavia, opening what east European experts here said was an intensified diplomatic assault against Premier Marshal Tito's "excommunicated" regime.

Formal notes announcing the dissolving of the treaties were handed to the Yugoslav Minister in Budapest, Hungary, and the Yugoslav charge d'affaires in Warsaw, Poland.

Hungary charged that Yugoslavia had "defamed" the treaty by plotting against the Hungarian government, and cited the trial of former Hungarian Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk.

The Polish note also cited the Rajk trial as proof that Tito's government is hostile toward Russia and her satellites and demanded the departure of seven members of the Yugoslav Embassy on the grounds of "espionage."

East European experts here said that the new onslaught against Tito was designed to force him openly into the western camp, to provide "conclusive proof" that he was a "camouflaged enemy" of Russia's east European satellites.

No Indication Seen Of Military Action

Vienna, Sept. 30 (AP).—Reliable western sources said today there is no indication in Austria that the Russians are preparing any military action against Premier Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia.

According to information available here, the Russians have two infantry divisions in Austria, t o in Hungary and one in Romania. There also is an aitiaircraft division in Austria.

The informants said there have been no unusual troop movements in Austria recently.

Army Widens Race Equality

al specialties to Negroes. In the past, there had to be a specialist's rating open in a Negro unit before a man could be trained in that speciality.

Some specialties thus were not open to Negroes, and others had nominal representatives only.

2. Negroes now may be selected for all Army schools. Previously, quotas were on a racial basis, and some schools did not traain Negroes at all. Heretofore, only 21 of 106 schools open to recruits after basic traaining accepted members of the race.

3. The new promotion system of the enlisted career guidance program, just getting under way, will be administered on an equal-merit basis by Army-wide competition exams without regard to race.

4. Negro ROTC students in mixed units can attend summer camps with their college groups. Heretofore, they were assigned to Negro encampments.

Original enlistments of Negroes in the Army still will be on the quota basis, accordin gto the population ratio of Negroes to the total population—now about 10 percent. Negro leaders have opposed such a quota.

Chief unanswered question in the new army policy was on assignment of Negro enlisted men after completion of training and qualification for a military speciality. Later, an Army spokesman said such men would be eligible for assignment only to Negro units and post "overhead," as at present.

"This program," said Army Secretary Gray, "does not mean that existing Negro units will be broken up or that Negro personnel of these units will be scattered throughout the Army.

"It does mean that qualified Negroes, including members of these existing units, will have the opportunity to learn those skills previously unavailable to them. Hereafter, Negroes who aquire skills will be assigned to positions where their specialties may be applied in the manner most useful to the Army."

Gray said he soon would appoint a board of senior Army officers to review and reexamine "the fundamental policies for the utilization of Negro manpower in the light of changing conditions and experiences." Similiar boards will be appointed from time to time in the future, he said.

Reenlistments For All Curbed

The Army declared also that under a new policy reenlistments of all soldiers has been limited to those who during their first "hitch" qualify for promotion to private first class, if single, and for corporal, if married. These promotions are made without regard to vacancies.

This policy, it was pointed out, will eventually eliminate all those —Negro and white—who fail to demonstrate the capacity to advance.

Gray said he had discussed the new policy with Charles Fahy, chairman of the President's Committee on Equality of Treatment and Opportunity in the Armed Forces. However, officials of the Fahy Committee here did not know anything about the new plan until after it was released to the pres.

By Veterans

Proposed DP Bills Attacked

Two of the Nation's largest veterans organizations yesterday opposed a broader displaced persons law.

Gen. John T. Taylor told a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee the American Legion opposes liberalizing the law because it would provide an "avenue of entry" for subversive elements.

John C. Williamson, assistant director of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, testified that his organization objects to competition of DP's for scarce jobs and housing.

Both veterans organizations called for a return to the strict enforcement of the quota system of immigration.

The subcommittee is studying a number of DP bills, one of which, approved by the House, would raise from 205,000 to 339,000 the number of DP's who could enter this country during the next three years.

Democratic leader Scott W. Lucas (Ill.) has served notice he will move to discharge the committee and bring the House bill before the Senate. He has advised Chairman Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), now on a tour of Europe, that he should be back next week because he may bring up his discharge petition then.

7 Men Indicted For Smuggling Arms to Israel

Los Angeles, Sept. 30 (AP).—The United States attorney's office announced today that seven men have been indicted on charges of smuggling approximately two million dollars worth of military equipment to Israel during the war between the Jews and Arabs.

Herschel Champlin, assistant United States attorney, said a Wilmington, Calif. ,yacht owner, Ieland Robert Lewis, 26, furnished some of the information on which the Federal grand jury indictments were based. Champlin said Lewis told of being forced at gun point on May 30, 1948, to transport 15 tons of machine guns, machine gun mounts, ammunition and other equipment on his yacht Idalia.

"They made me sail the cargo to Acapulco, Mexico, where it was unloaded and consigned to Palestine by ship and plane," Lewis was quoted. "I never received any money from them except $1700 for damages done to my yacht."

Champlin said the defendants are charged with conspiring to export arms and ammunition without a State Department permit. He said those indicted are Henry Bellows, 56, Santa Monica, Calif., writer who was arrested on his yacht last night; Lawrence C. Ives, president of the Western Ordnance Co., New York City; Lloyd Rosenblum, president of Hays Isham Co., an export-import firm, New York; Herman Greenspur, Las Vegas, Nev., publicity man, and three seamen, Al Elliott, Nat Ratner and Jake Fuchs, also known as Jacob Fouks.

New York Man Named to U. S. Post in Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 30 (AP). Appointment of Edwin Allan Lightner, jr., of New York City, as deputy director of the office of political affairs for the American high commission in Germany was announced today.

Lightner has been associate chief of the State Department's division of central European affairs in Washington.

The high commission also announced these other appointments to the political affairs office:

Bernard Gulfler of Lawrence, Kan., chief of the foreign relations division; Russell W. Benton of Buffalo, N. Y., chief of the travel control section; William W. Schott of Leavenworth, Kans., chief of the protocol division; Kenneth Dayton of Plymouth, Conn., chief of the internal politeal and governmental division; Marshall M. Vance of Middletown, Ohio, supervising consul general; Thomas D. Johnson of Lake Odessa, Mich., chief of the civil aviation division.

Arrive in New York

New York, Sept. 30 (NYHT).—Warren Oelsner, 20, of Oyster Bay, L. I., and Peter Sellers, 19, of Radnor, Pa., college students who bicycled into the Soviet zone of Germany, arrived here this afternoon after spending two months in Russian-manned German jails.

The students were released by the Russians September 28.

Steps Ordered To Make State Of West Berlin

Bonn, Germany, Sept. 30 (AP).—Parliament instructed the German federal government today to "undertake the necessary steps" with the Allied High Commission to make western Berlin the twelfth state of the West German republic.

The proposal also said Berlin "in the future" shall be Germany's capital.

Parliament also voted to urge the Western powers to stop the dismantling and removal of German factories earmarked for reparations.

[In Berlin, the United States high commissioner's office announced today that Jews and other residents of the American occupation zone who had been persecuted by the Nazis could claim payment for damage "to life and limb, health, liberty, possessions, property or economic advancement." The United Press said previously victims could claim remuneration only for "restitution of identifiable tangible and intangible property."]

Separation Revealed By Gov. Stevenson

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 30 (AP).—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, 48, said today he and his wife have separated and that he will not contest a divorce.

In a statement issued by his office here, the Governor said:

"I am deeply distressed that due to the incompatibility of our lives Mrs. Stevenson feels a separation is necessary.

"Although I do not believe in divorce, I will not contest it. We have separated with the highest mutual regard."

Berlin 'Lift Ends Ahead Of Schedule

Berlin, Sept. 30 (AP).—The record-breaking airlift to Berlin ended fittingly tonight—a month ahead of schedule.

Its last plane to Berlin skimmed onto a Tempelhof Airport runway at 8:34 p. m. (1:34 p. m. EST). The historic aerial bridge to the once blockaded four-power city moved into the past.

The big C-54, No. 7 on the rolls, carried news correspondents from Frankfurt and 2½ tons of coal.

Officials had decided that sufficient winter stockpiles of fuel and supplies would be on hand in Berline by October 31, the target date for ending the lift. Airmen heaped up the necessary stockpile a full 30 days ahead of time.

Tonight's final flight was the last of more than 275,000 since June 26, 1948, the day the Allies set out to break the Russian blockade of Berlin. The blockade was lifted 11 months later.

From a low of 80 tons the first day of the lift, the cargo planes of the British and American air forces grew to a peak last Easter when nearly 13,000 tons of supplies were taken to Berlin in 1398 flights over a 24-hour stretch.

As of September 27, approximately 2,323,738 tons of cargo had been delivered.

The airlift cost the lives of 31 Americans, 39 Britons and 7 German civilians.

The Air Force reported two months ago the American efforts had cost more than $255,600,000. The British figure was $34,400,000.

Laggard Area Aid Backed as Money-Saver

Congress was asked yesterday to approve President Truman's "Point Four" program to help underdeveloped areas abroad as a money-saver and a hedge against the spread of communism.

Nelson Rockefeller, former coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, told the House Committee on Foreign Affairs that foreign trade has brought postwar prosperity but "we cannot go on indefinitely subsidizing our exports by giving away dollars."

By enabling the underdeveloped nations to raise their standards of living and levels of productivity, he said, the United States will create new markets for its goods.

Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing said the so-called world "co-op" program would keep down social unrest that might lead to communism.

"The bill recognizes that health, education and social stability are fundamental to any sound program of economic development," he said.

The House Committee is considering a bill to authorize the Government to spend 35 million dollars providing technical assistance and American "know-how" on social and economic programs in backward areas.

Nationalize Whisky, Scot Urges Commons

London, Sept. 30 (AP).—A Scottish member of the House of Commons demanded today that the Labor government nationalize whisky.

Laborite Emrys Hughs said he will take the matter up with Prime Minister Clement Attlee when Parliament reconvenes October 18.

3 Berlin Chiefs Plan Steps on Pact Violation

Berlin, Sept. 30 (U.P.).—The three Western commandants of Berlin are considering "retaliatory measures" against the Russians for refusal to abide by the agreement that ended the recent railway strike, a spokesman announced today.

The commandants met for two hours to study the Russian refusal, but the spokesman declined to say specifically what decisions had been made.

The Soviet stand prompted the Western commanders on Wednesday to suspend Four-Power talks on restoring unity in Berlin as ordered by the recent Paris Foreign Ministers' conference.

Russians Release 2 U. S. Soldiers Seized Sept. 25

Vienna, Sept. 30 (U.P.).—U. S. Army officials tonight announced that the Russians had released two American soldiers held in the Soviet zone since September 25.

They identified the GIs as Corpl. John McGuire of Philadelphia and Pfc. Lawrence E. Viture of Hopedale, Ohio.

McGuire and Viture reported they had not been questioned by the Russians, had been well treated and given good food.

Earlier Russian officials admitted they were holding three other American soldiers, but insisted they were in the Soviet zone "of their own free will and accord."

American officials said they have not been allowed to talk to the three men, two of whom were identified as Porter Pontillio of Cleveland, Ohio, and Carl Rhumko of Grass Valley, Calif.

First Soviet A-Blast Set Off Last November, Exile Says

Milan, Italy, Sept. 30 (U.P.).—Vassili Ivanovitch, who claims to have seen Russia's "atomgrad," said today the first atomic explosion in the Soviet Union occurred in November, 1948, in the barren mountainous area of Tannu Tuva at the border between Siberia and Inner Mongolia.

A former Cominform agent, Ivanovitch fled to Italy last year and has lived in disguise since in fear of reprisals.

Ivanovitch said the main Russian automic city is in Soviet Armenia, about 45 miles west of Evitan.

Atomic establishments in Russia, Ivanovitch said, are roughly divided into four groups, with the main work going on at "Atomgrad" No. 1.

Research and experiments are carried out in large underground laboratories, he said. Personnel number at least 72,000, working in three shifts.

Gallows Sentence Commuted for Woman

London, Sept. 30 (U.P.).—The Home Secretary today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Mrs. Margaret Williams, the British women's army private, who stabbed to death her "husband in name only" during a quarrel in Austria.

Mrs. Williams, 21, was supposed to hang October 11. Testimony at her trial showed that she had contracted a "kissless marriage" with Sergt. Maj. Monty Williams and that his objections to her women friends led to many quarrels.

Wife Cleared In Killing

she tried to reclaim it, Maxwell struck her to the ground, kicked her and tore her blouse off, she testified.

She hailed a passing car for help, but Maxwell acted as though "he wanted to right the wrong," she testified.

Mrs. Maxwell said she then ran into the front vestibule of their home and tried to hold the door closed while ringing for someone to open an inner door, which was locked.

Maxwell forced his way through the outer door, she testified, and took her by the left hand. "He was cursing and made a grab for me," she testified.

Mrs. Maxwell then recalled picking up a milk bottle and striking her husband twice. She said she did not remember breaking the bottle.

Asked if her husband was drunk, Mrs. Maxwell said he was "staggering."

She further testified that she had been treated at Fort Belvoir Hospital in July for a broken vertebra, the result of a beating her husband had given her.

Corporal Levi G. Hedglin testified he lived at the same house with the Maxwells. His version of their return from the NCO Club was this:

He was in his second-floor room reading when the doorbell rang. He answered, to discover the two Maxwells standing in the vestibule.

Maxwell had his arms down at his side.

"The next thing I knew, she swung with the milk bottle," he testified, referring to Mrs. Maxwell.

Mrs. Maxwell struck her husband on the jaw and then on the head.

When the bottle broke with the second blow, Hedglin said, he closed the door so he wouldn't be hit by flying glass.

Then he went back upstairs and resumed his reading, he testified.

A few minutes later, he heard Mrs. Maxwell cry "Levi."

He rushed downstairs and opened the door, where he saw Mrs. Maxwell "with a horrified look on her face."

She tried to cut her own throat with a piece of glass, he testified, but he took it away from her.

Mrs. Maxwell told him to "keep the traffic moving," he said.

Police testified they found Maxwell's body near the sidewalk in front of the house.

Called as a defense witness also, Hedglin admitted that when he opened the front door to let the couple in the house the first time, Maxwell had "a fighting look on his face."

Coroner John A. Sims testified that death was due to loss of blood from a 3½-inch cut on the left side of Maxwell's neck. It pierced three major blood vessels and was apparently caused by "a heavy blow," Dr. Sims testified.

Mrs. Maxwell's attorney, Walter I. Young, objected when police asked to enter in the record a statement in the defendant's handwriting.

He questioned whether the statement had been signed voluntarily, so Judge William P. Woolls ruled it out.

At one point, the prosecution attempted to prove that Maxwell had taken out a $10,000 life insurance policy shortly before his death. The defense objected that such testimony was directed at first, rather than, second degree murder.

When the defense moved for a mistrial, Judge Woolls directed that it be withdrawn and instructed the jury to disregard testimony about insurance.

Master Sergt. Lorenzo D. King testified that he had driven the Maxwells home from the NCO club about 11:15 p. m. They argued, he said, but "everything seemed to be patched up" before he left them.

Corporal James Schwartz, an instructor at Fort Belvoir, testified Maxwell sometimes came to class with the "smell of alcohol on his breath." King had testified that Maxwell had been drinking the night of his death.

Coal For Virginia

Virginia's Governor Tuck has responded firmly, if somewhat emotionally, to the threat to the public interest posed by the coal stoppage. In the unique jargon of John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers, the stoppage is the result of a "no-day" work week rather than a strike, and Virginia's right-to-work labor law technically does not apply. Nonetheless, Mr. Tuck has found authority in his inherent powers as Governor and in the powers granted him as director of civilian defense to reactivate the Emergency Fuels Commission and provide the coal to "keep Virginia warm."

Mr. Tuck's position would be more dignified if he had not descended to the level of personal invective in his declaration of emergency. His blast at the "tyrannical action of a single union labor leader" departs from the nonpartisan stand expected of a State Governor in labor disputes. Nevertheless, there can be little quarrel with Governor Tuck's intent to protect the innocent victims of the stoppage of a vital fuel.

Indeed, the action has been taken in anticipation of, rather than in consequence of, an actual emergency. Presumably Virginia's supplies of available coal are no less adequate than those of most States. What Governor Tuck has done is to provide a means of establishing priorities, as well as a means of using State highway employes to operate strip mines. Apparently it will be necessary for State employes to man the mines, for the district president of the United Mine Workers has asserted that no union members will return to the pits until a contract is signed with the coal operators.

Protection for the public against cessation of necessary services such as utilities has been guaranteed in the Virginia strike law, which requires notification of intent to strike, a period of arbitration, and if that fails, State direction, with the private company forfeiting its profits during the period of State operation. That portion of the Virginia labor law ought to be reappraised in light of the charges of repression originally made against it, for its application has been generally beneficial. Mr. Lewis, however, has found a way to thwart the law by not declaring his strikes as such. Under such circumstances, Governor Tuck has chosen the only alternative for discharging his responsibility to the people as a whole, and the Virginia example commends itself to use by other States.

Loyal Employes

The astonishing thing about the statistics released by the Loyalty Review Board is not that 102 persons have been dismissed from the Federal service on grounds of disloyalty, but that the number is so infinitesimal. Of more than two million employes screened, only 10,000 have come before regional loyalty boards. This is something less than one half of 1 percent. Some workers have been absolved, some have left the Government of their own volition, and 1098 cases remain to be adjudicated by the top loyalty board, but the number of actual firings constitutes only .005 percent of the total Federal employment. These figures are both a testimonial to the loyalty of the overwhelming proportion of Federal workers and a rebuke to the frenetic sensationmongers who repeat the slander that the Government is infested with Communists.

The job of loyalty boards within the definitions of the President's executive order is an indescribably delicate one. That order quite properly is directed against the undeniable security risk that does exist in the Communist spy network; but its terms of reference include not only positive acts of disloyalty, but also possible acts and even sympathetic association with potentially subversive elements. Inevitably such indefinite criteria bring with them a considerable invasion of freedom of conscience and even of the right of nonconformity. It is to the credit of the loyalty boards that, with a few notorious exceptions, they have avoided both hysterical inquisitions and prefabricated decisions.

Aside from the few pending cases, most of the work of loyalty boards now will be confined to new employes. A good deal remains to be desired in the determination procedure—for example, accused employes ought to be accorded the right to see the evidence against them, and the jobs requiring investigation ought to be narrowed to those that are truly sensitive. But in any case, the report of the loyalty board certainly indicates that it is time to end the wholly disproportionate emphasis which "disloyalty" has received.

The Common Interest

The immediate issue between the steel disputants is what kind of social security system shall prevail in the steel industry. But the size and importance of the industry is such that what steel does will greatly affect other industries. And that in turn will have a tremendous impact upon the national Social Security system on which the vast majority of workers in the less favored industries are dependent. The repercussions of the steel dispute are unmistakably plain in the renewed efforts of the Ways and Means Committee to dislodge the Social Security bill from the Rules Committee of the House.

A larger measure of social security is the strongest demand put forward today by organized labor. It is highly desirable, in our opinion, that this demand be met insofar as it is economically feasible. But it is also important that it be met by means that have been proved to be fair and practicable—that is to say, by a national contributory system. John L. Lewis' fly-by-night welfare fund has given point to the danger of setting up private noncontributory pension schemes with nothing more behind them than a temporary levy on production that is subject to constant bickering between unions and employers. To build up more pension schemes of this sort would merely delude workers into a false sense of security while preventing the orderly development of genuine social security for the entire Nation.

Most of the present difficulty arises, however, with employers, not employes. Employers set up numerous noncontributory old-age pension plans during and immediately after the war when wages were frozen and labor was scarce. These were temporary expedients to enable employers to hold their workers. Since big companies were doing war work, outlays for pensions could be added to costs of operation, which the Government was paying. Now they are reaping the whirlwind. Unions are demanding that the employers pay the full cost of peacetime old-age pension plans. This is contrary to every principle of human psychology, as well as to the public interest. The trend has been dangerously strengthened by the agreement of the Ford Motor Co. guaranteeing to employes retiring at 65 after 30 years of service pensions which, added to their Federal Security benefits, will equal $100 a month.

All this activity is creating a powerful pressure against liberalization of the Social Security system because the latter plan necessitates increased contributions from employes as well as from employers. The House bill would gradually step up the social security taxes on both employers and workers from the present 1 percent to a maximum of 3¼ percent in 1970. The coverage of the present system would also be greatly extended. Clearly the realization of this plan for general security of workers is likely to be thwarted if a few big unions succeed in imposing on certain segments of industry special pension plans for the benefit of their members alone. This fact seems to have been overlooked by the President's fact-finding board, and that may be one reason for the lukewarm attitude of the President toward its recommendations. For Mr. Truman is definitely on record for extension of the present Social Security system, and he cannot be expected to look with enthusiasm upon drives for private pension schemes that cut directly athwart the Administration's plan.

Some industries can undoubtedly afford to supplement the benefits made available to workers in general by governmental action. In these cases private pension plans to which employers and employes contribute may well be encouraged. But the primary public interest certainly lies in giving additional security to all workers, and this can be done only when the basic security system is divorced from the vicissitudes of individual employers. Even the members of big powerful unions who are able to extort from their employers noncontributory pensions ought to realize the value of having their pension rights transferable from one employer to another.

The Steelworkers Union ought to consider the long-range interests of its own members and other workers arising from the extension of the Social Security system that is already in operation. It has chosen a poor issue for a test of strength. It would be an act of statesmanship on the part of the President to point out these considerations. Meanwhile Congress could help greatly by enacting, in satisfactory form, the long-delayed bill to increase the benefits and extend the coverage of the Federal Security system.

Force And Violence

Senator John Foster Dulles, who has never been charged, even by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, with membership in any organization which advocates the overthrow of the Government by force and violence, indulged in some rather remarkable advocacy Thursday in the heat of his campaign for election to the Senate. Attacking his opponent, former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman as "blind" to the dangers of communism and oblivious of the trend to an all-powerful state, he quoted Thomas Jefferson on the need for occasional revolutions and then said:

> I don't believe that we need to have a violent revolution, certainly not today. The people still have it in their power peacefully to check this thing, but if we don't do it and do it soon, we will have to fight our way back, as Thomas Jefferson said, through revolution.

We presume that very few Americans desire an authoritarian welfare state but that a great many Americans desire a state of welfare. They have a long-entrenched habit of deciding how to achieve what they want by ballots instead of bullets. Presumably they will decide the senatorial contest in New York in precisely this traditional way. If Senator Dulles really means that a bloody revolution will be necessary in case they decide in a way of which he disapproves, perhaps he had better join the little group now in the dock of a Federal District Court in New York. They, he may remember, are the ones who keep insisting that change can't be achieved peacefully because men like Mr. Dulles are sure to resist it by force.

Displaced Persons

The bill to liberalize displaced persons legislation, passed by the House last June and bottled up ever since then by Senator McCarran's Judiciary Subcommittee, is scheduled to come before the Senate next week. Amendment of the existing law is imperative because, as adopted by the Eightieth Congress, it is not only meanly inadequate but discriminatory on religious grounds. Thus it leaves an ugly stain upon the statute books of the United States.

It is officially estimated that 65 percent of the displaced persons are Catholics, 20 percent are Jews, 15 percent are Protestants. The law as adopted by the Eightieth Congress deliberately restricted the immigration of Catholic and Jewish DPs. For one thing, it declared refugees ineligible if they entered Germany, Austria or Italy after December 22, 1945, automatically barring 130,000 persons, 81,000 of whom were Jews fleeing the postwar Polish pogroms, and a majority of the rest Catholics. For another thing, the law gave a 40 percent absolute preference to the predominantly Protestant Baltic States. For still another, the law contained an administratively unworkable provision that 30 percent of all visas must be issued to farmers—a provision patently aimed at Jews whose confinement to European urban ghettos denied them agricultural experience.

These discriminatory devices are removed in the bill passed by the House. For those who, like Senator McCarran, argue that the existing law cannot be called discriminatory because Catholics and Jews constitute a majority of the DPs so far admitted under it, there is a simple answer. Catholic and Jewish philanthropic agencies were naturally better prepared than Protestant groups to facilitate the immigration of DPs because most of those desiring admission belonged to these two faiths. As a result, Catholics and Jews came in disproportionate numbers among the earlier arrivals. But the percentage of Jewish DPs coming into this country has been dropping steadily and very sharply. The percentage of Catholics has been far below what it ought to be; 44 percent of those admitted as compared with 65 percent of the DP total. As time goes on, the discrimination against these two groups is certain to become even more marked.

The bill to come before the Senate, in addition to erasing discrimination, would raise the total of DPs to be admitted from 205,000 in two years to 339,000 in three years. There are elaborate security precautions to determine that no one shall be admitted who has ever been a Communist, Nazi or Fascist. There need be no fear that they will promote unemployment; most of them will go into labor shortage areas and occupations and, in any case, will add only a minor fraction of one percent to the American labor force; the AFL, the CIO, and many independent unions have indorsed the bill.

Nor need there be any fear that the United States is doing more than its share under the International Refugee Organization's program. This country still lags far behind both Israel and England, with their much smaller resources, areas and populations, in the number of DPs received. The liberation promised five years ago to these earliest and most pitiful victims of the Nazi terror has already been far too long withheld. It is time for the promise to be fulfilled.

Attacking Syphilis

An impressive array of community leadership has been marshaled for the Washington campaign against venereal disease beginning today. The success of the recent chest X-ray drive as a means of checking tuberculosis has led the District Health Department to sponsor a citizens' committee to attack syphilis and gonorrhea on a city-wide scale. The task is difficult, for venereal diseases traditionally have been regarded as unmentionable. Prudery is VD's greatest ally. Some 20,000 cases of venereal disease occur yearly in Washington, and the damage to the health and lives of men and women and their families is appalling. Yet proper penicillin treatment could cure many cases and arrest the disease in others. The job of the committee is twofold: To bring about wider recognition of the diseases and their consequences, and to overcome the reliance on nostrums and the reluctance to obtain medical treatment. Employers can cooperate by seeing that information on VD reaches all their employes. One Washington medical authority has stated that we could wipe out syphilis in a week if we could get the cooperation of all the victims. That possibility alone ought to be sufficient to make the attack on this scourge a real community project.

A. & P. Suit

By desperately needed savings on good food, the A. & P. saved six well and three sick members of my household from destitution during two years of the depression.

How revolting it is to me to watch well-stuffed bureaucrats in Washington "crack down" on this enterprise for the essential reason that it is modern in method and efficient!

Surely there must be some in Washington who can remember the sorry state of the food business 30 years ago, when the corner grocer worked 70-80 hours a week for peanuts, and was, with the public, the helpless prey of an innumerable horde of middlemen and brokers. He was irresponsible if food he dispensed was contaminated or poisonous, and his store was never really clean and his stock was seldom fresh.

Why did the Attorney General falsely imply that the A. & P. had gained business at the expense of others, rather than lost over the past 10 years? Does he not know that A. & P., that any food seller grown so large and responsible, will always have competition from the many who will sell poorer foods for as little or less and the few who will always get higher prices for extra attentions and services, such as deliveries?

PAUL H. HEDRICK.
Larchmont, N. Y.

Poor, dear old A. & P.! When retribution strikes, how pitiful are the wails of the mighty! And by means of entire pages in newspapers throughout the land (how dare they squander their stockholders' and the company's assets so!) they sobbingly cry out the old, old story of purity defiled, of an undeserved martyrdom.

My answer is—praise to the Department of Justice. Let them strike swift and hard and sure in the name of an antimonopolistic America and help preserve the worth, the dignity, the opportunity—all the meaning heretofore connoted in the term America so that the word will not come merely to mean an impersonal cog in a mechanical machine. "Recognition"

Your editorial of September 27, "Recognition," which treats of United States relations with Spain, is a gem of shabby thinking and loose terminology.

You state as a conclusion that United States friendship with Spain is not desirable under present conditions. Though many differ with you on this point it is not important. But it is important that an editorial writer base his conclusions on a sound factual basis which he treats in a logical manner.

As one of the premises for your conclusion, you state: ". . . it cannot be ignored that the persecution of Protestants in Spain is reported to be just as bad as the persecution of Catholics behind the iron curtain." Two phrases in that statement are interesting, "it is reported" and "just as bad."

"It is reported" is a familiar journalistic device to avoid responsibility in reporting the news. But you put it to a different use. You appear willing to accept it as true, publicize it and what is more important make it an argument for your conclusion that Protestants are treated as badly in Spain as Catholics in the Balkans. You are using the well known "argument from authority."

Such an argument derives its whole force from its author. It stands or falls with him depending on his knowledge of all the facts and his impartiality in evaluating them. Is it unfair to ask: Who is doing the reporting? Who is your anonymous authority? I must admit that lately I did read such an assertion but the source was so patently anti-Catholic it could hardly qualify as a quotable authority.

The phrase "just as bad" makes your premise a broad one and an exact one. I admit it is rather difficult of proof, but why make it and then fail to prove it? You do not simply say that conditions are bad for Catholics in the Balkans and for Protestants in Spain. You institute a comparison and conclude they are "just as bad." No proof is given, just the bald statement which has as its authority "it is reported." It is hard for an intelligent person to take such a line of reasoning seriously.

Chinese Students

The best persons to give truthful information to the Chinese people and tell them what to do are the Chinese students abroad. They are the best educated and enjoy the greatest prestige at home. They used to be and still are leaders of that country.

There were more than 3000 Chinese students in this country last year. But, because of the recent financial difficulties, more are going home than are coming here.

Besides, the Chinese Reds are sparing no effort to call back these students. They obviously do not want non-Communist students staying abroad. They are afraid that these students will tell true stories of the world to their friends and relatives at home and spoil the Red control of thought.

Circular letters and periodicals are being distributed among the Chinese students to give the news of Red achievements in China, the happiness of Red workers, and the poisonous effect of American education. Recruiting centers for the "returned students" are functioning publicly in Hongkong and secretly in New York, Boston, Chicago and San Francisco.

Hundreds of American-educated Chinese students have gone back to Red China in the past few months. This is due mostly to the Red effort in propaganda. But the Reds may also thank us for our neglect of duty.

"The Russian Bomb"

I have just been enjoying your September 24 editorial page. There is no better man in the business than your Herblock. That Robinson Crusoe cartoon really hits.

As for your lead editorial, the enjoyment is mixed. When in paragraph three you talk about a "healthy shock to those persons who have been concentrating on secrecy," etc. you have said a good mouthful. Why then emasculate the words by paragraph two, to the effect that one bomb is not really production and that it is "unlikely" that the Russians have a gaseous diffusion process? You don't know that they have just one bomb. You don't really know anything about it. If we're speaking of "health" lets be healthy all the way and base our hard thinking on the assumption of a real contender.

Broader Social Security

May I add my voice of approval to a letter in your issue of September 26, written by Mr. Charles L. Stout? I agree with Mr. Stout that the public must rise up and demand action from our Representatives and Senators for improvement of the Social Security Act. I firmly believe, that had our Congress taken action in keeping with the original intent of the Social Security Act, the present crisis in coal, steel and the automobile industry could have been averted.

In 1946 James Carey of the CIO warned a House committee that unless Congress took action on expanding social security the very crisises that are now happening would occur. But Congress chose to ignore this warning.

About three years ago Congress saw fit to pass a pension act for its own benefit. Recently I have learned that there are now 47 former Congressmen drawing pensions which range from $1875 to as much as $7040 annually.

The large labor organizations may be able to institute pension plans in a few large industries. But there are millions of persons, organized and unorganized alike whom it will be impossible to cover by these special industry plans. The present Congress should act without delay and pass a realistic Social Security Act for the benefit of all the people. ROY I. HAINES.
Hagerstown, Md.

Too Many Eggs

The Wall Street Journal, in a special article reports that the Government has over 12,000 tons of powdered eggs stored away in caverns for which there is no sale (the eggs, that is). These eggs were purchased to keep up market prices, and the subsidy program still goes merrily on, much to the disgust of heavily taxed consumers.

Would it not be a simple solution if the Government were to purchase the hens instead of the eggs? There would be a ready market for the hens, and overproduction of eggs would automatically cease. Furthermore, the harassed taxpayer would then be able to get a chicken dinner at a reasonable price on account of the increased supply. If the farmer should refuse to sell his hens, there is remedy for that too—cut off the egg subsidy. PATRICK J. MURPHY.

"Defense Of A Smear"

Reference is made to the second paragraph of your September 26 editorial, "Defense of a Smear."

After reading the Strategic Bombing Survey, one wonders why at this time so much emphasis is laid on that phase of prosecuting a war. At best, the effect of strategic bombing in the last war was mainly one of a terror weapon—its few major contributions were largely accidental. This is not to argue against a 70-group Air Force. This is an argument against a philosophy of war that hopes that no one will get hurt (on our side). This is somewhat fallacious, as the history of war proves.

The evidence in the Pacific war indicates that the Japanese were beaten before the atomic bomb by submarine's sinking transport ships and by the tactical air power of the Navy.

Perhaps the high brass has more facts than have been released—if so, why release those that argue otherwise? Strategy, of necessity, incorporates the developments in tactics.

Animal Poisonings

In recent days a mass poisoning of dogs and cats in the Oak and Brown sts. vicinity nw. has been going on. So far, seven dogs and at least three cats have perished.

This systematic and organized murder seems to be the work of a neighborhood sadist whose identity is about to be discovered. Several of the dead dogs' owners have called the Washington Humane Society whose investigators are working on the case.

I think it is my duty to give publicity to this malicious undertaking so that other dog and cat owners may take all necessary precautions to protect their pets. L. V.

Washington Calling

Court Continuity

TWO DEATHS have altered the Supreme Court that meets for the fall term. Two justices are gone who contributed very greatly to the status and the prestige of the court. It is possible that the importance of their contribution will be better understood and more deeply appreciated with the passage of time.

Former Attorney General Tom C. Clark will occupy the seat of the late Justice Frank Murphy. When he is confirmed by the Senate, Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Sherman Minton will take the place of the late Justice Wiley Rutledge.

Reports have been printed that Justice Stanley F. Reed has been ailing and will perhaps retire. According to his office, there is no foundation for these reports and a news story saying he had been under prolonged treatment at Duke University Hospital in Durham, N. C., was inaccurate. The justice, his office says, had a checkup at Duke early in the summer and then staved on there playing golf and using the university's law library.

Justice Reed has been on the court for nearly 12 years, being second in length of service only to Justice Hugo Black. He is 65 years old. The law provides that justices may retire at full salary of $20,000 a year after 10 years of service, provided they are 70 years old or unable for reasons of health to perform their duties.

IN A SENSE it is a new court, dominated by the judges named by President Truman. There has been harsh criticism of the Truman appointments, much of it obviously motivated by politics.

It seems to me that the most severe judgment that can be passed on the President in his reshaping of the court is the same judgment that applies in other fields. That is to say he has not gone beyond his immediate circle to give to this highest institution of our judiciary a greater breadth of vision.

The judgment applies with special force to the court since in popular esteem, even though at times the facts have shown to the contrary, it is above politics. In naming Oliver Wendell Holmes to the Supreme Court, Theodore Roosevelt went beyond the accepted and political to put on the court a judge of courage and imagination.

Both Rutledge and Murphy were in their own respective ways in the great tradition of Holmes. They hewed to the line of the rights of the individual, expressing in opinion and dissent the heritage of individual freedom so dearly won.

That was especially conspicuous in the years following the end of the war when most of us were still under the cloud of fear and hate and suspicion that comes out of such frightful conflict. Above all, in the cases of the so-called war criminals, appealed to the Supreme Court, they spoke courageously for the guarantees to the individual of justice under law.

THE UNIVERSITY of Chicago Press has published The Case of General Yamashita by Frank Reel. Yamashita was put on trial in Manila for the barbarous crimes committed by his troops in the Philippines. Reel was one of the American Army officers assigned to defend him.

The thesis of Reel's book is that the military trial of Yamashita was, in effect, a legal lynching. In other words, the general was punished for the vile deeds of his men over whom he might or might not have been able to exercise control.

The Supreme Court rejected the appeal of Yamashita's defense counsel by a vote of six to two. The two dissenters were Rutledge and Murphy, and there were indications that their dissents came after a bitter controversy within the court. Reel quotes frequently from those dissents. Charging that the majority of the court had overridden the due-process clause of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, Rutledge said:

"Not heretofore has it been held that any human being is beyond its universally protecting spread in the guaranty of a fair trial in the most fundamental sense. That door is dangerous to open. I will have no part in opening it. For once it is ajar, even for enemy belligerents, it can be pushed back wider for others, perhaps ultimately for all . . ."

This is in the great tradition of the court and of those judges who have made it an institution to be looked up to. In the troubled and uncertain time in which we are living that tradition and justices of the stamp of Rutledge and Murphy who carry it on, become all the more important.

U. E. Leftist Heads Facing Trial Oct. 11

By Communists

Fitzgerald Backed for Union Head

By Robert S. Allen

Albert J. Fitzgerald, head of the leftist-dominated CIO United Electrical Workers, is the Communist choice for president of the new labor federation they are plotting.

Fitzgerald

The Communists are counting on launching this organization with 11 leftist-ruled CIO unions. Largest are the UE, with 339,000 members, the Fur and Leather Workers with 100,000, and Harry Bridges' Longshoremen with 70,000. However, a considerable proportion of the seceding unions will not follow their leftist leaders into the new federation.

Fitzgerald is reported to have been selected for three reasons: because of his name, because he is not a party member although a firm leftist-line follower, and because he heads the largest Communist-dominated union.

Phil Murray and other CIO chiefs are planning their strategy in anticipation of the Communist bolt. The showdown will take place at the CIO convention in Cleveland, October 31. Fitzgerald, Bridges and other leftists will be kicked off the CIO executive board and lesser leaders will also be purged. Murray already has a strong majority lined up to put through his Communist-ouster program.

Note: John L. Lewis snortingly denies having anything to do with the projected leftist federation. A report claimed he was backing the scheme.

Lynn, Mass., Sept. 30 (U.P.)—Albert J. Fitzgerald, international president of the United Electrical Workers Union (CIO), and three of his left-wing supporters will go on trial October 11 before a committee of U. E. Local 201 for allegly flouting a mandate of their fellow members in the local.

Fitzgerald and his co-defendants are accused of voting for Fitzgerald's re-election in the recent National convention in Cleveland.

It was charged they were bound to vote for Frederick M. Kelley, local business agent, who was beaten by Fitzgerald. Kelley announced the trial date today.

Fitzgerald challenged the legality of the trial as well as the suspension of two defendants, Jerome Flynn and Leo Corcoran, from the local's executive committee. The fourth defendant is International Organizer Joseph Turkowski, also of Lynn.

Carey Lays Laxity To Leftwing Leaders

Schnectady, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP). James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, charges the left-wing leadership of the United Electrical Workers has "dragged its feet" in seeking benefits for workers.

"Our leadership," Carey said last night, "has contented itself with attacks on those unions that were willing enough to run the risks and go to bat for themselves and other CIO workers."

Carey, one of the UEW's right-wing leaders, spoke at a meeting of Local 301, which claims to represent 15,000 General Electric Co. employes.

Right wingers of the local asserted later they had won a "moral victory" when a motion to admit Carey and Frederick M. Kelley of Lynn, Mass., to be meeting was carried easily.

3 Nearer Atom Partnership

a few specific types of information to be kept secret;

2. Long-term assurance that all three countries can get uranium ore from the Belgian Congo, apportioned according to their needs; and

3. A joint three-power atomic program under which each country would do the kind of atomic development for which it is best fitted. This might mean, for example, that the United States would concentrate on atomic weapons, the British and the Canadians on atomic power plants, and all three, perhaps, on the production of fissionable materials.

Legislation Required

Such a three-power agreement would, of course, require legislation. President Truman promised last July that there would be ample consultation beforehand with the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy.

The likeliest steps appear now to be either (1) an amendment of the McMahon Act, which now forbids the exchange of atomic information, or (2) a joint congressional resolution granting broad new powers to the President.

Some Administration lawyers feel it would be technically possible to promote three-power cooperation without legislation, but Secretary of State Dean Acheson has already told the Joint Committee that, in his opinion, the only honest and straightforward course is to ask Congress for action.

Next Monday members of the Atomic Energy Commission expect to meet members of the joint committee, and may tell them informally what took place in the 3-power talks that ended their "first stage" yesterday.

To Make Formal Report

Later, probably week after next, the three executive agencies concerned—the State and Defense Departments and the Atomic Energy Commission—will make a formal report and probably will seek the committee's guidance as to the next moves.

At least two conclusions are clear already to officials who took part in the 3-power talks.

The first is that a continuance of the present system, or lack of system, is intolerable to all three countries concerned. The McMahon Act gravely hampers atomic development in Britain and Canada; it also deprives the United States of information and services it badly needs from British and Canadian scientists, who were among the pioneers in unlocking atomic energy. The present barriers to cooperation are causing a duplication and triplication of effort which not only wastes money but makes no political sense, especially in the light of the Soviet explosion.

The second broad conclusion is that half-way measures of cooperation are unworkable. An informal agreement early in 1948 marked out nine types of information that could legally be exchanged. Cautious lawyers, with their eyes on the letter of the McMahon Act, have whittled down the nine areas so that, in truth, cooperation among the three countries has come virtually to a full stop.

Forward or Backward

From now on, officials are convinced, the three countries can either go backward, to complete secrecy and independence of effort, or forward to full cooperation.

This is the choice which, according to all indications, the Administration will put before the Joint Congressional Committee and later before the two houses.

The Administration, naturally, regards the first choice as unthinkable, for it would cut across the Atlantic Pact and the new military assistance program, and might undermine cooperation in other fields. In time it might also jeopardize American access to the uranium of the Congo, to which Britain and Canada now have a 50-50 right with the United States.

The other course—of full cooperation and a three-way division of effort—will call for careful planning. If Congress recesses around November 1, as now planned, the new legislation probably cannot go to Congress in its final form until early in the next session.

Matter of Prestige

One obstacle, among many others, is that for prestige reasons neither Britain nor Canada wants to be formally forbidden to make atomic bombs. Neither one would like an agreement saying in effect, that the United States is the only one of the three with the technical skill and know-how to make the weapons.

With tactful handling, however, they probably would agree to an informal division of effort amounting to the same thing.

It will take time as well as tact to work out an agreement that will satisfy all three parties. The Administration is virtually ready to make the effort, and with all possible speed. The ultimate decision is up to Congress.

The communique yesterday said the officials of the three countries would meet again after each of the three governments had "considered" the results of the recent discussions. Those who met yesterday included Acting Secretary of State James E. Webb as chairman; the British and Canadian Ambassadors, Sir Oliver Franks and Hume Wrong; William Webster of the Department of Defense, and Sumner Pike, acting chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

McMahon Asks Crusade To Head Off Atom War

By the United Press

Chairman Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee yesterday called for the "greatest crusade for peace the world has ever known" to head off an atomic war.

At the same time, he urged that his committee be told how many atom bombs the United States has on tap.

He said it was vital for Congress to know the strength of its military forces, particularly in a field that can "determine the fate of civilization."

He made his "peace crusade" appeal on Mutual Broadcasting System's "Meet the Press" radio program.

Nelson arranged a meeting with the Soviet vice consul in San Francisco several days later and gave him an envelope or package, the report said.

The committee accused Weinberg of lying under oath when the scientist appeared before the House group in a closed-door session last year. The committee said Weinberg perjured himself in denying:

1. That he was a Communist Party member and attended "cell" meetings of the Young Communist League.

2. That he knew Steve Nelson. The committee has called Nelson a Communist espionage agent.

3. That he knew Nelson's secretary, Bernadette Doyle.

The committee also quoted testimony of James Sterling Murray, former atomic security officer, that he and two other Federal agents, posted on an apartment rooftop, witnessed an August 12, 1943, meeting in Weinberg's home at Berkeley, Calif., allegedly attended by Nelson, Doyle and four other persons.

The four others were described in the report as Giovanni Rossi Lomanitz, until recently a professor at Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.; David Bohm, now a physics professor at Princeton University; Irving David Fox, now a student and assistant instructor at the University of California, and Max Friedman, now Ken Max Manfred, who is studying for a doctor's degree at California.

The report said the committee had received testimony that Lomanitz was "the principal Communist Party organizer" and that committee records "reflect" that Bohm was "also a member of this cell."

The House committee first told its story of "Scientist X" a year ago, but withheld identification. In the intervening 12 months, after Weinberg denied being implicated, House spy hunters worked on their case against him.

In yesterday's report, the committee quoted from what it described as a report by unnamed intelligence agents regarding orders Nelson purportedly gave to Weinberg. This report said, in part:

"The instructions were that Weinberg should furnish Nelson with information concerning the atomic bomb project so that Nelson could, in turn, deliver it to the proper officials of the Soviet Government.

"Nelson told Weinberg all Communists engaged on the atomic bomb project should destroy their Communist Party membership books, refrain from using liquor and use every precaution regarding their espionage activities."

The committee said that was in March, 1943, and Weinberg then was employed in the radiation laboratory at the University of California, where experiments were going forward to perfect the A-bomb.

Weinberg denied yesterday he was "connected with the radiation laboratory project or any other secret project relating to atomic energy or the atomic bomb in March, 1943." At that time, he said, he had "no access to any such information or formulas."

Weinberg insisted his employment as a part-time consultant in the Berkeley radiation laboratory "did not commence until a later time" and declared:

"I have always been loyal to my country and I love and respect the principles to which it is dedicated."

New Contract Ends Strike At Goodrich

Dayton, Ohio, Sept. 30 (AP).—The B. F. Goodrich Co. and CIO United Rubber Workers signed a new contract today, ending a 34-day strike for 16,000 workers in seven States.

Goodrich Vice President J. W. Keener signed for the company and international representative Asa Tiller for the union.

Tiller said the new contract is subject to approval of the union's general executive board.

The new contract contains a "satisfactory pension and welfare program," Tiller told newsmen. It runs until February 1, 1951 but does not boost pay, he indicated. Employes will share increased pension costs, he added.

John L. Collyer, Goodrich president, said the costs of putting the new contract into operation would result in higher prices to users of Goodrich products.

Production workers in Goodrich plants in seven States were on strike August 27 when the old contract expired. They demanded pay raises of 25 cents an hour and $100-a-month company-paid pension. Their pay averaged $1.65 an hour.

A joint company-union statement said in part:

The contract continues the company's established employe insurance and annuity programs on a joint company and employe cost basis.

It also provides improvements in sickness and accident insurance and bolsters supplementary pension provisions for long-service workers whose retirement income under the regular program would be inadequate.

Other contract provisions included: Check-off, revised holiday pay and vacation programs and improved employe service credit rules.

The company estimated pension and insurance contributions, including all present costs, will be 10 cents per hour worked.

Draft on AEC Sparks Blast

make the decisions, he wrote.

McMahon promptly replied by letter to Knowland that the document was a draft only, in galley proof, not page form. It was put into print, he said, "not with any idea of finalizing it or to put it beyond your criticism or that of any other member."

Knowland, McMahon added, had apparently overlooked a letter of transmittal which accompanied the draft report when it was circulated confidentially to committee members.

That letter stated that the draft report was put into printed form, "solely for purposes of convenience in reading." It added that McMahon was convening the Joint Committee next Wednesday to consider adoption of the report.

Knowland said that in his 10 years of legislative experience he had never known of a report being prepared and put into type without prior consultation with the responsibility committee.

Frequent Practice

McMahon retorted, "I call your attention to the fact that circulating printed drafts, for convenience in reading, is a frequent practice of congressional committees."

McMahon said his draft report contained his ideas, and that of the committee vice chairman, Representative Carl T. Durham (D., N. C.), of what should be said about the inquiry into charges of "incredible mismanagement" on the part of the AEC.

The charge had been put forward by Hickenlooper, former chairman of the Joint Committee. He demanded that AEC Chief David E. Lilienthal should be made to resign.

McMahon declined to go into detail about the contents of his draft report. But, as was taken for granted, he said the report indicated:

"We need no change in the membership of the AEC. The commission is not guilty of the charges that have been leveled against them."

This would presumably also include a more recent charge of Hickenlooper that lax security practices of the AEC enabled the Russians to explode their first atomic bomb ahead of schedule.

Obviously, this exoneration does not accord with the views of Hickenlooper, Knowland and some other members of the Joint Committee. A rough fight is expected in that body when the report comes up for consideration.

Hickenlooper entered the fray himself yesterday with a letter of his own to McMahon. It complained that preparation of any report was premature.

He said that no report had been authorized and that, in fact, the investigation had not been completed. Only the public sessions had been terminated, he explained. He argued that other matters were still to be investigated in closed committee sessions.

Near Pensacola

Mystery Blast Rocks Two States

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 30 (U.P.)—A mystery blast in the Pensacola area sent tremors almost 100 miles into Alabama today. Hours afterward the mighty concussion had not been explained.

The strongest possibility appeared that an oversize bomb dropped by a military plane in practice set off the detonation.

Frightened residents called police and newspapers to ask if an earthquake had occurred, but no seismographs within 100 miles had recorded a shock.

The explosion rocked buildings, rattled windows and sent its echo reverberating about 11:45 a. m.

Almost a score of Navy and Air Force airfields dot the Pensacola area and there are numerous proving grounds for bomb drops.

Officers at Eglin Field, near Fort Walton 40 miles east of Pensacola, were uncertain whether any bombs dropped today could have caused the explosion felt as far away as Mobile, Ala., 90 miles west of Pensacola, and at Florala, Ala., 70 miles northeast of Pensacola.

They said 4000 pounders were dropped from time to time but usually did not create undue excitement.

Maj. Gen. W. E. Kepner, commanding general of the Air Proving Ground at Eglin, said the only 4000-pounders dropped today were dummies.

"From my check at the present time, we have eliminated any possibility of an extraordinary bomb explosion in our routine work," Kepner said.

Explosions Injure Six At Alabama Steel Plant

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 30 (AP).—A series of explosions, heard for miles, injured eight persons and damaged the coke plant at the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co.'s big Fairfield Steel Works today.

Four explosions were followed by fire which sent a column of smoke and flames more than 300 feet high.

(There was nothing to indicate any connection between the blasts here and those in Florida two hours earlier and 250 miles apart.)

Wild excitement at Fairfield brought anxious families of the 12,000 steel employes to the scene. Police roadblocks stopped them, and news that only eight were hurt, none seriously, sent them back home.

A company spokesman said the first blast, at 1:35 p. m. (CST), was in a tank at the benzol plant. At least one other tank blew up.

The steel plant was being readied for the expected strike of the CIO Steelworkers at midnight.

Taft-Hartley Clause Asked for Pineapples

By The Associated Press

Senator Morse (R., Oreg.) urged the Administration yesterday to invoke emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law in the dispute between Hawaiian longshoremen and employers.

He told the Senate that violence broke out this week at The Dalles, Oreg., when an attempt was made to unload a cargo of pineapple from Hawaii which the CIO longshoremen's union declared to be "hot cargo."

Morse denounced "the jungle law of economic force. He said the violence that has already taken place in the 153-day strike is sufficient cause for the Federal Government to move in immediately and try to bring the parties together.

The 2000 longshoremen are demanding an increase in pay from $1.40 to $1.72 an hour.

tive to all questions under discussion."

Fairless said "these proposals of the union clearly indicate its unwillingness to attempt in good faith to reach a fair and reasonable settlement. They were the only proposals made by the union during the entire negotiations which started last Friday."

Even before the midnight deadline, some 25,000 union men walked out of plants yesterday.

Negotiations between the union and many of the 53 steel companies involved in the dispute came to a standstill early yesterday.

All eyes then turned on Pittsburgh, where Federal mediators sought desperately a last-minute formula for peace between U. S. Steel, the Nation's largest steel producer, and the Steelworkers.

Late last night, however, Willian N. Margolis, trouble-shooting ace of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, told newsmen in Pittsburgh that "for all practical purposes, the strike is now on."

After hours of discussions with union and Big Steel leaders, and in the face of jump-the-gun walkouts and picketing, Margolis gloomily commented: "Our job now appears to be to settle a strike."

Throughout the Nation, the steel-making plants began shutting down yesterday. At Sparrows Point, Md., where Bethlehem has 23,500 employes—all but 4500 belonging to the Steelworkers Union — operations preparatory to a strike were begun Wednesday: coke ovens were banked, blast furnaces turned off, open hearth and Bessemer converters shut down.

The walkout is the second Nation-wide steel strike since the end of the war. The first, a month-long stoppage in 1946, was over wages. The second is over a principle.

The union insists that the steel industry provide its workers with a social insurance and pension program, the cost to be borne entirely by employers.

The companies are equally firm in insisting employes share, at least in part, in the cost of any welfare program.

U. S. Steel, pattern-setter for the industry, has offered up to 10 cents per hour per worker for social insurance and pensions, but only if the employes contribute too.

A fact-finding committee, set up by the President, recently recommended that the union withdraw its demand for a 12½-cent-an-hour wage increase, and that, on its part, the industry provide for a maximum of 10 cents in welfare benefits, with employers financing all of the program.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO and of the million-member steelworkers, immediately accepted the recommendations and has demanded the steel industry do likewise. The companies have argued that the fact-finders' report was a recommendation to be used as a basis for further bargaining. It was not a binding award, they said.

The principle of noncontributory pensions was accepted earlier this week by Ford, thereby averting a strike of CIO United Auto Workers.

The action by Ford puts extra pressure on the steel companies to settle the dispute on similar terms.

On the other hand, the steelworkers also are handicapped as they undertake a strike. With John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers on strike at the soft coal pits for an indefinite period, there is less urgency on the part of the steel makers to end the controversy. It takes more than a ton of bituminous coal to make a ton of steel.

Lewis, among other things, wants to increase the present 20-cent-a-ton welfare fund, built on the noncontributory principle. Those steel companies owning their own coal mines were forced by Lewis to accept the principle shortly after the war.

A steel strike, like the coal walkout, would have an immediate impact on the railroad industry, causing thousands of employes to be laid off. As steel supplies grow short, in 10 days to two weeks steel fabrication plants will have to begin furloughing their 500,000 workers.

Auto manufacturing, construction, production of electrical apparatus, machinery and equipment, and virtually every phase of American industry would be hit by the steel strike should the stoppage continue for a long time.

Predeadline strikes broke out yesterday at Crucible Steel, Midland, Pa.; Superior Steel and Universal Cyclops Steel, in Pittsburgh, and Great Lakes Co., Detroit.

Two of the smaller steel companies agreed to provide noncontributory welfare programs. They are Portsmouth Steel, Portsmouth, Ohio, employing 4000, and Copperweld Co., Glassport, Pa., which employs 1100.

Six States, which produce 80 percent of the Nation's steel, will be hardest hit by the walkout: Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, New York and Maryland.

400 Return to Work At Baltimore Plant

Baltimore, Sept. 30 (AP).—Four hundred employes went back to work today at the Eastern Stainless Steel Corp., which had been closed four weeks by a strike.

Governor Lane announced last night the strike was settled by a company agreement to pay the full cost of a health-and-life insurance program and to raise basic hourly rates from $1.09 to $1.13½ an hour.

The company and officials of Local 1245 of the CIO United Steelworkers estimated it would cost Eastern about 3 cents per hour per employe to take over the entire cost of the insurance. The employes previously had met about 46 percent of the cost.

Union, American Can Co. Agree on Pension, Raise

Cincinnati, Sept. 30 (AP).—The American Can Co. and the CIO Steelworkers tonight agreed on terms for a wage increase and a company-financed pension plan less than a half hour before CIO President Philip Murray's order of a Nation-wide steel strike became effective. It covers 15,000 workers in 28 plants.

Italy's Purchase Of U. S. Gold Tops $100 Million

NYHT News Service

Government officials here last night confirmed Italy's purchase of gold and said the amount bought from the United States was something over 100 million dollars worth.

The officials said the transaction was routine and apparently reflected a desire on the part of the Italian government to reassure its sessed gold to back up its dollars.

It was revealed in New York Thursday that monetary gold holdings of the United States reversed a long-sustained upward trend in the banking week ended last Wednesday and fell 89 million dollars. The statistics released in New York gave no explanation, but it was assumed in financial circles there that one or more foreign governments were "hedging" in this manner against devaluation of the United States dollar.

Lewis Orders 102,000 Back

Co. and chief management spokesman, said the Lewis telegram "proves without any question that the strike under which this country is suffering . . . was a planned maneuver of the union."

It shows "the absolute, arrogant and ruthless control this particular union has over its men in all sections."

Kennedy scoffed:

"We didn't order any strike. They were really sympathetic walkouts."

And so, as the battle of words raged, the battles in the coal fields—with stones and bullets—subsided markedly. One minor disorder was reported.

At Linton, Ind., 250 men tore down a rope marking the property of a nonunion shaft and persuaded 12 workers to quit digging.

All was quiet in westerr Pennsylvania and in West Virginia. The bulk of the bituminous miners—500,000—work there. Pickets were orderly. Nonunion miners made no effort to transport their coal over the highways.

The UMW said the 102,000 miners going back to work produce 14 percent of the Nation's coal. The Western States mine 33 million tons annually, while the anthracite diggers bring up 57 million tons.

The three-day workweek, authorized by Lewis last July, does not affect the anthracite and Western soft coal districts.

So, Kennedy said, today's order "just restores the status quo" that existed before September 19.

The walkout, incidentally, has idled 32,000 workers on coal-hauling railroads.

Other industry has not been affected. Soft coal stockpiles for industrial use, particularly in steel mills, is reported sufficient to last another month.

Right now, some 30,000 miners are working. Nearly 15,000 nonunion miners added a trickle to the fast-dwindling national stockpile. In Illinois another 15,000 are in the pits. They're members of the Progressive Mine Workers of America and are not involved in the UMW walkout.

World Communion Services on Sunday

Greater Washington Protestant churches on Sunday will join churches throughout the Nation and the world in observing World Wide Communion Sunday.

This year the world communion observance will begin a 15-month program of evangelistic advance under the national sponsorship of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Locally, the evangelistic program is under the auspices of the evangelism committee of the Washington Federation of Churches, and many individual churches and denominations are joining in the drive.

Five-Week Crusade

Following world communion Sunday there will be a five-week church attendance crusade, which will come to a climax when members of the city's churches attend the annual Protestant Festival of Faith in Constitution Hall on October 30.

The evangelism program will continue through the year 1950. Early in the year the Department of Research and Church Planning of the Federation will conduct a religious census of various areas in the city. This will be followed by an extentive program of home visitation during February.

In the fall of 1950, 15 outstanding American clergymen will conduct a preaching mission in Washington churches.

At First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw., the choir of 50 voices will participate in the communion service at 11 a. m. Sunday for the first time this fall. The Rev. Dr. Carl Heath Kopf, the pastor, will speak on "Who Is King?"

St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, 18th and Church sts. nw., will celebrate communion Sunday with a festival service at 11 a. m. led by the Rev. Harold Bend Sedgwick, the rector. After the services there will be an open house in the parish house.

Dr. Reissig to Speak

Unitarians Dedicate Building Sunday

The new building of the Unitarian Church of Arlington at 4451 1st pl., south, Arlington, will be dedicated at 8 p. m. Sunday.

The Rev. Dr. A. Powell Davies, pastor of All Souls' Church (Unitarian), 16th and Harvard sts. nw., will deliver the dedicatory sermon on "What Can Religion Do?"

Assisting in the ceremony will be the Rev. Dale DeWitt of New York, director of the Unitarian Church for the Middle Atlantic States, and the Rev. Gilbert A. Phillips, pastor of the church.

Regular Services at 11 A. M.

Regular Sunday services of the congregation will be at 11 a. m. when Mr. Phillips will speak on "Religion Is Not Self-Conscious."

Organized in 1948, the Arlington Unitarian Church is an outgrowth of the Arlington Fellowship of All Souls' Church of Washington.

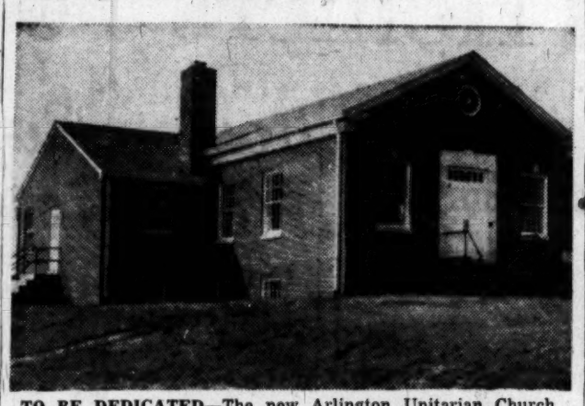
Services were first held in the Pershing Drive Christian Church and later in Kate Waller Barrett School. Ground for the new building was broken last December, and the congregation moved in in June.

Members Pitched In

During the summer, members of the congregation volunteered their services to construct sidewalks and a parking lot, paint the interior of the building and partition the basement for the Sunday school rooms.

The building is brick in modified colonial style, and was designed by Earl B. Bailey, a member of the congregation.

New Church . . .



TO BE DEDICATED—The new Arlington Unitarian Church, 4451 1st pl., south, Arlington, which will be dedicated at 8 p. m. Sunday. The congregation, under the leadership of the Rev. Gilbert A. Phillips, the minister, volunteered its services to build sidewalks, a parking lot, and aid in painting and building

Howard U.'s Religion School Begins Academic Year Oct. 5

Howard University's School of Religion, the only non-denominational divinity school in the city, will begin another academic year on October 5.

Dean Wilson

Graduates of the school are eligible for ordination as ministers immediately after their graduation in several denominations. Other churches require additional training in a denominational seminary.

Both the student body and the faculty of the school are composed of representatives of several denominations. Although the greatest number of students are Baptist, the school last year also enrolled members of the Presbyterian, Methodist, Episcopal, Congregational, Disciples of Christ, Colored Methodist Episcopal, and African Methodist Episcopal Churches.

Started in 1866

Howard University got its start at a missionary prayer meeting at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw., in 1866. Two years later instruction in religion was begun for those "accredited as preachers and others looking forward to the work." The School of Religion became a separate division in 1871.

Today the school has its own building, Carnegie Hall, on the University Campus, and is one of two Negro seminaries fully accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.

The university itself is supported in part by grants from the Federal Government, but the School of Religion must get all of its support from non-Federal sources, since the act of Congress, under which the university receives funds, specifies that none of the Federal money may be used for religious purposes.

Student fees, gifts of alumni and friends, and university money from non-Federal sources are used to support the school.

Religious groups have also given the school money. Thus, the chair of theology is endowed by the Society of Friends, the Jewish Chatauqua Society pays a part of the salary of a professor of Old Testament, and courses in social ethics are financed in part by the Congregational Christian Churches.

Students come from every part of the country, though the majority are from the South and from border States. Each year there are also a few foreign students.

Year's Highlights

Two highlights of the year's activities of the School of Religion are the annual convocation in the fall, and the institute of religion in the spring.

The convocation, to be held in November, is a workshop for ministers, and is attended by pastors of both white and Negro churches in Greater Washington. Outstanding church leaders guide the discussions and give lectures on concrete problems of the church in the world today.

The spring institute of religion features three lectures by theologians, followed by a discussion period. The Washington Federation of Churches and the Virginia Theological Seminary both cooperate in the series. Such church leaders as Reinhold Niebuhr and Walter M. Horton have spoken in previous years.

This fall Dr. Frank Theodore Wilson will begin his work as new dean of the School of Religion. Dr. Wilson comes to Howard from Lincoln University, Lincoln, Pa., where he has been dean of students and professor of psychology since 1936.

The new dean is a graduate of Lincoln University, from which he holds the degrees of A. B. and S. T. B., and Columbia University, where he received his master degree and his doctorate.

Dean Wilson has been active in student work with the National Council of the Y. M. C. A. and is a member of the board of education of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

Interchurch Group Opens Season Tuesday

The Interchurch Fellowship of Washington will open its fall season with a dinner Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. at Metropolitan A.M.E. Church, 1518 M st. nw.

Dr. Rayford Logan of Howard University, author of "What the Negro Wants" and research director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, will be the speaker. He will talk on "Race in World Politics."

Nebraskan Awarded Journalism Scholarship

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—John D. Carter of Norfolk, Nebr., is the 1949 winner of the Gilbert M. Hitchcock scholarship of $1000 for graduate study at the Columbia University School of Journalism, it was announced today.

The scholarship was established by Mrs. Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Washington, D. C., in memory of her husband, a former United States Senator from Nebraska and founder of the Omaha World-Herald. Only Nebraska residents or graduates of Nebraska colleges are eligible.

National Lutheran Group Elects

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 30 (AP).—Mrs. F. P. Reiter, San Jose, Calif., today was elected vice president of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Yesterday delegates reelected Mrs. Charles W. Baker, jr., of Duquesne, Pa., for her second three-year term as president.

Membership in the organization currently is highest in history, Mrs. John B. Moose, statistical secretary, told delegates. The 83,353 total represents a record increase during the past two years.

Delegates will be asked to approve the largest budget in the organization's history—$820,000—before they adjourn next Monday.

The following were among those elected members of the executive board: Mrs. F. Lee Fresh, Cumberland, Md., and Mrs. Chester Osborne, Roanoke, Va.

Israeli Studies Alternate Plan For Jerusalem

Tel Aviv, Sept. 30 (NYHT).—The Israeli government is considering an alternative plan on Jerusalem for submission to the General Assembly, it was reported today. The plan would discard the internationalization program of the Palestine Conciliation Commission.

The Israeli proposal is for partition of Jerusalem with a treaty providing for U. N. control of holy places both in Israel and Arab Palestine.

The treaty would make Israel and whatever Arab authority exists in Jerusalem responsible for free access to and the safeguarding of holy places.

Move to Back Ousted Rector Is Rejected

San Francisco, Sept. 30 (AP).—Delegates to the House of Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal Church today overwhelmingly rejected a resolution which would have given strong support to backers of the Rev. John H. Melish, ousted Brooklyn rector.

Although Mr. Melish's name was not mentioned, the deputies by voice vote turned down a proposed amendment to the church canon law to provide that:

"The right be reserved to any parish to remove any members of the vestry on a petition of 20 percent of the membership of the parish."

The Rev. Melish was ousted by the vestrymen of Holy Trinity Church in Brooklyn last spring because of his support of his son, the Rev. William H. Melish, who assertedly had been active in organizations described by the Justice Department as subversive.

The ouster was ordered in opposition to the wishes of the Majority of the parishioners, who favored retaining the elder Mr. Melish.

The repected convention resolution proposed to make it possible for the parish, in such a situation, to remove the vestrymen.

Truman Back; GOP Belittles $4000 Aim

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman flew back to Washington from Kansas City yesterday, arriving at National Airport at 5:33 p. m.

He returned to find the Republican high command jeering at his Thursday night speech, in which he envisioned a $4000-a-year income for the one-fourth of Americans now receiving less than $2000 a year.

Guy George Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said it was another example of the Administ.ation's favorite technique of "promising the moon" and not worrying about how to keep the promises.

Mr. Truman, on his flight back to Washington brought along his mother-in-law, Mrs. David W. Wallace, 86. At the Grandview, Mo., airport, the mother of the First Lady was placed in a wheel chair and then hoisted to the door of the Air Force Constellation by means of a cargo lift.

The same type of mechanism was used at National Airport to lower Mrs. Wallace to the ground, except that a platform had been built for her to stand on during the descent.

Mrs. Truman was at the airport here to meet the President, her mother, and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wallace, who also made the trip.

The Chief Executive occupied a jump seat in the limousine that carried the party to Blair House, the ladies taking up the back seat.

In his speech at Kansas City, where he spoke at a dinner honoring Democratic National Chairman William M. (Bill) Boyle, Mr. Truman not only foresaw a $4000 income for that element now below the $2000-a-year class, but predicted victory for his party in the elections of 1950 and 1952.

Mr. Gabrielson, the GOP national chairman, said that Mr. Truman had spoken before "his alma mater, the Tom Pendergast School of Political Corruption." After accusing him of promising the moon, Gabrielson said:

"Everyone, I am sure, would be delighted to have his income doubled, as the President promised, provided the value of the dollars he received remained the same.

"The difficulty is, however, that already after several years of treatment by Mr. Truman and his corps of economic medicine men, the value of the dollar is at least 5 percent less than it was when Mr. Truman became President."

"Out of People's Hair"

Answering the President's statement that the Fair Deal is designed to promote the general welfare, as laid down in the Constitution, Gabrielson said:

"What Administration spokesmen really mean when they talk about the welfare state is something which could better be described as a 'buttinsky' state—a state in which millions of Government snoopers, paid with dollars wrung from the taxpayers, meddle in the affairs of the individual citizen every hour of the day and night."

Curbs Upheld On 16 Pike Lots In Arlington

Arlington Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy ruled in effect yesterday that 16 lots along Columbia Pike, in the Westmont subdivision, may not be used commercially.

The properties all front on Columbia Pike between Highland st. and the Westmont shopping center. Some now are in use as doctors' offices and one contains a Western Union office.

Owners of the properties contended last July that a convenant in the original deed of dedication, which contained commercial restrictions, could be, and was amended, so that it did not apply to their properties. The area in question is zoned generally for commercial use.

Other residents of the subdivision, however, said the restriction still stood and disputed claims of the owners that radical changes in the character of the neighborhood had occurred.

Support Chest's 'Peace Drive' Opening Today, Truman Urges

ber, the energies of a million and a half volunteer workers. They are setting out to raise some 185 million dollars to meet community needs through the familiay Red Feather services of the Community Chests.

These services are many and varied. They include, among others, child care, recreation and character-developing activities for boys and girls, counseling and help to families in time of trouble, healing for those who are sick in body or in mind, care and companionship for the aged.

This year Red Feather campaigns in many cities will include the USO—the United Service Organizations. The USO has been reactivated at my request as an essential element in our national security. Let us remember that the USO is still a "home away from home" for more than a million and a half young men and women in our armed forces. The USO budget of 12 million dollars, some of it to be raised through the Chest and the rest through independent campaigns, will continue to maintain the more than 150 clubs and lounges now in operation. It will continue to finance the veterans' hospital camp shows, which bring so much pleasure to the hundred thousand patients in our Army, Navy and veterans' hospitals. Surely the USO deserves the generous support of all of us.

Red Feather services exist to help people with their problems. These problems, as we all know, seldom appear singly. A young mother may plead, "Help my sick baby to get well." But the baby's illness may stem from a long chain of other troubles—from inadequate diet for the family, from crowded living conditions, from worry and fright—any or all of these. And such troubles may require the combined services of clinics, visiting nurses, family counselors and a recreational plan for the whole family.

Problems like these simply can't be approached separately, in a hit-or-miss fashion. It speaks well for the voluntary agencies which must provide many services to meet many needs, that they have united under the Red Feather symbol to raise their funds through one annual, federated appeal.

There is strength in a federation of any sort. We speak of a "helping hand." But a hand, just by itself, can't help anyone. It is dependent upon muscles, nerves, bloodstream and brain, a federation of services, mutually helpful. In our form of Government, we Americans have long since passed beyond the confining barriers of State lines into the federation that is the United States of America, serving all its people and being served by them.

It is this same cooperative spirit which has created and maintains your local Community Chest. Let us give generously through this federation of many organizations, meeting many community needs, so that everybody benefits.

Powerful Terps Give Hoyas 33-7 Drubbing

Fague batted the ball but it came down in Kuchta's arms.

Georgetown continued to do nothing right after intermission. Frank Mattingly fumbled on his 20 and center Jim Brasher recovered. This time the Terps marched to the five but Georgetown showed its courage by stopping four plays.

Late in the period, end Elmer Wingate faded back to intercept a Mattingly pass on the Hoya 28 and bulled his way to the five. Johnny Idzik plunged over on the second play of the last period.

Another interception, this one by Jake Rowden, a one-man gang, set up the last Terp score. Jake grabbed a Mattingly pass and went 37 yards to the Hoya seven. Tucker sneaked over from quarterback for the fifth touchdown.

Barry Comes Through

Georgetown, completely bottled all night, finally had the satisfaction of scoring four plays before the game ended.

Bob Barry, Chicago senior, took over for Mattingly and had a lot more success. He capped it by passing 24 yards to Soph Gus Fornaciari to the Terp 24.

Barry lost eight on the next play. Then he ran to his right, wheeled and threw a diagonal pass to Lou Surman, supposedly just a punt specialist. Surman stepped over for the touchdown. Dick Haessler converted while guard Bob Dean made good three of his five tries for Maryland.

Before that Georgetown marched 74 yards to the Terp six and couldn't score. That was midway in the final period and the first time they moved into Maryland territory.

Back Goes First Team

Barry was the big gun there, too. He passed to Fornaciari who made a fine running catch on Maryland's 33. Jim Tatum promptly put back his first team but Barry threw another long one that End Bill Resch took on the six.

Then the first team held. It was a rough night for the Hoyas. You hardly could begrudge them

Dodgers Can Clinch Tie by Win Today

Chicago, Sept. 30 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals pennant chances all but evaporated into thin air today. Faced with the task of winning in order to tie Brooklyn for first place in the National League, the fluttering Redbirds instead absorbed a paralyzing 6-5 setback at the hands of the lowly Chicago Cubs and fell a full game behind the idle Dodgers.

This shocking defeat put the Birds in a near helpless position. No matter what the Cards do in their remaining games with the Cubs, the Dodgers can clinch the flag by beating the Phils in Philadelphia tomorrow and Sunday.

One Dodgers defeat and two St. Louis victories would send the pennant into a playoff. The only way the Birds can beat out the Brooks in regular season play is by winning two while the Dodgers drop two.

As has been the case in recent days, the Cards "blew" this one, too. A muffed fly ball by Stan Musial, which the charitable official scorer ruled a double, set the stage for Chicago's two runs in the third inning. As it turned out, that was the ball game.

With the score knotted at 2-2 and one out in the third, Herman Reich received a gift single when his grounder took a queer bounce and caromed off Tommy Glaviano's glove. Roy Smalley, who with Hank Sauer had accounted for the Cubs' first two runs with opening inning homers against starter Max Lanier, sent a high, towering fly toward the left center field wall.

Musial got under the ball, then apparently lost it in the sun, and allowed it to pop out of his glove.

That put Cub runners on second and third. Manager Eddie Dyer ordered Lanier to issue an intentional pass to Sauer to load the bases, then replaced his chunky southpaw with George Munger.

It proved a wrong guess, for the redheaded right-hander, hit Andy Pafko on the left elbow with his first pitch. That forced Reich over the plate with the lead run. Bob Scheffing, a former Cardinal, then drove a long fly to Musial that brought Smalley over the plate.

Pantos Paces Central In 26-0 Walkaway

By West McLean
Post Reporter

Central's Vikings, defending champions in the Interhigh League, got off to a flying start yesterday by trouncing Roosevelt's Rough Riders, 26-0, at Roosevelt.

Jimmy Pantos again led the way for Central, scoring three times on runs of 28, 18 and 54 yards, with Glen Hoyle accounting for the other score on a pass from Jim Sullivan.

Sullivan also tossed a pass to Pantos in the flat that sent the fleet halfback off on his 54-yard touchdown play. Lynn Leathery added two extra points to complete the scoring.

Pantos had an amazing 11.8 average yards gain per carry and handled all of the Vikings' kicking. He split the passing assignments with Sullivan.

After Jerry Murphy took the opening kickoff on his 15 and returned it to the 29, Central marched 71 yards for its first score.

George Cozzens picked up 18 yards on the first play from scrimmage. Four plays later Pantos crashed over center and cut down the left sideline for 28 yards and the score. Leathery converted.

Pantos added his second tally midway the second quarter as he again went over center and cut back to the left for the score, this time from 18 yards out. Leathery again converted.

Roosevelt attained its deepest penetration in the third quarter, advancing to the Viking 26 where they ran out of downs.

Anacostia Wins, 19 to 0, Over Western

By Don Lief

Bob Chatlin and Bill Butler powered Anacostia High to an impressive 19-0 win over Western yesterday at Anacostia in the inter-high opener for both teams.

Chatlin's 20-yard jaunt to the Western 10 set up the Indians' first score—a slant off tackle from the 6, also by Chatlin. Bill Neal's kick was good.

With Western's offense not clicking, O'Leary's good kicks kept the Indians at bay, until Chatlin took a hand-off on the 7 and went 48 yards to the Raider 45. Butler and Chatlin took turns at lugging the ball, Butler hurdling from the 2-yard line for another score.

The final Anacostia touchdown resulted from a Raider fumble on the 25. Butler snaked his way 21 yards for the tally. The fumble was just one of six that Western made during the afternoon. Anacostia recovered all six for what may be an interhigh record.

Villanova Routs Detroit; B.C. Beats Wake Forest

Detroit, Sept. 30 (AP).—A classy Villanova College football team won its third straight game as it powered its way to a 34-7 decision over the University of Detroit here tonight.

Villanova scored in every quarter as its well-balanced attack was paced by the hard-running fullback, Ralph Pasquariello, and the accurate passing of Steve Romanik. Villanova, which previously had beaten Texas A. & M. and Penn State, showed a devastating passing attack, completing seven of the 15 passes for 203 yards.

Romanik threw two touchdown passes with End Joe Rogers on the receiving end. Neil O'Boyle accounted for another touchdown via the aerial route when he hit John Bogan with a 26-yard pass late in the final period.

Boston, Sept. 30 (AP).—It took the Boston College Eagles more than three periods to break the bonds about their wings and soar to a 13-7 victory over a scrappy Wake Forest football team tonight before a 19,156 crowd at Braves Field.

Butch Songin tossed 19 and 42-yard scoring passes to Joe Diminick to make Boston College forget last week's 46-0 shellacking by mighty Oklahoma.

The Deacons from North Carolina, rated capable of averaging last year's 26-9 setback here, outplayed Boston College by a wide margin during all of the first half.

could retire only one of the first six men he faced in the session.

Ed Robinson led off the ninth with a double to right and after Kozar grounded out, Dente got a double on a deep fly that Zarilla misjudged. There was no panic at that point but when Al Evans singled over the second run of the inning, the Sox were somewhat abashed.

Rhubarb grew in Griffith Stadium a bit later. Buddy Lewis, pinch-hitting for Lloyd Hittle, Washington's fourth pitcher, worked Kinder to a 3-2 count, and Umpire Bill Grieve called the next pitch a ball.

The Red Sox ranted. Grieve, indeed, had started to call it the third strike, but cut short that gesture before actually getting his thumbs up, and told Lewis to take his base. Manager Joe McCarthy bolted out of the dugout, first to berate Grieve, later to assuage Catcher Birdie Tebbetts, who was all for skinning the umpire.

Boston panic was in full cry when Kinder's control completely deserted him and Yost drew a walk on four pitches to fill the bases with one out and put the winning run on first.

Kinder and the Red Sox found a friend in Sam Mele, however. That Boston castoff obliged the entire hub of New England by grounding into a Doerr-to-Stephens-to-Goodman double play.

Statistically, the Red Sox had no business winning the ball game. Jack Kramer, who lasted only two innings, Masterson and Kinder found Washington hits whistling past their ears all afternoon, Going into the ninth, when they got their last run, the Red Sox could show only three hits of their own.

But those 14 bases on balls by the Nats' pitchers, and three ghastly errors by Kozar, Dente and Robinson were the "difference."

Mickey Harris, who asked for the starting job against his old Boston teammates, was wild from the outset. He walked two but escaped first-inning damage when Bob Ortiz backed up against the right field wall for Ted Williams' fierce drive.

Kozar Flubs Double Play

Harris didn't last out the second inning. He walked the first three men he faced and, with one out, walked a fourth to force in a run. On one hit, the Red Sox moved into a 5-0 lead.

Behind Harris, Al Kozar messed up a double-play grounder that might have held the damage to one run. He took Pesky's smash smartly and then heaved it far wild past Sam Dente at second base, and two runs scampered home on the error. Sid Hudson moved in as the new pitcher, and after intentionally passing Williams, was rapped by Stephens' two-run single to right.

The Nats moved right back into contention in the same inning with four runs of their own against Kramer. Robinson started it with a two-bagger off the right-field wall, and with two out, they got all their runs. Evans walked, Hudson singled to left, Yost singled to left, and Mele doubled to left.

There was some dispute about Mele's hit, a lengthy drive which Williams finally snared against the left field wall, but Umpire Eddie Rommel ruled that Williams took the ball on the rebound from the fence after it had originally caromed off his glove. It was loaded with two runs for the Nats, and brought in Masterson who got out of the inning with the Sox lead cut to 5-4.

Robinson, Dente Err

The Red Sox's five-run third inning was of a kind with their five-run second. Only two hits did they get, but there were three walks and two errors.

Passes by Hudson to Zarilla and Goodman commenced it. And then to their astonishment, the Sox filled the bases on Tebbetts' sacrifice. Robinson took Tebbetts' bunt and stood statue-like, making no throw to Kozar who was covering first. He was charged with an error.

The next play produced another Washington misplay. With the infield in, Dente bobbled a soft grounder by Masterson, and the inning's first run scored. Di Maggio singled to center for two more and Weik moved in as the Washington pitcher. He fanned Pesky and got rid of Williams on a foul fly, but he walked Stephens and pitched a two-run single to Doerr.

The Red Sox didn't get any kind of a hit in the next five innings, with Weik and Joe Haynes blanking 'em. But the Nats from the third to the eighth could accumulate only one run. Weik blew a chance for a big inning when he was caught napping on first, with two on and one out in the fifth. Tebbetts snapped-throwed him out.

Masterson Cleared

Stewart, Ortiz and Robinson cracked singles in succession to get the Nats a run in the fifth with one out, but Masterson then mowed 'em down. Masterson had no more trouble until the eighth, and he didn't last it out.

Al Evans and Pinch-Hitter Gil Coan opened that eighth with singles, and Yost rapped a long double off the centerfield wall. The first out of the inning was Masterson, who gave way to Kinder with two runs in and Yost on third with the help of a wild relay.

Kinder was invincible at that point, claiming Mele, Stewart and Ortiz as strikeout victims. And he went high on the list of Boston heroes by driving in a run himself that upped Boston's lead to 11-7 going into the last of the ninth. That's when the Nats could have been kinder.

Here Are 'Ifs' of Races

Here are the "if" possibilities in the dramatic major league pennant races:

In the American League if Boston wins one of the remaining two games between the Red Sox and the Yankees, in Yankee Stadium today and tomorrow, the Red Sox are the new champions.

If New York is to be the winner, the Yankees must take both games.

However, if only one game is played and the Yankees should win it the teams would be tied and a sudden death playoff would decide the champion at Boston Monday.

In the National League if Brooklyn wins both its remaining two games with the Phillies at Philadelphia, the Cardinals cannot win the championship even by beating the Cubs twice at Chicago.

If the Dodgers break even in the final two games, the Cardinals would need to win both games against the Cubs to tie and force a play-off.

If the Dodgers win tomorrow and the Cardinals lose, the Dodgers win the championship.

Bulldogs Swamped by Giants, 38-14

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—Finally finding somebody they could beat right in their own backyard, the New York Giants dumped the New York Bulldogs, 38-14, in a National Football League game played tonight before a slim gathering of 17,704 at the Polo Grounds.

A series of fumbles by the Bulldogs, who held a 14-10 half time lead, helped the Giants break the game wide open in the second half.

Gene Roberts scored three of the five Giant touchdowns, two of them at the end of drives covering 63 and 69 yards and the third from seven yards out after Joe Golding of the Bulldogs had fumbled to lose the ball on a kick-off return.

Bobby Layne, the Bulldogs' T-formation quarterback outpitched Charley Conerly of the Giants in the first half but he fell apart with the rest of his team after the intermission.

Layne fumbled in the fourth period while attempting to pass from his own end zone and Al De Rogatis pounced on the ball for a Giant touchdown. Joe Scott tallied the first Giant touchdown on a 3-yard buck to cap a 50-yard march.

Both Bulldog touchdowns came in the second period. Phil Slosburg scored from the 1 after a 29-yard pass from Layne to Bill Chipley had climaxed a 55-yard drive. Dean Sensanbaughter bucked over for the same distance after Layne's passing had covered 57 yards.

Fain's 3-Run Belt Wins for Fowler

By Jack Hand

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—Dick Fowler, working as easily as a man rocking on his front porch, struck a cruel blow at the New York Yankees' pennant hopes today as he pitched the Philadelphia A's to a 4-1 triumph with a superb four-hitter at Yankee Stadium.

Fowler was knocked out in the third inning of the opening game of this series.

Race at a Glance:

	W.	L.	Pct.	GB.	TP.
Boston	96	56	.632	..	2
New York	95	59	.625	1	2

Remaining schedules:
New York—Home (2); Boston (2); away—none. Boston—Home, none; away (2)—New York (2).

Allie Reynolds, winner of 17 and loser of 6 will be Manager Casey Stengel's pitcher against the Sox tomorrow, which also is "Joe DiMaggio Day," a complete reserved seats sellout.

If he changes his mind it will be Vic Raschi (20-10), who now is slated to work Sunday.

Manager Joe McCarthy has named Mel Parnell his left-handed ace with a 5-7 mark for the season.

Fowler, a 28-year-old veteran from Toronto, never seemed to have too much stuff. A slow curve, a change of pace and an occasional fast ball got him home but he never lost his poise.

Mad at himself in the second when he loaded the bases with two out on a single and two walks, Fowler talked Earle Mack, the acting A's manager, into letting him stay in the game.

Chapman, Fain Homers Decisive

Earle wavered because Dick had two balls and no strikes on Bobby Brown with the score tied at 1-1. It was the right move. Fowler made Brown bounce into an inning-ending double play.

Naturally Fowler had batting help en route to his fifteenth win. Sam Chapman's twenty-fourth homer tied the score in the sec d after the Yanks picked up one in the first on Cliff Mapes' walk and Brown's double.

Ferris Fain aimed the killing blow—a three-run homer off Eddie Lopat in the third inning. That was the ball game. It was only the third homer for Fain all season, two of them at the stadium.

Buddy Rosar opened the third with a single off Lopat, who was ineffective on this important afternoon. Rosar, a former Yank, was forced at second by Fowler. Joost's single off Brown's glove to short left set the stage for Fain to slam

Hoya Hardiman Hard Hit By 1st Meeting With 2 Terps

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

TWO MINUTES after the opening kickoff, Georgetown's Tom Hardiman met up with Maryland's Jim Brasher and Chester Gierula for the first time, but from the reception Hardiman received he would have probably preferred to remain a stranger. Brasher wrapped his arms around Hardiman's knees and the 240-pound Gierula almost split him in half with a bruising tackle that left Hardiman limp as a wet dish rag.

It was goor fortune indeed for the Hoyas that Bob Fortunato was in their lineup early in the first period. The sophomore guard almost single-handedly turned back Maryland's first bid for a touchdown, climaxing his fierce defensive play by spilling Joe Tucker for a 5-yard loss on fourth down when the Terps were only 11 yards shy of pay dirt.

It took the Hoyas most of the first half to stop Maryland's Jimmy La Rue on punt returns. La Rue returned the first two Lou Miller punts for 41 and 38 yards, respectively. Then the Hoyas got hep—they punted out of bounds.

Mighty Mo Modzelewski made his local debut midway the first period, shortly after the Terps had scored. He was a crashing success. As Frank Mattingly of the Hoyas will attest. It almost required the services of an excavator to dig Mattingly out of the Byrd Stadium turf after

Bell Beaten; Fox Scores Four Times

By Murray Schwartz

McKinley Tech's Trainers ran over undermanned Bell Vocational, 52-0, yesterday in an Interhigh League football game at Tech Stadium.

Ray (Sugar) Fox led the Tech scoring parade with four touchdowns on runs of 25, 11, 9 and 5 yards. Tackle Ed Collins converted for four extra points.

Bob Maul accounted for two of the other Tech touchdowns on pass receptions of 14 yards and 29 yards from Ed Jackson and Stan Kernan.

Pass interceptions accounted for Tech's two other scores. Kernan grabbed a Gene Melito aerial in the fourth quarter and raced 52 yards to a touchdown. And Johnny Hobbs caught an errant Melito toss and raced 55 yards for a touchdown.

Mt. Vernon Wins, 7-6

Lackey's Kick Tops G.U. Prep; Jefferson Blanks W.-L., 21-0

Jaspar Lackey, Mount Vernon's talented place-kicking artist, presented the Majors with a last-minute 7-6 victory over Georgetown Prep, when he converted after an 8-yard touchdown run by Johnny Kuhn at Mount Vernon Stadium.

The prepmen had scored early in the last quarter, when Keith Vinsonhaler climaxed a 65-yard sustained drive with a 3-yard dash around right end. The conversion attempt was wide.

Chamberlain Fails to Stop Pass Attack

By Harrison Hagemeyer

Chamberlain Vocational High gave heavily favored Eastern a stubborn battle in the first and last quarters yesterday but dropped a 25-6 decision to the Ramblers at Eastern Stadium.

Eastern scored after taking the opening kickoff, the touchdown play being a 24-yard pass from Danny Cookman to Arnold Rollman.

Plucky Chamberlain came right back, however, when Mickey Curtis grabbed a 30-yard Buddy Horrell pass and raced 43 more yards to Eastern's 2 before being dragged down from behind. Curtis scored on a smash over left tackle.

The Ramblers went ahead to stay in the second quarter on another Cookman-to-Rollman pass of 5 yards for a touchdown.

Eastern scored its third touchdown just before the end of the first half on a 37-yard march, climaxed by a one-yard-line buck by Bob Martino.

Danny O'Neill set up the last Eastern score in the third period when he recovered a Curtis fumble on the Chamberlain 14. Three plays later, Tom McHan went over on a quarterback sneak.

Speros to Haley

Wilson Tops St. John's on Pass, 21-19

By Howard Flieger, Jr.

A 25-yard pass, Leo Speros to Pete Haley, brought Wilson High gridmen from behind in the final quarter and gave them a 21-19 triumph over St. John's yesterday at Wilson Stadium.

The winners jumped into a quick lead when Speros took the opening kickoff and raced 76 yards for a touchdown. Dick Sabastian then kicked the first of his three straight placements.

The Johnnies came back with a score of their own, Ralph Frye hurling to Joe Hands for 25 yards and a touchdown. Again the Cadets clicked on a 2-yard sprint around end in the second period.

But a Johnnie fumble, recovered by Preston Kavanaugh in the end zone, dropped the invaders behind until Tom Clark gave St. John's its last lead, at 19-14, on a 10-yard slant through the Wilson line early in last period.

Nats Buy Hard-Hitting Coast Star

The Nats yesterday made a $60,000 bid for better recognition in 1950 with the purchase of Irving Noren, prize outfielder of the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast League.

Noren, six-foot leefthanded hitter and thrower batted .323 and whacked 27 home runs in the Coast League this season.

The Montreal club of the International League held title to Noren, who was with Hollywood on loan. The Nats' deal called for the transfer of $50,000 cash plus Outfielder John Simmons to Montreal, plus another player or $10,000 more cash to be delivered by April 1.

Ossie Bluege, Washington farm system manager, personally scouted Noren on the Coast and turned in glowing reports. Noren is 25 years old, reputedly fast and has a well-respected throwing arm. He hit 36 two-baggers and five triples.

Before joining Hollywood, Noren batted .323 for Fort Worth in 1948. He was the fifth leading hitter in the Coast League.

Simmons, drafted by the Nats from Montreal last winter, saw little action with Washington. He batted .215, in 93 trips to the plate.

DEAR FOLKS:

Jockey Bobbie Strange, going great guns here, will miss the Saturday program, going to Atlantic City to ride Pilaster. Mere Bones has been barred pending an okay by the track veterinarian. Something wrong with his bones? Shirley Ball, whose Brooke Argo was found to have been stimulated, will have a commission hearing October 11. Saturday is closing day for Pimlico's Stakes entries. Little Harp Defeated By a Head

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Laurel, Md., Sept. 30.—Jockey Bobby Martin was the saddle star here today. The 21-year-old rider piloted three straight winners, including D. K. Kerr, jr.'s Flying Weather in the Ormonde, the feature. In this sprint three of a field of seven horses dashed to the finish line as a team, the photo showing Flying Weather the winner by a short head, Shamrock Stable's Little Harp second and a like margin in front of R. E. Carter's Oriole.

The Virginia-owned Flying Weather ended two winning streaks with his smashing victory. Little Harp had won two straight, including an allowance race here, while Binky B. went to the post with a record of four New Jersey victories in a row.

Martin, who won the fourth race with Cedar Farm's Handle and the fifth with Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Foreign Affair must have gotten particular pleasure out of getting Flying Weather home in front of Little Harp. Martin is a former contract rider for the Shamrock Stable.

Flying Weather ran the 6 furlongs over a track drying as the program progressed in a capable 1.12 2/5. Backers of the sprinter collected a $12.20 mutuel.

Martin, a Baltimore boy, rode Flying Weather confidently. He allowed the 6-year-old to settle into stride while Little Harp was shaking off several challengers in a battle for the lead. Binky B. set the early pace, but Little Harp then took over. Superb Donna and Oriole, the C. R. White entry, then ganged up on Little Harp, getting on either side of the Shamrock Stable hope.

Little Harp rallied, however, and stuck his head in front in midstretch as if to keep it there. But Flying Weather had other ideas. Martin brought him to the center of the track where he developed momentum and came on to be up in the concluding stride.

Little Harp and Oriole held on gamely, but they just didn't have enough left to stave off the speed-happy son of Happy Argo.

Laurel Cuts Purses After Betting Drop

Laurel, Md., Sept. 30—In view of the decrease in betting here, the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association voted last night to accept a $1,000 cut in daily purse money for the remainder of the meeting.

Betting here has been the lowest since the gasoline ration days of 1944 and has not been up to the $650,000 daily average which Laurel must maintain to break even.

Golf Newcomer Takes Virginia Women's Title

Virginia Beach, Va., Sept. 30 (AP). Miss Sydney Elliott of Charlottesville, who has been playing golf "seriously" for only 18 months, defeated Mrs. Stine R. Hall of Richmond, 5 and 3, today to win the Virginia Women's Golf Championship.

After battling on even terms through the first nine holes of the Princess Anne Country Club course, the 23-year-old Miss Elliott, a former Women's State tennis champion, regained her driving ability, the key factor in her triumph over her more seasoned opponents.

The match ended on the fifteenth hole, a par 3 137-yarder. Both players were just short of the green from the tee. Mrs. Hall chipped up 10 feet past the pin and needed two putts to get down. Miss Elliott chipped up within 1 foot of the cup and sank her putt for a par 3, the hole and the match.

Powel, Potts Advance

Navy-Princeton Tops Area Slate

Stout-hearted Navy meets Princeton at 2 p. m. in Baltimore's Babe Ruth Stadium today and won't settle for anything less than an end to its painful victory famine.

In other top area games George Washington meets Virginia Military at Lynchburg, Va.; Georgia invades the University of North Carolina; Virginia plays host to Miami University of Ohio; William and Mary faces VPI at Williamsburg, and Catholic U. plays at Patuxent Naval Air Station.

The Middies, who have only their memorable tie with Army to boast about in their last 15 games, enter their contest with the Ivy Leaguers in the novel role of favorite.

Odds-makers are quoting Navy a 6 to 6½-point choice.

You have to go back to the 1947 season, the fourth game to be exact, to find Navy's last triumph. That was against an Ivy League opponent, Cornell. Navy, also favored in that game, trounced the Big Red, 38-19.

Although losing to mighty Southern California last week, 42-20, George Sauer's squad displayed offensive punch and a standout quarterback in Sophomore Bob Zastrow.

George Washington, unable to repeat its 1948 upset over Virginia last Saturday goes into its game with VMI as underdog again tonight The Keydets put up an heroic fight before succumbing, 14-7, to the mature Quantico Marines last week.

Bo Rowland's boys can come through, though, if they stop the passing of Joe Veltri and hard-running of Ray Tamalis. If they do; it will be the first win in seven attempts against VMI.

Catholic University Coach Jan Jankowski makes his college debut today when his Cardinals travel to Patuxent Naval Air Base. Patuxent already shows a 26-0 win over Baltimore Junior College.

But Jankowski, highly successful for years at Central High, fields a veteran backfield in Bill Hall, Joe Mauiri, Bucky Ennis and Whitey Hubert. Two good ends, Russ Johnson and Billy Maher, add some more experience to the offense.

Catholic U. should start Jankowski off on the right foot.

In one of the South's top contests, North Carolina, alias Charlie Justice, meets a formidable foe in Georgia. The Bulldogs have been warming up for this one, rolling over Furman and Chattanooga. Those Tarheels are ready, though, as they showed last week in overpowering N. C. State, 26-6.

Virginia's Cavaliers are underdogs to Miami (Ohio) at Scott Stadium today. Last year the teams battled to a 14-14 draw. The Virginians aren't cheered any by the news that Southpaw Passer Jimmy Lesane, senational soph, is ailing with a virus infection. He may miss the game.

Virginia Tech figures to drop its third straight at William and Mary. The Indians are smarting over the tough one they lost to Pitt and are aching to take it out on someone.

It's also time for Fullback Jack Cloud to do a little of that flying. Washington and Lee is pinning its hopes on Soph Gil Bocetti to help down West Virginia at Charleston.

Truman Issues Order On Permanent Status For Temporary Workers

The President yesterday issued the long-pending order to make it easier for war service and temporary employes who were appointed prior to March 16, 1942, to acquire permanent Civil Service status.

Civil Service officials estimate that between 5000 and 10,000 Federal workers will benefit by the covering-in order, about 2000 of them in this city.

In his order, the President fixed the following conditions the eligible employes must meet to win permanent status:

(1) Have been appointed to a job in the executive branch prior to March 16, 1942 (the date war service regulations went into effect) and have had "continuous service with the Federal Government since that date which is creditable for retirement purposes, inclusive of any intervening military service";

(2) Have an efficiency rating of "good" or better, or if his work isn't evaluated under a rating system, the agency head must certify to Civil Service that he has served with "merit" for at least six months to make him eligible;

(3) Pass a suitable noncompetitive examination to be give by Civil Service. Only one such test will be given each employe covered by the order. No one will be given a second chance to pass an exam, and finally,

(4) Be recommended for status by the agency in which he's now employed within the next year.

Employes who were laid off in a reduction of force and who were reappointed in less than a year between March 15, 1942, and the present time will be eligible for status under the order.

The order was made effective as of yesterday, September 30. Employes must be in an "active duty status" of as yesterday in order to benefit by it. It just happens that yesterday was the final work day for several thousand civilians in the military services and some of them will get regular status under the order.

portant than it appears to be. It would give 390,000 classified employes an additional $100 annual increase and it would raise the cost of the bill from 110 million dollars to 150 millions. Originally, the Long bill provided a $125 average annual increase for classified workers. The Langer amendment would boost the average to more than $160 a year.

Another adopted amendment reduced the proposed $15,000 ceiling in the bill to $12,500, Senator Long explained that the Senate on Thursday had fixed a $14,000 salary bracket for many Federal officials and that it would be inconsistent to give higher pay to classified employes. Under the amended bill, a grade is provided from $10,000 to $11,000, and a top grade of from $11,500 to $12,500. The President would have sole authority to place employes in the top grade.

Long did not offer his amendment to restore grades 6, 8, and 10 to the bill as he had introduced. The House bill carries these grades and the Senate conferees can be expected to yield to the House on that point. Otherwise, many employes in those grades would have their salaries frozen the moment they are converted to the proposed new pay schedule.

Long offered, but withdrew, an amendment to give the Senate conferees the power to bring back a bill to give classified employes the same proportionate pay raise as given to postal employes.

He argued that both groups must be treated alike. He said: "The conferees will be under enormous pressure from the postal groups to accept the House bill. I would like to have this power to protect the unorganized employes as I believe they should be treated the same as the organized." At that time, Long served notice that he would stand by the Senate postal bill.

When Senators Ferguson (R., Mich.), Knowland (R., Calif.) and others argued against the motion, Long withdrew it.

The postal bill approved by the Senate would do these two things: (1) raise the salaries of the 500,000 postal employes a flat $100 each, and (2) abolish the first two clerk-carrier grades to make the starting salary for these employes $2900 a year.

U.S. Attorney Police Unit Ends 9-Year Career Today

Fay Cites Space Shortage at Court Building as One Reason for Action

The Investigation Unit of policemen assigned to the United States Attorney's office winds up its nine-year career today.

In disclosing the decision to end the police unit, United States Attorney George Morris Fay said the space shortage in the District Court building was one reason for the action.

Fay also observed that the staff as now constituted consisted of three privates and no officers, since the recent transfer of Lieut. Joseph W. Shimon from his office.

Fay expressed doubt that his office will suffer materially without the 3-man unit since he will have authority to call on the special investigation squad at police headquarters whenever necessary. Lieut. Harry C. Blackman leads the headquarters unit. The three police officers are being assigned to this squad. Fay said he had conferred with Major Robert J. Barrett, Superintendent of Police.

The staff of investigators conducted confidential investigations and helped whenever information was needed hurriedly for trials.

During the war the number constantly dwindled and finally Lieut. Shimon was ordered to serve part time as liaison officer for the Police Department at the courts as well as to aid Fay. This summer Shimon was transferred from both posts to the Fourteenth Precinct after a police investigation that, according to Barrett, included a probe of procedures used by Shimon in handling a quantity of narcotics apparently seized as evidence. The post of liaison officer is being retained. Lieut. Thomas V. Slominski was appointed to the post when Shimon was transferred.

Review Honors Devers, Retiring After 44 Years' Service

By Charles DelVecchio—The Washington Post

The Army paid homage to a foot soldier's general yesterday as "Jakie" Devers turned his sword into a plowshare.

The 62-year-old chief of the Army Field Forces retired after 44 years of service. He was bid farewell in a star-studded review at Fort Leslie J. McNair, where he began in 1945 to built what has become "the new Army."

Gen. Jacob L. Devers will become a full-time farmer on his 130 acres near Herndon, Va., where he recently imported a herd of Hereford cattle.

But first, "I'm going to West Point to see a football game," he said yesterday. Thus he will end his career where it started in 1909, when he was commissioned a second lieutenant of Field Artillery.

An interested witness to yesterday's colorful ceremony was Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, USA (Ret.), who commanded the Eighth Army in the conquest of the Philippines and the occupation of Japan.

"He's the last of my class to retire," Eichelberger recalled thoughtfully. "I was next-to-last, and now he's the last."

General Devers, whose energy and aggressiveness as an expert on armor made him anathema to the Axis in World War II, stood alone at the front of the reviewing stand. He was joined by Col. John V. Cole, 3d Infantry commanding officer and commander of troops for the day.

Bradleys Watch

Behind him were General Omar N. Bradley and Mrs. Bradley; General J. Lawton Collins, Chief of the Staff of the Army; Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Devers; Secretary of the Army Gray; Gen. Muir S. Fairchild, Vice Chief of Staff of the Air Force, and Gen. Mark Clark, who will succeed Devers as Field Forces chief, with his mother, Mrs. Clark.

Devers stood erect as units of the Eighty-second Airborne Division, the Third Infantry, the Third Cavalry, the Ninety-fourth Engineer Battalion and the District of Columbia National Guard passed in review.

Overhead came the "swoosh" of two squadrons of jet fighters, which momentarily distracted Devers in his attitude of "head and eyes straight to the front."

"Distinguished Graduate"

It seemed a fitting tribute to the man who early showed his qualities of leadership as the 125-pound quarterback on his high school football team in York, Pa.

Devers was a "distinguished graduate" of the Army Command and General Staff School. He was overseas in World War I. As World War II approached, he was jumped over 474 colonels for promotion to brigadier general. After his command at Fort Bragg, N. C., he became Chief of the Armored Force at Fort Knox, Ky.

His record as Sixth Army Group commander in France was written in the death or capture of about a million Germans.

Few Deaths From Polio Recorded In D. C. Area

One Resident Of District and Five Non-Residents Is Current Toll

Only a small percentage of this year's 170 polio cases in Greater Washington have resulted in paralysis or death, the District Health Department noted yesterday.

Dr. C. C. Dauer, director of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases, said that of 110 cases at Children's Hospital and another 43 at Gallinger Hospital, slightly less than one-half have had any paralysis.

Only one of the District's 76 cases ended in death and five additional deaths were recorded among nonresident cases hospitalized in the city.

At present, 23 persons are in Children's with polio and of this group only three have severe or extensive paralysis. Only two of the hospital's 110 cases have required respirator treatment.

At Gallinger, five cases remain and one of these has severe paralysis. Four of the 43 have had respirator treatment.

Police Puzzled By Dynamite In Arrest of 2

Two men, one a former convict, were arrested yesterday and charged with housebreaking, and police were trying to figure out what they were doing with dynamite and a blasting cap found when they were arrested.

The two are George E. Sprye, 28, 419 Massachusetts ave. nw., who officers said is on parole from Lorton Reformatory where he was serving a sentence on a rape charge, and Hampton Lechey of the same address. Police said he has no previous record.

Man-on-Roof Call

The two were caught when five policemen from the Fourteenth Precinct answered a "man on the roof" call to the River Terrace Market, 3439 Benning rd. ne. Pvt. E. J. Ruff said he went to the roof and found Sprye, with the dynamite, a dynamite cap, a dry cell battery, three coils of insulated wire, a tire iron, and a pipe wrench.

He said Sprye was beside a skylight and apparently about to lower the equipment into the store. As Ruff approached Sprye, the officer said, the latter shouted a warning down into the store. A moment later, police said, Lechey burst through a front plate glass window, into the arms of Pvt. R. V. Brown, who was off duty, but had gone along on the call, just for the ride.

Both Deny Everything

Both men, police said, denied ownership of the explosives, wire, and tools, and denied they had any intent of using them.

Safe squad detectives pointed out that dynamite in original form is almost useless for blowing safes because of its comparatively bulky form and the difficulty of getting it inside a safe where it will exert pressure when detonated. Customary explosive for safe jobs, they pointed out, is nitroglycerine, a liquid which may be poured in through a small drill hole.

Chair Possible For Policeman In Arlington

Legal machinery which could send him to the electric chair began moving yesterday against an Arlington County policeman accused of breaking into a private home at gunpoint.

Warrants now specifically charge Pvt. Francis E. Dodson, 31, with breaking and entering at night with intent to commit rape and robbery. Either charge carries a possible death penalty at the discretion of the jury. If guilty, the minimum sentence is five to 18 years on each charge.

"I intend to also charge him with attempted rape," said Commonwealth's Attorney Denman T. Rucker, "a crime which carries a possible death penalty, or life imprisonment, or any term not less than three years."

To Go to Grand Jury

Rucker said the case will be presented to the grand jury after it convenes October 17.

Dodson, who lives at 1984 S. 12th rd., Arlington, is accused of entering the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Jack Bartels, at 2810-B S. 16th rd., shortly before 1 a. m. Thursday.

According to police, Dodson was masked and armed with his .38-caliber revolver. They say he forced the couple to strip, locked the husband in a closet and made indecent proposals to Mrs. Bartels, attractive 33-year-old mother of two daughters.

Later, according to police, Dodson, who had lost his gun in a scuffle with Bartels, was shot in the right leg by a neighbor, Air Force Col. William E. Elder, of 2812-A S. 16th rd., as he tried to escape.

Dodson remained in satisfactory condition yesterday at Arlington Hospital, although, according to his attorney, John Paul Jones, he is in great pain. The bullet shattered the leg bone.

"Refuses to Talk"

Arlington Police Chief Harry L. Woodyard said Dodson was questioned by police yesterday, but "he refuses to talk on advice of counsel."

Jones stated after a conference with Dodson:

"He's perfectly lucid, "but he doesn't remember anything from 11:30 p. m. Wednesday until 4 a. m. Thursday when he first realized he was in Arlington Hospital.

"He doesn't remember being shot. He doesn't remember anything. He had had a few drinks, and he ordinarily doesn't drink."

Police Pick Up $7800 Gift To Cab Driver

John Joseph Brennan, 42-year-old Washington cab driver, thinks that Cornelius LaRoy has a perfect right to give his money away, especially the $7800 he gave John Joseph Brennan.

LaRoy showered $15,000 on District cabdrivers, waitresses and pedestrians in five days, before police committed him to Gallinger Hospital Wednesday for mental observation.

Despite LaRoy's protestations that "It was my money; I came by it honestly, and I have a right to give it away," police recovered more than half of the $15,000 yesterday, including Brennan's $7800.

Late yesterday afternoon, however, Brennan hired two lawyers, who said they were going to file a claim against the police property clerk, the present holder of the slippery $7800.

The acting police property clerk indicated yesterday that he was going to hold the money at least longer than either LaRoy or Brennan.

Lieut. James Cox said he was not going to give anybody the money until a court ordered him to do so. He said Brennan's lawyers, Charles E. Ford and T. Emmett McKenzie, had not yet filed any claim in writing.

Brennan and $5030 of his $7800 windfall had already parted when police began recovering it. He put $3500 down on a new house; he spent another $1000 on some new furniture; he paid up an old hotel bill of $530. His wife had $1190 and his son had $1600. The money was recovered from the Brennans, a Southeast realty firm, a furniture store and the hotel, by police.

In addition, police yesterday recovered two diamond rings and two wrist watches they said LaRoy had given the Brennans.

LaRoy's brother in Kalamazoo told police Wedneseday that Cornelius had been "in poor condition" for two years and that his family had tried unsuccessfully to have him admitted to an institution. Robert LaRoy told police he would be in Washington yesterday but did not arrive.

LaRoy will be subjected to a series of examinations that may take 30 days.

Dr. Jones Is Named to Return As D. C. Training School Head

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

Appointment of Dr. Kenneth B. Jones as superintendent of the District Training School at Laurel was announced yesterday by the D. C. Board of Public Welfare.

Dr. Jones, who served as school superintendent from 1924 to 1934, is now chief of the mental hygiene division of the Maryland Department of Health.

When he served at the training school, it was housed in Army surplus buildings, with inadequate equipment and few admissions. It has now grown to an inmate population of about 700 persons, committed to the institution by the District courts.

Dr. Jones will assume his new duties on November 1, succeeding Dr. James A. Alston. Dr. Alston, who has been at the school since 1945 and served as assistant superintendent before the death of Dr. James Lewald, had asked the board to be relieved of his administrative duties.

John W. Tramburg, welfare department director, said yesterday that Dr. Alston's request was received by the board last week. Dr. Alston said he preferred a post as chief of treatment to the administrative duties he now performs.

In returning to that post, Dr. Alston will receive a salary of $7432.20, while Dr. Jones will get $8509.50, the salary Alston now receives as head.

Dr. Jones, who is 63, was born in Dorchester County, Md. He was graduated from the University of Maryland in medicine in 1911 and subsequently took postgraduate work in psychiatry at Johns Hopkins University and served as resident psychiatrist at the City Hospitals in Baltimore.

Since that time, his work has been mainly with Maryland and District institutions. He has served as superintendent of three major mental hospitals in Maryland:

Rep. White Gets Million for Ranch

Representative Cecil White (D., Calif.) announced yesterday he has sold his California ranch for one million dollars.

The 6000-acre ranch is in Kings and Kern Counties. About 2000 are in cotton production, the remainder in barley and flax.

The purchaser is Jess Goforth, head foreman of the Russell Griffin Ranches.

Policeman Rescues 3 Children As Silver Spring Home Burns

Metropolitan Police Pvt. Earl B. King, 35, carried three children to safety from a burning house in Silver Spring, Md., early yesterday.

Pvt. King

King, of the Accident Investigation Unit, left his home at 312 Penwood rd., Silver Spring, with his wife, at 6:35 a. m. Mrs. King was driving him to work.

Across the street, King saw smoke curling from an upstairs rear window of a house at 307 Penwood rd., occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John B. Shepherd and their four children.

King told his wife to call firemen while he entered the unlocked front door of the house.

"I heard a child crying," said King. "I went upstairs and found three children in a bedroom. I took on under my arm and helped another walk outside. Then I rushed back in to get the third child.

"By that time the smoke was so dense I had to feel my way. As I got out on the second floor landing with the child under my arm, I ran into the man who lived there.

"He asked me who I was. I told him and I told him his house was on fire. I told him I had already carried two of the children out and was carrying the third one out."

King went out with the third child and a few seconds later Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd emerged, Mrs. Shepherd carrying in her arms her 4-month-old infant, Thomas. The children carried to safety by King were James, 5; Pauline, 4 and Marie, 2.

With the family safely out and fire-fighting apparatus at the scene, King and his wife drove off.

"I couldn't be late for work," the policeman declared.

Silver Spring firemen said the blaze started in a second-floor bedroom, destroying Shepherd's wardrobe. Damage was estimated at $1000.

Fire Exhibit Tops Bethesda Show Today

A highlight of the closing day of the first annual Bethesda Trade Show today will be a fire prevention demonstration in which actual fires will be kindled and extinguished on the stage of the exhibition building.

The demonstration, conducted by Roy R. Allsop, a member of the Sparks Club, a national organization of mutual insurance field men, will take place at 4 p. m. at the Miller Building, Bethesda ave. and Ligon lane. It is based on common household fire hazards.

Also on display in the National Naval Medical Center's exhibit will be "Satan," a goat which survived the Bikini atom bombings. "Satan" is described by his attendants as a "mean, nasty old goat."

The third eliminations in the "Miss Bethesda Trade Show" competition will be held at 4:30 p. m. with the finals bringing together the nine survivors of the preliminaries at 10 p. m.

Winners in the first eliminations held Thursday night were Bertha Downey, 18, of 136 Leland st., Chevy Chase; Louise Cochrane, 17, of 110 Linden ave., Bethesda, and Jean Van Wagner of 4706 De Russey pkwy., Chevy Chase.

A variety of musical entertainment will be provided from 2 p. m. until the show closes. Included on today's program are radiomen Bill Herson, Charlie Edwards and Jackson Weaver, Television Songstress Jeanne Warner and Tiny Meeker's Orchestra.

Police Seeking Man Who 'Hit' Jackpot for $900

Somebody hit the jackpot yesterday for $900 in nickels, dimes and quarters but it's a mystery who.

The $900, incidentally, came from the back end of a coin collection truck parked in the 700 block of H st. ne. The "hit" was made by forcing the rear door of the truck while the driver, Cameron B. Derby of Box 211, Silver Spring, was making collections. The truck and money belong to the Joe McDonald Enterprises Co., 215 Dale dr., Silver Spring.

Thievery Rife, Officials Lax, Senator Says

Senator J. Allen Frear (D., Del.) took the Senate floor yesterday to apologize to his colleagues for the fact that Washington thieves had stolen an important document from him.

Frear then charged to reporters that police protection is lax and courts are lenient in dealing with thieves here. He said he would look into the matter further. He is a member of the Senate District Committee.

The document, stolen Thursday night from the parked car of Frear's executive secretary, was a report on the bill to increase postal rates. There was one other copy, and he filed that with the Senate.

Two Topcoats Also Taken

Stolen with the report was Senator Frear's topcoat, and a topcoat belonging to his secretary, Robert F. Kelly. The theft occurred while they were dining at the Statler with friends. The car was parked on L st. near 16th st. nw. The thieves broke a window to enter.

For Kelly, it was final proof of the thoroughness of Washington car thieves. From the same car, parked at the start of last Memorial Day weekend near the Senate Office Building, thieves took some $200 worth of luggage and its contents by opening an unlocked door.

Promises Investigation

Those thieves left behind one article, the coat that was stolen night before last. Kelly said none of the missing property was recovered.

Frear told the Senate he did not know what the police and courts were doing about such occurrences. He told the reporters he understood this type of theft was common in Washington, and that when the thieves are brought before the courts they get off very lightly.

"Personally, I object to it," he said.

He said he didn't intend to condemn anyone, but he does plan to look further into the problem of that type of crime.

King Blesses Betrothal

London, Sept. 30 (AP).—King George has given an "absolute affirmative" to the engagement of the Marquess of Milford Haven and New York socialite Mrs. Romaine Simpson, a spokesman for the Marquess said today.

Persistent Bad Check Passer Is Given 2½ Years in Prison

Judge Ellen K. Raedy of Municipal Court obviously does not have a good opinion of Richard J. Robinson, 25, and that is why he will be spending the next two years and a half in prison.

Robinson, who police say lived at 409 Smithson Court sw., was convicted of passing two bad checks early in July to merchants here. While awaiting sentence he passed a few more, resulting in a 180-day sentence last Tuesday.

When Robinson's attorney pleaded for leniency, Judge Raedy shook her head and said, "He's no good. Two years in jail."

In District Court Judge F. Dickenson Letts imposed a two-to-six-year prison term on David J. Devenney, no fixed address, convicted of four store burglaries in August. Devenney's loot totaled less than $100, according to police.

Ada Lee Sogren, 49, formerly of 623 Pennsylvania ave. se., who was convicted of giving fictitious names and addresses to a doctor to get narcotic prescriptions, was sentenced to two to six years.

Fairfax 'Gang' of 20 Boys Held in $3000 House Damage

Fairfax County police yesterday rounded up 20 small boys who caused about $3000 worth of damage to a vacant house that they admitted using as a "gang" headquarters.

Police said the young vandals might also be responsible for the recent theft of candles and two cruets of wine from the Falls (Episcopal) Church, as well as other housebreakings.

Police discovered the boys by chance after a father, looking for his hookey-playing son, found the boy and the gang in the vacant house near Hillwood Square, just outside Falls Church.

The father called police when he saw that the house was in a shambles, with holes punched in the ceilings, light fixtures ripped from the walls, venetian blinds torn from their sockets and wall boards smashed.

The father also reported that his house had been entered on two occasions recently with a total loss of $18 in cash.

Police said they had talked with six of the boys, who admitted damaging the vacant house.

The boys, now in the custody of their parents, will be interviewed further and then taken into Juvenile Court, police said.

Dr. E. S. Shepherd, Geophysicist, Dies

The Washington Post
DR. EARNEST S. SHEPHERD
At work in lab

Dr. Earnest S. Shepherd, 71, one of the first persons to discover that volcanic gasses were nothing more mysterious than steam with traces of carbon dioxide, died Thursday night at Emergency Hospital after a short illness.

He retired in 1946 after 39 years as a research scientist at the Geophysical Laboratory, Carnegie Institution of Washington.

Never an arm chair scientist, he investigated personally the forces which made volcanoes erupt. His work in experimental geology has pointed the way to much of the present understanding of the rocks and minerals formed from molten magmas.

Used Kilauea as Laboratory

During World War I, Dr. Shepherd used Kilauea crater on the slope of Mauna Loa, Hawaii, as his laboratory, and into the hissing, fiery-eyed throwback to the primordial, he thrust a glass vacuum tube, very much as a family doctor takes the temperature of a squalling child.

He wanted to know why volcanoes erupt, and thought their gasses would provide a clew to volcanic explosions. With his samples, Dr. Shepherd, combining his finding with those of other scientists, discovered that ordinary steam with traces of gas was the primary cause.

Dr. Shepherd was also known for his researches on silicate chemistry and the phase relations in alloys.

Graduate of Cornell

Born in Remington, Ind., he was graduated from Cornell University in 1902. For the next two years he was a research assistant in the Cornell chemistry department.

In 1904 he came to Washington to join investigators operating under a grant from the Carnegie Institution in quarters provided by the United States Geological Survey. In 1907, with the establishment of the Geophysical Laboratory at 2801 Upton st., he continued his researches there.

Following his retirement, he resided for a while in California, returning to Washington earlier this year. He lived for the past six months at 426 Willard ave., Chevy Chase. He is survived by a brother, R. A. Shepherd, Los Angeles. Interment will be private.

Dr. Degnan Dies; Resident Since 1926

Dr. Phillip A. Degnan, 40, general practitioner, died yesterday after a long illness.

Dr. Degnan, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., had been a resident of Washington since 1926, when he entered Georgetown University, graduating in 1930. He received his doctorate from the Georgetown Medical School in 1934 and was president of class during his four years in the medical school.

Upon graduation, he served several years in the Medical Corps of the United States Army, later setting up an office in 1941 at 821 Maryland ave. ne. where he practiced until he became ill.

He lived at 2224 34th st. se.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Eva May Degnan; one son, Phillip, jr.; one daughter, Margaret Anne; two sisters, Miss Silvia Degnan and Mrs. Walter Partrick, both of Brooklyn, and his father, James L. Degnan of Brooklyn.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a. m. at St. Francis Xavier Church, 2800 Pennsylvania ave. se. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Soldier Cleared Of Charges in Traffic Death

Sergt. Walter E. La Valley, 26, 111 5th st. se., was acquitted in Upper Marlboro Police Court yesterday of manslaughter and reckless driving charges arising from the traffic death of another Army sergeant September 6.

La Valley was exonerated by Judge Arthur P. Owens of blame in the death of Sergt. Aldus H. Shuman, 32, of Andrews Air Force Base, who was killed instantly when his motorcycle collided with La Valley's auto on the Military hwy., about a mile east of Silver Hill rd., in Prince Georges County. La Valley, also stationed at the Andrews base, was uninjured.

La Valley testified he was blinded momentarily by the lights of an oncoming car a split second before his auto and the motorcycle collided head-on. Judge Owens said there was insufficient evidence of gross negligence to convict him either of manslaughter or reckless driving.

Mrs. Julius Rosenwald

Beverly Hills, Calif., Sept. 30 (AP). Private funeral services will be held today for Mrs. Adelaide Rau Rosenwald, 80-year-old widow of the famed philanthopist and merchant, Julius Rosenwald.

Mrs. Rosenwald died Wednesday night. She had been ill for some time.

Her daughter, Edith Goodkind, had married Lessing J. Rosenwald, son of the philanthropist, in 1913. The younger Rosenwald succeeded to the chairmanship of Sears, Roebuck on his father's death, retiring in 1939.

Mrs. Ellender Dies; Wife Of Senator

Mrs. Helen Calhoun Donnelly Ellender, 54, wife of Democratic Senator Allen J. Ellender from Louisiana, died early yesterday at Doctors Hospital.

Death was attributed to a brain tumor. She had complained of constant and severe headaches during the past five weeks and was admitted to the hospital Tuesday for tests, according to Senator Ellender's office.

A native of New Orleans, Mrs. Ellender came to Washington in 1936 when her husband was elected to the Senate seat, held by Mrs. Rose McConnell Long, who had been appointed to succeed her husband, the late Huey Long. The Ellenders made their home in Washington at The Brighton, 2123 California st. nw.

During the war, Mrs. Ellender served as a nurses' aide here and took an active part in Red Cross work, which she continued up to the time of her death. She was elected president of the Ladies of the Senate, a Red Cross group, last January. She was also an active member of the Congressional Club, and was a former president of its Red Cross group.

Mrs. Ellender had returned little more than a month ago from a trip to Europe, having accompanied her husband to Rome, where he attended the International Health Conference of the U. N. as an adviser.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, Dr. Allen J. Ellender, jr., of Houma, La.; three grandchildren; her mother, Mrs. Mary Jane Hinds Donnelly of New Orleans; two brothers, John B.

John T. Barnes Funeral at 2 P. M. Today

Funeral services for John T. Barnes, 78, for 30 years a voluntary worker at the Smithsonian Institution, who died Thursday at Washington Sanitarium, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the Hines Funeral Home, 2901 14th st. nw. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Barnes, a native of Spalding, England, came to the United States about 40 years ago with Dr. William Schaus, authority on moths and butterflies. He became an American citizen.

The two men, both bachelors, traveled through Central America, South America and the West Indies searching for rare varieties of insects. Dr. Schaus died 10 years ago.

Since coming to Washington in 1914, Mr. Barnes did voluntary research for the Division of Insects at the Smithsonian.

For the last three years he lived at the Washington Sanitarium. He is survived by a niece, Mrs. Emily Kemp of Spalding.

Sir Herbert Walker

London, Sept. 30 (U.P.).—Sir Herbert Walker, 81, general manager of the Southern Railway from 1923 to 1937, and chairman of the Channel Tunnel Co., died at his home in Hampstead yesterday.

Walker decided that Southampton, not Liverpool, should be the principal British terminal for the fast ocean liners.

During World War I he was chairman of the railway executive committee and responsible for the transportation of the British Expeditionary Forces to France. He was knighted for that work.

Pension of $630 Seen for Ousted County Official

About $630 a year for life would be received by Alvie A. Moxley, ousted Montgomery County inspector of weights and measures, if reinstated and retired on pension under a proposal agreed upon by opposing attorneys in his suit against the County Council, it was learned yesterday.

The pension figure, however, is subject to final determination by the State Board of Retirements, according to County Attorney David Macdonald, who is handling the council's defense.

The 73-year-old Moxley was ousted from his job in April, 1947, when it was abolished by the county manager. He is contending that when the job was reestablished the following September he should have been restored to it under the county's civil service law. He is suing for reinstatement and back salary.

Judge Charles W. Woodward recessed the hearing September 22 for a date to be set next month.

TAXPAYERS—Washingtonians line up to pay real estate and personal property taxes yesterday in the District Building. The deadline, however, is extended to Monday morning

Payments for the first half of District real estate and personal property taxes received in the mail by Monday morning will be accepted without the penalty fee, the tax collector's office announced last night.

Officially, the deadline for such payments was last midnight, but since clerks have difficulty in separating mail received over the weekend, the penalty will not be levied on such payments.

More than 1000 residents lined up in the District Building yesterday to beat the deadline.

E. B. Lee Sues To Bar County Tax Land Sale

E. Brooke Lee, Montgomery County Democratic leader, yesterday filed suit in circuit court there to bar the County Council from disposing of property he maintains he owns.

This was the second such suit filed by Lee in four months.

The property in question, four lots on Colesville rd. near Laurel st., in Silver Spring, is included among 10 properties advertised for sale at auction on October 14.

County Attorney David Macdonald said approximately $600 is owed in back taxes on the lots which were bought in by a former board of commissioners at a 1938 tax sale.

Lee, who filed suit as president of Silver Spring Commercial Properties, Inc., contends that the 1938 sale was invalid and that the title he acquired from the prior owner in 1946 is in order. The suit states that the property was improperly advertised in 1938 in that the lots were not adequately described.

Last June Lee obtained a temporary injunction prohibiting the county from auctioning off a lot he owned on Piney Branch rd. near Ritchie ave., Silver Spring, on which back taxes amounted to about $115.

In that suit he maintained he had not received notice of any tax delinquency and was unaware the property was to be advertised for sale.

Game Rally Crowd Snarls Auto Traffic

University of Maryland students are mixing football spirits with traffic tieups again this year.

They did it again Thursday night after a pep rally for last night's Georgetown game. The practice started quite by accident in 1947, when automobiles leaving a pregame Maryland U.-North Carolina rally tied up traffic for hours, and the resultant horn bleating was horrendous.

This apparently gave the student body an idea, and last year they flowed out onto crowded Washington-Baltimore blvd. two or three times during the gridiron season.

Thursday night was this year's first traffic-football tieup for the Marylanders. Student witnesses estimated the crowd at 1000.

Police—campus Prince Georges County and State—called to the scene estimated the crowd at 3000.

Both sources agreed traffic was slowed down rather than tied up completely during the 1½-hour demonstration. Students on foot and armed with debris, flowed over the highway. Police cleared north and southbound lanes alternately to let automobiles through. They said they used to tear gas bombs to quiet the crowd.

However, Sergt. Boyd Hamilton of Prince Georges County police, said the students were "in a holiday frame of mind." He called their demonstration "good natured, with only a nuisance value."

Campus Police Chief Dan Wiseman told police to leave the students alone as much as possible. "They'll quit when they get tired," he said. And they did, at about 9:30 p. m.

Potomac River Group Studies Sewer Plants for Communities

Capon Springs, W. Va., Sept. 30 (AP).—Members of the interstate commission on the Potomac River basin are giving thought to setting up State agencies for financing, building, and operating municipal sewage treatment plants.

The commission, holding its eighth annual meeting, is discussing plans for each State to create its own authority for such projects.

Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and the District of Columbia are represented on the commission.

The proposed authorities would, on request by cities, take over the entire task of building and operating sewage treatment plants.

This would save communities up to 1 percent on financing such projects since the authority would have the standing of a State agency, it was pointed out.

Edwin Cotton, director of the commission, said the authority contemplated for Maryland would be set up chiefly for the Potomac basin system. But in time its work might be extended to other sections, he said.

Most of the smaller communities as well as some of the larger ones in Maryland—notably Cumberland—would be interested in the program, Cotton surmised.

Smaller towns in the States add greatly to pollution headaches since few of them possess sewage treatment plants.

The commission expects to act on the proposed authority at the close of its session tomorrow.

D. C. Drive Against VD Is Launched

The District's organized citizenry drive against venereal disease was launched yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee and committee chairman at the Municipal Center.

Dr. S. Ross Taggart, director of the health department's venereal disease bureau, said the object of the drive, supported by more than 50 citizen's groups, is to direct information as to the symptoms and treatment methods of VD into every Washington home.

A highlight of the drive will be "Call Me. 4600," believed to be the first television show about VD, to be presented Tuesday at 8 p. m. over Station WOIC.

The District Commissioners have indorsed the anti-VD campaign and proclaimed October 1 as the official date for the start of the drive.

"It is only through the action of an enlightened citizenry that the District can be rid of disease and our people made the healthiest in the Nation," the Commissioners said in a statement.

Asquith's Daughter Sees Britain Victor In Economic Battle

By Genevive Reynolds

DEVALUATION of the pound will add extra burdens on the British housewife. She will be hit hard by a price increase in bread—her mainstay these days. Her clothes will cost more as will all imports. This is the opinion of Lady Violet Bonham Carter, daughter of a Liberal Prime Minister, the late Earl of Oxford and Asquith.

While she forsees great difficulties from the drop in sterling values, she thinks devaluation was inevitable and should have come when the sellers' market ended. "Devaluation, however, is not a solution to our problem but just an opportunity which we must take with both hands," she says.

Lady Violet takes a leading part in the affairs of the party which her father once lead. In 1944-45 she served as president of the Liberal Party Organization and is currently vice president. She came to Washington Wednesday night and will remain through Sunday. Yesterday she was guest of honor at a luncheon given by the British Ambassador and Lady Franks and she appeared as guest speaker at a joint meeting of the Columbia University Alumnae Club and the International Student House.

'Floor for All, Ceiling for None'

FOR THE record she said that the Liberal Party advocates social justice, individual freedom and initiative. "We believe in a floor for all and a ceiling for none," she explained in an interview yesterday preceding her address before the alumnae club.

Will the British workers accept a wage freeze now which will mean a drop in their real wages? Lady Violet is convinced that their decision will determine whether or not Great Britain can hold the economic line. She, herself, has unshakeable faith in her country's future.

According to dynamic Lady Violet most people in Britain, including Liberals, would like to halt further nationalization of industries. "Many of the nationalized industries are operating on losses and the taxpayers have to foot the bill," she says. "Nationalization has not provided the hoped-for incentive."

A general election should be held in Great Britain within the next eight months, she insists. She points out that two million votes could change the domestic policy. Regardless of which party should win the elections, the foreign policy would not deviate from the Four Freedoms expressed in the Atlantic Charter.

To Repel Communism

"ALL signatories of the U. N. Charter, including the United States, are pledged to a full employment policy," she reminds. "High living standards and full employment are the strong est bulwarks we can build against communism."

Lady Violet believes that incentives should be furnished so that the hard-working British people would labor more efficiently. "We want an end of restrictive practices."

As for socialized or nationalized medicine, the basic principles meet her approval. However, she feel that the present set-up is untimely and unnecessarily extravagant. For example, she thinks a token payment for spectacles wouldn't be amiss. Always she has insisted that both poor and rich should have adequate medical care—equal opportunity for good health. Her own father started the old-age pension program when he was Prime Minister. "But the plan was solvent because he first obtained the money to support it," points out Lady Violet.

Wants Europe United

NOT ONLY has she been active on the domestic front but outstanding in international relations. She is vice chairman of the United Europe Movement, of which former Prime Minister Winston Churchill is chairman. This movement, a private nonparty organization, along with similar groups in European countries, sponsored the 1948 Hague conference which paved the way for the Council of Europe. Lady Violet was part of the British delegation to that conference.

From 1941 to 1946 Lady Violet Bonham Carter was a governor of the British Broadcasting Corporation. Since 1945 she has been a governor of the Old Vic, London's famous Shakespearean and operatic center. Recently she was a member fo the Royal Commission on the Press, which reported its findings and provoked a lively debate in the House of Commons in mid-1949.

This is Lady Violet's second visit here. Her first was in 1914. During her fortnight's stay she will give a series of lectures on "What the Liberal Party Stands for Today," and "Changes I Have Seen in British Life."

MISS SARAH CHURCHILL, daughter of former Prime Minister Winston Churchill, chats with Mrs. Oscar Chapman, wife of the Undersecretary of the Interior. Occasion was the American Newspaper Women's Club tea yesterday honoring Miss Churchill, who is currently playing in "The Philadelphia Story" at the Olney Theater

Do Dogs Eat Better Than People?

By Lucia Brown

CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 1.—"You meet such interesting people."

That's what everybody tells you when you work on a newspaper, and it's what we thought, too, when we met Dr. H. W. Howard at the food editors' conference here.

"Dogs eat better than people in the United States," says Dr. H. W. Howard, technical director for the Borden Co. We feed our pets a balanced diet to keep them healthy and peppy. A good canned dog food guarantees that.

As for ourselves, says Dr. Howard, though we know better, we calmly overlook the laws of nutrition when we're eating. No wonder we don't always feel or look our best.

Teaching your children good nutrition via their pets is suggested by Dr. Howard. He claims that dogs are made-to-order for the job. The kids see how much a good diet does for the pup, remember the lesson in later life.

Washington's own Arthur Godfrey was another person we met at the editors' conference. Just back from a trip to South America with Eddie Rickenbacker, he appeared at a luncheon given by his sponsor, Lipton's tea. Beside the red-haired Godfrey there was Robert B. Smallwood, president of Lipton's.

Americans vie with the English as tea-bibbers, Mr. Smallwood claims. Two-and-a-half times as much tea is drunk in this country as coffee and milk combined. More than half the dollars spent for tea go to buy those little tea bags. And did you know more than 1500 types of tea are grown?

You such interesting things at a food editors' conference, too. Take those out-of-this-world hors d'oeuvres at the Hotel Ambassador East, one of the country's most famous hotels. Puff paste rounds, filled with chicken salad . . . hunks of crab meat wrapped in bacon, speared with a toothpick, and broiled . . . thin curling slivers of party rye bread, toasted and buttered . . . tiny poppyseed rolls with a little hamburger inside, speared with toothpicks, served with ketchup . . . hot miniature franks with a dish of mustard for dipping purposes . . . fried chicken livers on toothpicks.

At the luncheon in the Ambassador's "Sarah Siddon Walk," given by Lipton's, there was curry served in coconut shells, with chutney and preserved kumquats on the side. The dessert was rich orange ice cream in whole orange rinds, with little removable caps, nested in a bed of green spun sugar.

And you see such interesting places. The huge Tam-o-Shanter Country Club, 10 miles out of Chicago, was the scene of the Tabasco Company's barbeque. It's a lavish layout, ultra-modern inside and out. They hold a lot of big pro-golf matches there have two courses, one tough, one so-so. Food was served from a large pit and pavillion on the grounds . . . barbeque sirloin and chicken in a red-hot sauce. Mammies in bandannas and checked dresses strummed on banjoes while the guests sang.

Then the Pump Room at the Ambassador. It's a fabulous spot, called by Lucius Beebe a "mid-continent oasis" for notables from both coasts. Bus boys wear green satin with white plumed turbans. Named after the bath, England, Pump Room, there's a portrait of Beau Nash on the midnight blue wall. All the food is either on wheels, served from rolling trays, or on fire, served deliciously singed from flaming swords.

Miss Churchill Is Tea Guest of Newswomen

"I know someone whom you all love. I'm sorry I don't look like him," quipped Sarah Churchill, referring to her famous father—Britain's former Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Blonde Sarah, who is appearing in the Olney Theater's current show, "The Philadelphia Story" said that audiences ofter gasped, "Why she doesn't look a thing like him," adding, "I do like my mother though—in a very good light."

Just ho wa talented daughter feels about her illustrious father came out yesterday when Miss Churchill appeared as guest of honor at the American Newspaper Women's Club's tea held at the clubhouse, 1604 20th st., nw.

In an informal talk the actress remarked she was glad to find the American people loved the theater as much as the British.

Asked if she had expected to play before the President of the United States President (he attended the Olney benefit performance Monday night) she replied. "No. I heard rumors that President Truman was coming to the theater but I didn't believe it until I saw him. Having the First Family in the audience was an enormous thrill."

Diplomatic and residential society as well as newspaper women jammed the club's headquarters to greet and hear Miss Churchill. Among the 300 present were Mme. de Morgenstierne, wife of the Norwegian Ambassador; the new Dominican Minister and Senora de Dario Contreras; the Third Secretary of the Dominican Embassy and Senora Anibal Diaz; Mrs. Harold Burton, wife of the Associate Justice, just back from a trip to Switzerland; Mrs. Oscar Chapman, wife of the Undersecretary of the Interior; Rear Admiral and Mrs. Clark Howell Woodward, USN (retired); Mrs. Ernest Becker, wife of Capt. Becker, USN; Mrs. George Malone, wife of the Nevada Senator; Mrs. Lawrence Smith, wife of the Wisconsin Representative.

Miss Grace McGerr, club president received with Miss Churchill.

Cuba Decorates W. R. Hearst, Sr.; Luncheon Honors Corominas

CUBA'S HIGHEST decoration—the Grand Cross of the Order of Merit Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, was awarded for the first time to a newspaper editor in a ceremony at the Cuban Embassy yesterday afternoon.

For his part in the campaign for Cuban Independence, William Randolph Hearst, sr., owner and publisher of newspapers and magazines, received the grateful thanks of Cuba. Mr. Hearst, unable to come from San Simeon, his California ranch, had designated his son, William Randolph Hearst, jr., to accept the golden medal.

Mr. and Mrs. Hearst stood with their hosts, the Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Gans, in the small drawing room to welcome the 200 or more guests, both women in black. Senora de Gans' gown was of crepe with softly draped skirt and a diamond brooch sparkling at the neckline. Mrs. Hearst wore a fitted gown of black velvet with a tiny hat to match.

Veterans of the Spanish-American War living in Washington, had been asked to the fete, as well as members of the Cabinet and the Congress. There were others from the newspaper fraternity in Washington, and the Cuban Embassy staff.

Paul Daniels, United States Ambassador to the Pan American Union, was there with Mrs. Daniels. Mrs. George V. Allen, wife of the Assistant Secretary of State, was alone, as her husband is touring Europe.

Rosa Ponselle, who is returning to New York tomorrow, came with Mrs. Thomas R. Cowell and George Williams and Mrs. Perrin of Baltimore. Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, wearing black covered with a silver blue mink stole, was also wearing for the first time, a string of large and perfectly matched pearls, her husband's birthday gift.

Ambassador Gans, in making the presentation speech to young Mr. Hearst, traced his father's role in Cuba's history. He told of his successful attempt to free the young daughter of a Cuban patriot who was to be imprisoned by the Spanish, and mentioned too that his own father, an American, born in Brooklyn, had been a member of the American forces in the war.

Sr. Corominas Guest Of Council of OAS

ENRIQUE COROMINAS, retiring Ambassador of the Argentine to the Organization of American States, was honored yesterday at a luncheon given by the Council of the OAS. As Ambassador Corominas has served as chairman of the group, yesterday's host was Ambassador Joheps D. Charles of Haiti, vice chairman.

When elections come up in November, it is believed the Mexican Arbassador to OAS, Luis Quintanilla, will succeed Ambassador Corominas as council chairman. Meanwhile, Jeronimo Remorino, Ambassador of the Argentine to the United States, has been appointed Ambassador to OAS as well, although it was rumored at the luncheon he will soon leave for Paris.

General Duque, Party Honored

THE Philippine Military Attache, Col. Jaime Velasquez, and Mrs. Velasquez honored Gen. Calixto Duque, deputy chief of staff of the Philippine armed forces, and his party at a cocktail reception last evening at the Philippine Embassy. The general and his aides came to Washington with President Quirino last August, and have remained here on special mission. They are returning to the Philippines next month.

A dinner will be given this evening in honor of General Duque by the Gen. Vincente Lim Post 5471 at the Willard Hotel. The post, which was organized and granted a charter in the spring of 1946, has as one of its objectives the promotion of international relationship between Filipino veterans and American veterans.

Israeli Staff Dines Departing Officials

THE EMBASSY OF ISRAEL was the scene of a farewell party on Thursday evening when members of the staff entertained for Uriel Heyd, First Secretary, and Mrs. Heyd; Harvey Rosenhouse, assistant to the press adviser, and Barouch Friedman, secretary to the Military, Naval and Air Attaches. The Ambassador and Mrs. Elath made short speeches and with members of the staff presented farewell gifts.

Helen Esgate, Tariff Expert, Wins Treasury Dept. Award

MISS HELEN H. ESGATE was given the Treasury's Albert Gallatin certificate for 32 years of distinguished service at a luncheon held in her honor by fellow employes in the Bureau of Customs yesterday.

The certificate was presented by Commissioner Frank Dow in the presence of 100 Bureau of Customs workers who were honoring Miss Esgate at a Raleigh Hotel luncheon, on her retirement as chief of the section of tariff classification.

Commissioner Down termed Miss Esgate a leading authority on tariff law, and an outstanding Government career woman. He said her decision to retire meant a great loss to the bureau.

Native of Iowa

MISS ESGATE, a native of Marion, Iowa, entered the bureau in 1917 as a clerk-secretary. Her interest turned to tariff law and administration and she determined to direct her career into the legal field.

She obtained her LL. B. from the Washington College of Law in 1923 and became a member of the District bar a year later. She is a member of Kappa Beta Pi, legal sorority, and the American Association of University Women.

Miss Esgate drew increasingly responsible legal assignments in the bureau, and in 1930 was made assistant chief of the division of tariff classification. In 1938 she was named chief of division (now the section of tariff classification) of the division of tariff and marine administration.

Trade Pacts Adviser

SERVING with the Tariff Commission as a legal expert, Miss Esgate prepared data and suggestions for the commission and members of Congress during the 1930 revision of the Tariff Act. In the development of the trade agreements program she has had a large part as an adviser as to technical form and language.

Keep to Food Patterns Taught This Week For Future Wellbeing

(This is the last of 12 articles on teen-age slimming)

By Ida Jean Kain

THIS IS the wind-up column for the teen-age series. For some of you it may be just the beginning. If you still have a long way to go to be healthy, normal weight, keep right on eating to reduce.

IDA JEAN KAIN

To steer clear of carbohydrate detours, remember our teen-age girl who had the courage to stay with it, changing her weight from 175 pounds, size 20, to 130 pounds, size 14. She slimmed off a total of 15 inches. This took over a year, and she changed her food habits for good.

Take that tip, girls. Establish right food habits now, then you will not be struggling against every rich dessert or carbohydrate confection that comes your way. By building the three meals a day around the protective foods first and reframing your food habits, the fattening foods lose their old-time power over you.

Those of you who are nearing normal weight should continue to follow this same good pattern of eating, adding more bread and butter, fruit and milk, and perhaps an occasional dessert. After you've fixed your weight at normal for your height and age, bring the calories to 2400 a day, your normal requirement. But don't relapse into skipping the protective foods, overeating on desserts and munching between meals . . . or you'll be right back where you started.

For those who tuned in late, here's the backbone of grade A nutrition around which the three meals should be planned: Milk, eggs, cheese, lean meat, vegetables, fruits, wholegrain or enriched cereal and bread, and butter. To curtail calories, cut the fat trimmings. To clear up a blotchy complexion, go light on all fats and confections, and cut out chocolate in every form.

For a time you'll have to keep an eye on your particular dietary weakness. If second, or alas, third helpings, proved your undoing, take two or three helpings say of scalloped potatoes, and pile this whole thing on your plate at one time. Take a good look . . . seeing is believing.

You can have a snack after school, but let it be milk or fruit. You can have desserts, but not every night.

The role of exercise is to keep svelte—15 minutes of stretching, side-bending and leg swinging keep muscles toned, and well-toned muscles rebuff fat.

Is it worth it? you may question. Recall our model's story: "After the first week it wasn't difficult, it was fun! I soon lost interest in double sundaes and my uncle's bakery. My skin cleared and my hair was less oily. I became interested in the activities I had shunned before. I gained confidence, poise and new friends.

"The year's biggest dance came almost on the anniversary of my crusade. I wouldn't have traded the look in my escort's eyes as he waited to greet me with flowers, for all the sundaes in the world . . ."

How to Wash Nylon Curtains

Will you tell me how to wash my white nylon curtains safely and still get the weather stains out? F. D.

Wash the curtains in one or two sudsings of mild soap and lukewarm water. Stubborn stains can be removed by using color remover which is sold where dyes are sold. Be sure to buy the color remover intended for use on nylon (it's stated on the package) and follow directions for mixing which come with it.

When stains are gone, rinse curtains three times and hang to dry. If the curtains are not wrung to remove excess moisture, but are hung up dripping wet, you will avoid causing creases in them which have to be removed later by pressing. Pull curtains straight on the line and dry thoroughly. Press hems with an iron set to "rayon" temperature.

I would appreciate a good recipe for spiced peach preserve. R. H. M.

Old Fashioned Spiced Peach Preserves

1 gallon peeled peach halves
4 cups sugar
stick cinnamon whole cloves

Peel peaches either by paring thinly or dropping into boiling water for a minute to loosen the skin. Cut in half and remove pits. As you peel, arrange them in a large preserving kettle, sprinkling each quart of peach halves with 1 cup sugar (or a little less for a tart preserve). Cover the kettle and let stand overnight. Next morning drain the syrup off carefully, heat to boiling and add the peaches. Boil briskly for 30 minutes, shaking the pan vigorously from time to time. Then reduce the heat and simmer slowly until the peaches take on a translucent appearance and the syrup is very thick. It takes one and one-half to two hours. It is a good idea to place an asbestos pad under the preserve kettle during cooking to avoid scorching. Tie stick cinnamon and whole cloves in a cheese cloth bag and drop into the preserves during the last 30 minutes of cooking. Remove the spice bag and place preserves in hot, sterilized jars. Seal. Makes about four pints of preserves.

D. C. State Societies to Further 1950 Sesquicentennial Celebration

By Nicha Soure

WASHINGTONIANS who are up in the air about the forthcoming Sesquicentennial celebration can count on the aid of at least one local organization—the Conference of State Societies Officers—in their difficulties.

Not only have the State societies voiced their approval but they will work actively to promote the 1950 Capital City festivities.

At a meeting in the Senate Caucus room, Wednesday, the conference board will map out plans to bring to the Congress' attention the importance of the Freedom Fair. Carl M. Walker, conference chairman, will preside.

THE first of a group of eight teas of the Oklahome State Society at the Women's City Club will be held Sunday from 4 to 6 p. m.

The affairs will be under the supervision of Mrs. Charles M. Perry, who will be assisted by Mrs. Hurshel Underhill and Mrs. William L. Clark. Receiving the guests Sunday will be Representative and Mrs. Carl Albert and Mrs. Paul Bigbee, Mrs. Emmaline Samuel, Mrs. Leo Resnick and Mrs. Wainwright Bridges will preside at the tea table.

The first of five scheduled dances of the Oklahoma society will be on November 5 in the main ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

For information concerning membership, contact Mrs. Marie M. Stewart, membership chairman, at the Chastleton Apartment Hotel, 1701 16th st. nw., or call Dupont 1000.

THE West Virginia State Society had a decision to make this summer: Should the fall schedule of dances be formal and exclusively for West Virginians or informal and open to the public?

It was a question that no one officer wanted to rule on so they polled the membership. When the result turned out 50-50, the board of governors and the entertainment committee came up with a solution. Why not have half the dances informal and the other half formal?

It was so ordered. Three of the monthly dances will be in the west ballroom of the Shoreham for members and guests only. There West Virginians may get together with their friends from the State and renew old acquaintances. The other three will be held in the new ballroom and open to the public as in the past.

The first of the public dances on the new schedule will be held next Saturday from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m., with Dave McWilliams' orchestra playing.

For additional information contact Pearl Roberta Barrows, financial secretary, 7036 31st st. nw.

OCTOBER 8 will be the date for another State society party—this one the Tennessee tea in the Senate caucus room at 4 p. m.

Guests of honor will be the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Knox T. Hutchinson and Judge Edith H. Cockrill of the District of Columbia Juvenile Court.

WITH great expectations of surpassing last year's record of gala parties, the Minnesota State Society will hold their first dance October 8 at the Wardman Park Hotel. Dancing will be to the music of Barnee Lowe's orchestra.

ARKANSAWYERS in Washington will swing out to the music of Madelyn Shepperd's all-girl orchestra at a dance on October 8 in the west ballroom of the Shoreham.

Dr. John Steelman, president of the Arkansas State Society, and Mrs. Steelman will head the receiving line which will include the congressional delegation and their wives and officers of the society.

A special feature wil be an acrobatic dance during intermission by 14-year-old Bobbie Lynn Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Bell, formerly of Arkansas.

Miss Joan Mathews is head of the hostess committee for the dance and Ray Davis and C. M. Hirst will be in charge of arrangements.

MAGNOLIA Staters, attention!

Mississippians will gather for the first State society dance of the season at the Shoreham October 15. Dancing will be from 9:30 to 1 a. m. This dance will be dedicated to new members of the society and will be followed by other monthly dances.

For information, contact Miss Susan P. Burress, secretary, 1020 19th st. nw., or call Republic 4085.

TODAY'S STATE SOCIETY EVENTS include the North Carolina and Georgia dances, both at the Shoreham.

Former residents of the Peach State will dance in the west ballroom beginning at 9 p. m.

In the large ballroom will be the Tar Heels who will be celebrating the opening of the North Carolina State Society's golden jubilee. Dancing will be from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Preceding the dance there will be a reception for new members by officers of the society and the board of governors. The receiving line will include the society president, John K. Slear; Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray, Commissioner of the Court of Claims W. Ney Evans, Assistant Attorney General T. Lamar Caudle, Representative Herbert Bonner, Undersecretary of State James Webb, Comptroller General of the United States Lindsay Warren, Senator Clyde R. Hoey, and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury John S. Graham.

Dance Marks Gun Factory Sesqui Fete

In celebration of the sesquicentennial anniversary of the founding of the Washington Navy Yard and the Naval Gun Factory, a dance was held last evening in the Sail Loft. Yellow and white chrysanthemums decorated the dance room, and continuous music was provided by two special orchestras from the Navy School of Music.

Hosts were Superintendent of the Naval Gun Factory, Rear Admiral F. G. Fahrion, and the senior personnel. Dancing from 10 to 1 was preceded by a number of small dinner parties.

Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Horton were hosts at dinner, as well as Capt. and Mrs. Carter Printup, Capt. and Mrs. James M. Robinson and Capt. and Mrs. H. M. Briggs. A cocktail party given by Capt. and Mrs. J. W. Boundy was attended by the queen of the sesquicentennial, Miss Mary Margaret Long. Members of the queen's court, Miss Ruth Otter, Miss Doris Osborne, Mrs. Virginia Kegel and Mrs. Ethel Tigner, were also present.

Guests were received at the ball by Admiral and Mrs. Fahrion, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Green and Lieut. Comdr. H. C. Allendorfer, aide to Admiral Fahrion. Among those who attended were Rear Admiral and Mrs. A. T. Noble, Vice Admiral John Dale Price, Vice Admiral A. D. Struble, Vice Admiral and Mrs. William Morrow Fechteler, Miss Drucie Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Carter Barron, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morris and Mr. and Mrs. F. H. P. Sidons.

Movie to Be Made Of 'Tri-State Gang'

Board Seat Rivals

2 Candidates In Arlington Outline Aims

Two of the three candidates for a single seat on the Arlington County board of supervisors have issued platforms on which they will campaign.

Contestants for the seat, to be filled in the November election, are: Basil M. DeLashmutt, incumbent Democrat; Robert W. Cox, nonpartisan candidate nominated earlier this year by six county civic organizations, including the Better Government League; Jacob Bechtel, independent.

Cox, who is budget officer for the Federal Communications Commissions, pronounced himself in favor of:

1. "More active and alert supervision of county business to obtain greater efficiency."

2. A thorough study of the county's tax structure, aimed at "fairer distribution of the tax burden."

3. Support of policies of the county's elected school board.

Delashmutt, Arlington surveyor and engineer, claimed sponsorship in his statement of a "long-range capital improvement program" during his 10 years on the board, including a permanent street and sidewalk construction program and an adequate water storage reservoir. He laid claim, too, to initiation of "a permanetn master zoning program," and "a long and tireless fight for proper handling of sewage and garbage waste."

Additional garbage collection is now a "passing need," DeLashmutt said.

The Tri-State Gang that terrorized Washington and surrounding areas in the early 30s is going to be filmed by Warner Brothers. "Shooting," on the scene, is expected to start in November.

Floyd Truscott, assistant superintendent of Washington police, but in the '30s a sergeant, and Leo de Waard, now a retired postal inspector living in Bushville, Md., who were active in breaking up the gang, will be among those who will be reenacted in the film.

The picture will be directed by Andrew Stone, who wrote the film "story," with Bryan Foy as producer and Turner Shelton as assistant producer.

This was disclosed by Shelton, a native of Louisa County, Va., and brother of David R. Shelton, an attorney with offices in the Munsey Building.

Selton, who was director of motion pictures for the Treasury Department during the war, said, "we expect to be back in November for about three weeks with the full company. We have checked on the weather and are told that it will hold until after Christmas."

Shelton said the principal scenes will be laid Washington and Richmond, with some in Baltimore, and that the cooperation of officials in all three cities "has been simply wonderful."

The studio is not yet ready to announce the cast, he said. The picture will be released in the spring of 1950.

Mrs. Patenotre Pays 2 Million In Back Taxes

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—The widow of a former French ambassador today pleaded guilty to charges of income tax evasion, paid two million dollars to the Federal tax collector and received a one-day suspended sentence.

The widow, Mrs. Eleanor Louise Patenotre, 80, then left the Federal building in a chauffeur-driven car.

The charges involved an accusation that she failed to pay $2,183,347.67 income tax on the 1930 sale of her controlling interest in the Philadelphia nquirer to the Curtis-Martin interests of Philadelphia.

The Government accepted the two million dollars in payment of that liability for that year only. However, the prosecutor said later that from 1931 to 1949 the Government estimates there was a deficiency of taxes for Mrs. Patenotre and her son, Raymond, of an additional three million dollars.

"The Government," the prosecutor said, "is holding $3,400,000 in securities at J. P. Morgan & Co., so as to secure payment of those taxes."

Circumstances Make Barkley Cards Rooter

Vice President Alben W. Barkley revealed yesterday that "circumstances," (i. e. romance) have made him a St. Louis Cardinal rooter.

Barkley mentioned his baseball sentiments after FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover brought up the Veep's reported romance with Mrs. Carleton Hadley, St. Louis widow.

Said Hoover in introducing Barkley at FBI National Academy graduation exercises:

"According to the best FBI information, the Vice President is about to achieve success in the field of romance."

Grinning broadly, Barkley sallied: "You understand that the announcement just made by Mr. Hoover is not authentic.

"As I have said before, I have no way of knowing whether I'll make the grade, but it's a wonderful thing to have the head of the FBI pulling for me."

The Vice President then recalled that another speaker, Federal Judge Harold M. Kennedy of New York, had voiced his jitters about the brightening fate of the Brooklyn Dodgers, in the National League pennant race.

"I share the judge's nervousness," said Barkley. "But under the circumstances, I'm pulling for St. Louis."

Fifty-five law enforcing officers from 27 States and Puerto Rico were graduated from the academy.

Hospital Tests Of Vandenberg Are Completed

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 30 (AP). — University Hospital specialists completed today a series of tests on Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) and said the results will be known "in two or three days."

Dr. John Alexander, chief of the thoracic surgery department, said after the diagnosis is completed the results will be discussed with the Republican leader's personal physician, Dr. A. B. Smith of Grand Rapids.

"In the meantime, we wish to report that Senator Vandenberg is getting along quite well and is in his usual good humor," Dr. Alexander said.

The Senator, Republican champion of a bipartisan foreign policy, entered the hospital Monday for diagnosis of a lung lesion.

7 Die in Blaze In Kansas City Apartment

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 30 (U.P.).—Seven persons died today in Kansas City's third rooming house fire in the past three years.

Firemen blamed careless handling of cigarettes for the blaze in an ancient two-story frame house.

Two previous rooming house fires killed 14.

Twenty persons lived in the 10-room house operated by Mrs. Aurora Dayse, 69. Seven, including two babies, were carried out dead by firemen. Four others, including Mrs. Dayse, were hospitalized.

Cleatis M. Hershey, 24, returned from work to find his family wiped out. The dead included his son, Cleatis, jr., 26 months old; his 9-month-old daughter, Myrtle Marie, and his wife, Mrs. Myrtle M. Hershey, 25. Firemen found the body of Lorraine Ellis, 17-year-old niece of Mrs. Hershey, in their rooms. The other three dead were Mrs. Florence Richards, 85; her blind son, Owen Richards, 45, and Mrs. Cora Andrews, 65.

Bogey Wins Round No. 2 With Model

New York, Sept. 30 (U.P.).—A judge ruled today Humphrey Bogart had a perfect right to use force to defend his panda doll against the advances of a pretty woman.

It took Magistrate John R. Starkey only 15 minutes to decide that male chivalry covers the defense of toy dolls as well as live ones.

He dismissed assault charges against Movie "Tough Guy" Bogart, who had been accused by Model Robin Roberts, 23, of knocking her down in El Morocco night club and bruising her chest in three places.

"The publicity man in this particular night club to my mind created this situation," Starkey said.

The spectators applauded Starkey's ruling and booed Miss Roberts and her mink-draped companion, Mary O'Connell.

"It's an eminently fair decision," Bogart said.

One on the Aisle—

'Irma's' Slumber Is Radio's Loss

By Richard L. Coe

MARIE WILSON, "My Friend Irma" of radio and screen, in town to shoot off that 1799 cannon at the Naval Gun Factory, was scheduled yesterday to appear on virtually all WTOP's programs, wandering in and out from 7 ayem.

Not being a radio listener—I'd rather be at the movies anytime—I don't know what programs soap-conscious Marie missed, but she did oversleep and did skip some of her advertised dates.

Besides oversleeping, blond, brown-eyed Marie had a cold. By midafternoon, however, she was struggling about town still hearing cannon thunder.

Miss Wilson, who thinks that some of her art lies in making a dirty joke sound clean, has just wound up a seven-year run in Ken Murray's "Blackouts," which lately took to New York after its phenomenal record in Los Angeles. Marie's not in it in Gotham—too much else to do.

"I gave Ken a year's notice," she explained in that matter-of-fact tone that made her "Irma" so popular—and as though it's a run of the mill thing for a star of the legit to tell the management that she's leaving a show in a year. I never will get used to these Californians.

"Ken never liked it for me to take off, and though I missed 14 days during the first two years, I worked every night for the past five, three shows Sundays, two Saturdays. And I made movies some of those days."

So, you see, Marie's possibly not so goofy a girl as Irma. She'll be along soon in Paramount's "My Friend Irma," and probably without her cold.

NOW OFFICIAL is the fact that "Jolson Sings Again" will play the Metropolitan, opening a run on Thursday the 13th . . . This allows the Warner, crown house of the Brothers Warner, to continue its schedule without having to slide everything along to make way for Al . . . The picture takes up where "The Jolson Story" stopped, carrying Al through the war years, his USO shows and the present results of the first picture . . . The Metropolitan run will be for continuous performances, an upped admission.

HELEN HAYES is expected to resume her Sunday night radio series within a few weeks . . . Her program was scheduled to succeed "Meet Corliss Archer" the 9th, but that one will continue a few more weeks . . . With her husband, Playwright-Editor Charles MacArthur, Miss Hayes is now resting abroad.

MARGARET BANNERMAN, one of the most distinguished players to grace the Olney stage this or any other summer, has had a theatrical career that would take columns to relate . . . Long one of the ruling stars of the British stage, with her own theater, Miss Bannerman, born a Canadian, came to the States early in the war and has since delighted her professional associates as well as her audiences . . . Monday night's benefit dress rehearsal, attended by the President and Mrs. Truman, was called to order by one of her thoughtful gifts . . . An antique fancier herself, Miss Bannerman learned that Martin Shwartz of the Olney staff, had his eye on an elephant bell in a nearby antique shop as a memento of his country summer . . . Dame Margaret (that title's honorary, not King's English) made him a surprise present of it, which was why curtain time has been signaled this week not by Manager Skinner's blatant cowbell, but by the Oriental tinkle of an elephant bell.

BACK IN TOWN is Valerie Warde, ready to open her Children's Drama Studio on Dupont Circle after an unexpectedly profitable summer . . . She played supporting roles at the Lakewood Theater, Skowhegan, Me., grandpappy of the summer circuit. . . . Next year Melville Burke's theater will be celebrating its fiftieth summer.

TONIGHT begins a series of revivals at International Student House, with "Odd Man Out" going on at 8:30 . . . This club is at 1825 R st. nw., and reservations should be made at Michigan 4007.

Alexandria Council Sets Referendum

The Alexandria City Council yesterday ordered a special advisory referendum on whether city councilmen and elective city officials shall be named on a nonpartisan basis under the new city charter.

The referendum, to be held next November 8 coincident with the general election, is designed to get the "sense of the voters" on which method of city election they prefer.

Yesterday's action was taken at a special council meeting attended by four of seven members. Their action was unanimous.

Councilmen pointed out that the results of the referendum will not be binding on them. However, they said that public hearings conducted on provisions of the new city charter had proved the nonpartisan issue to be the most controversial involved.

Actual wording of the referendum is:

"Shall the proposed new charter for the City of Alexandria provide for the election of city councilmen and elective city officers on a nonpartisan basis."

Still undecided is whether two city officers, the city attorney and the city collector, shall be elected or appointed. However, the referendum language on which residents will vote will not affect this issue, councilmen pointed out.

Critic's Forum Opens 10th Season Tuesday

Judge Fennell on Road To Recovery at Hospital

Judge Aubrey B. Fennell is "on his way to recovery" from a coronary attack, Mount Alto Hospital physicians reported yesterday.

When he entered the hospital September 19, Judge Fennell was described as "acutely ill." The doctors now say that he is no longer being administered oxygen, but they would not estimate how soon he will be released.

In Chicago

Hormone Compound Discovered

Chicago, Sept. 30 (AP).—A Negro chemist has extracted from soya beans a hormone compound that some scientists believe may do the work of the new wonder drug cortisone.

Dr. Julian

Cortisone or Compound E has produced sensational results in patients with crippling arthritis. But the bile from 14,600 oxen is required to produce enough cortisone to treat one patient for a year.

The chemist is Dr. Percy L. Julian, 50, grandson of a former Alabama slave and director of research in the soya products division of the Glidden Company of Cleveland and Chicago.

The new product is called compound S. Dr. Julian said it is "chemically analogous" to cortisone, lacking only an oxygen atom in its molecular structure. Some scientists say the body may replace the missing atom.

Jobless Ranks Decreased in September

The ranks of the unemployed lessened in September for the second consecutive month, the Census Bureau reported yesterday.

But the number of employed persons also declined from the 1949 peak of last month, the bureau said. This simultaneous drop in both unemployment and employment was attributed in large part to the return to school of numerous summer-time workers.

Unemployment figures moved down from 3,689,000 in August to 3,351,000 in September, but remained nearly double the 1,899,000 mark of September, 1948.

The number of workers in civilian jobs was estimated at 59,411,000 last month against 59,947,000 in August and 60,312,000 in September of last year.

The bureau said there was some evidence unemployment was down for persons above school age as well as for school and college youngsters who withdrew from the job-seeking ranks to resume their studies.

Tax Lien of $2785 Discharged by Bureau

Notice was filed yesterday in District Court by the Bureau of Internal Revenue that a tax lien for $2785.48 against Mack and R. Stoller, 1624 Van Bureau st. nw., has been discharged.

Morse Offers Plan to Revise Tax Structure

Tax recommendations of the Committee for Economic Development, calling for a balanced budget and debt retirement in an expanding national economy, were introduced yesterday in the Senate by Senator Morse (R., Oreg.).

Morse offered a comprehensive program for overhauling the tax laws, based largely on CED proposals. He told the Senate it delayed tax revision long enough.

The bill, setting a minimum goal of 300 billion dollars in national output within four or five years, coincided with the President's call for a 100-billion-dollar expansion in the national income.

Ends Fiscal Quarter

As Morse addressed the Senate, the Government finished the first quarter of the new fiscal year about $1,400,000,000 in the red—and with prospects strong for going deeper into the hole.

Guesses on the budget deficit by the end of fiscal 1950 next June 30 ranged from two billion dollars by an Administration expert to seven billion dollars by Senator Byrd (D., Va.).

It had to be guesswork because the final outcome will depend in large part on what Congress does about a lot of appropriation bills which are three months late and awaiting action.

As things now stand, about a third of the record peacetime spending blueprinted by President Truman for fiscal 1950 in his January budget message is affected by incompleted bills.

The Morse bill calls for balancing the budget and orderly reduction of the debt in times of maximum employment, production and purchasing power, "while realizing that this condition is unattainable when economic activity is declining or when resources of plant and manpower are substantially lying idle."

Tax rates would be set to achieve this objective. They would not be subject to any major change "unless there is some major change in national policy or condition of national life."

Repeal of Some Taxes Asked

Other titles in Morse's bill provide for:

1. Repeal of a long list of excises, ranging from excises on baby oil and baby powder to taxes on electric, gas and oil appliances.

2. Accelerated amortization on private investment and plant capacity.

3. Averaging business losses over a five-year period.

4. Elimination of tax exemption on future Federal, State and municipal securities.

"No Longer Any Excuse"

5. A temporary 18-member commission, along the lines of the Hoover Commission, to propose fundamental revision of the entire Federal, State and local tax structure.

Morse said he urged favorable action on C. E. D. tax recommendations in 1947 and 1948. He said he was told the proposals were "meritorious," but should await thoroughgoing tax revision.

"Such arguments amount to political buck-passing," said Morse. "Everyone seems agreed that we need a fundamental and thoroughgoing revision of our Federal tax structure . . . I believe that today, more than four years after the collapse of Japan, there is no longer any excuse . . ."

GI Study Order Hit

By Robert Thompson
Post Reporter

A new blast of criticism was fired here yesterday at the controversial Instruction 1-A of the Veterans' Administration by the American Council on Education, representing virtually every institution of higher learning in the United States.

Through its committee on relationships of higher education to the Federal Government, the organization:

1. Demanded that the effective date of the disputed instruction be moved back again, to March 1, 1950, or until Congress acts to remedy the situation the instruction would create.

2. Unanimously approved a bill introduced by Senator Taft (R., Ohio) which would virtually strip Veterans' Administrator Carl R. Gray of his authority to limit veterans in choice of school courses under the GI Bill of Rights Act.

3. Decided to draw up a set of principles which should be included in any revision of Instruction 1-A.

The controversial instruction was promulgated by the VA pursuant to an act of Congress which outlawed "avocational and recreational" courses under the GI bill. The new VA regulation would make any veteran who wishes to change courses, or wishes to resume study after an interruption, justify his schooling from now on to be certain it is not "avocational or recreational."

It also classes every vocational school course established since 1944 as "avocational and recreational" and requires justification by the veteran, even though the course may be bricklaying or blacksmithing.

The regulation was first ordered into effect on September 12, but was not publicly announced until September 15. Nevertheless, veterans coming under its provisions could get no money for tuition, books or subsistence until the "justification" was approved. There was no retroactive clause. Subsequently, Gray ordered the effective date moved back to November 1, where it now stands.

The meeting here yesterday, at the Hotel Lafayette, was attended not only by members of the council committee, but also by representatives of the National Education Association, vocational, private, religious, and other school groups, and by representatives of a number of large universities.

Dr. Francis J. Brown, staff associate of the council and executive secretary of the committee, said that the meeting reflects the alarm of institutions of higher education at Instruction I-A.

The meetings were executive and one reporter who managed to enter was later asked to leave.

H. V. Stirling, educational director of the VA attended the morning meeting with other VA representatives. Persons present said that after he took full responsibility for Instruction I-A, the educators present "gave him a very bad morning."

At the afternoon session, all VA representatives were refused admittance, along with reporters.

Irish Potato Quotas Asked By Brannan

By The Associated Press

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan proposed marketing quotas for Irish potatoes yesterday as a prerequisite for price support.

The secretary sent to Chairman Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee the proposed draft of a bill to be known as the "Potato Act of 1949."

Potato growers, through the National Potato Council, have fought against the imposition of marketing quotas. They have insisted that they have not been educated to the quota system and that it would take time to make such a system effective.

Bill's Major Feature

"The major feature of the bill," Brannan wrote Thomas, "is the establishment of mandatory price supports for potatoes whenever producers demonstrate that they are willing to undertake effective adjustment of supplies to market demands."

The price support would be extended to producers by means of purchases, loans, producer payments, or other operations, as at present.

Price support would be continued at 60 to 90 percent of parity, which is a figure calculated to give the grower a purchasing power equal to that of a past favorable period.

Brannan said that by providing the department with a choice of means of extending price support it will be possible for it to devise a program "which will effectively further the interests of the producers and of the general public."

Could Deny Support

The Secretary said his proposal "would not permit price support of any crop of potatoes with respect to which producers had disapproved marketing quotas and would authorize the department to deny price support if producers refused to put into effect marketing orders which were deemed by the department to be essential to the efficient operation of the program."

Brannan said the devices contained in the new proposal for potatoes were generally contained in the Brannan farm price support plan rejected by the House. He said, however, that in the Brannan proposal they would have applied to agricultural products generally.

District Man Listed Victim In Swindle

Maurice L. Nee, treasurer of the P. J. Nee Co., furniture firm here, was listed yesterday as one of the victims in a million-dollar swindle charged to a former boardwalk auctioneer at Atlantic City.

Nee, who lives at 2855 Woodland dr. nw., was defrauded of $3400, according to one of the indictments returned yesterday by a Federal grand jury in Camden, N. J. Relatives said he was out of town and refused to discuss the transaction.

Charged on 9 Counts

The grand jury indicted Harold A. Brand, former Atlantic City boardwalk auctioneer, on nine counts charging frauds and forgeries totaling more than one million dollars.

Also named in the indictments were Brand's attractive blond wife, Jane Marple Brand; his son, Robert J. Brand; his confidential secretary, Edith Singer; his confidential agent, James Carroll Charles, and his attorney, Samuel Freedman. United States District Court Judge Thomas M. Madden issued bench warrants for the arrest of all six defendants.

The FBBI last night announced the arrest of Brand and his wife in Hot Springs, Ark. Their 36-year-old son was taken into custody at Atlantic City.

One stolen property indictment related to a $24,100 bracelet that belonged to the late Lydia Pinkham Gove of Boston, a granddaughter of Lydia Pinkham.

Brand is accused of accepting the bracelet for resale, of pawning it in Philadelphia for $15,000 and pocketing the cash.

Brand, his wife, secretary and agent were named in an indictment charging use of the mails to defraud Edwin C. Andrews, 70-year-old Buffalo (N. Y.) packing company executive, of $607,000. This was the largest single sum involved in the case.

Forged Note Alleged

Another true bill accused Brand of sending Andrews 11 forged notes totaling $349,000, which Federal prosecutors said were supposed to represent a return on Andrews' investment in jewelry transactions that never came off.

Brand vanished in January, 1948, a few days before he was adjudged a bankrupt in the amount of $1,250,000. He was hunted for 10 months and finally was arrested in Canada in November, 1948.

He denied he took any assets with him when he left the country.

By the United Press

Dr. Elmer W. Engstrom, research director for Radio Corp. of America, said yesterday his company is just as willing to risk its money on color television as it is on black-and-white TV.

He made the statement before the Federal Communications Commission after several commissioners had asked whether the industry actually is as interested as it seems in giving the public color television now.

Freida B. Hennock, only woman member of the commission, warned the industry not to "kid" the commission. She urged it to let the commission know in so many words whether the time is right for color TV because "I'm not going to take the blame for you people."

Chairman Wayne C. Coy finally said it appears that some companies are "willing to take a greater speculative risk on black-and-white than they will take on color." He asked if that included RCA.

"We are willing to take equal risks on both," Engstrom replied.

Coy also asked if the four-to-six month field test proposed by the commission would be adequate to find out which color telecasting system should be approved.

"If you change that to six months instead of four, I'd say yes," Engstrom said.

In addition to the color issue, the commission is considering giving television 42 additional channels in the so-called ultra-high-frequency range.

TV fans who wanted to receive those stations would have to buy new sets or have their present receivers altered since they receive only black-and-white images on the 12 channels in the very-high frequency band.

Engstrom tangled with Miss Hennock after testifying that RCA is ready and willing to demonstrate its new electronic color system but that it will not explain it to other television set makers.

"I don't know whether you people really want this thing," Miss Hennock protested. "Well, I want you to know that I'm not going to take the blame for you people. The public and the commission have a right to know where you stand."

Engstrom said Thursday that RCA could sell a color television set for prices ranging from $400 for a modest small receiver to $1000 for a de luxe receiver with a screen 15 by 20 inches. He said today, however, that it would take three or four weeks to tell other manufacturers how to make them.

Commissioner Robert F. Jones interrupted.

"I still don't see how a thing already accomplished would take three or four weeks to describe," he said.

Engstrom said RCA has only six color receivers ready for its forthcoming field tests. He said it is building four others and hopes to start turning sets out at the rate of 10 a month in November.

Miss Hennock said it seemed to her that RCA's preparations for its field tests were a little skimpy. She said she wasn't sure the industry wanted color at this time.

"We want color very much," the witness assured her.

He said RCA experts are convinced their system is best but he advised the commissioners to test the others before making a decision.

"We will not offer these (RCA) receivers for public sale until the commission has arrived at standards," he said. "We will, however, make sets available to other manufacturers for field tests."

RCA asserts its system would permit present set owners to receive color signals in black-and-white without changing their receivers.

Sick Postman

Man Tosses Son 220 Feet And Jumps

Huntington, W. Va., Sept. 30 (AP). A postman with indigestion pains took his 5-year-old son by the hand today and went downtown. Then he tossed the boy off the top floor of Huntington's highest building and took the 14-story plunge himself.

The bodies of Claude S. Hatton, 44, and his son, David, landed at the foot of the West Virginia Building on Fourth ave., a few feet from the city's busiest downtown corner.

The boy's every bone seemed broken by the 220-foot fall, Police said. Hatton hurtled down past Miss Helen Adkins of nearby Barboursville and landed on his head at her feet. A woman fainted nearby.

The sidewalk was crowded with shoppers and workers on their lunch hour.

Hatton had left a doctor's office earlier with a prescription for a minor stomach ailment.

Mrs. Hatton was conducting her classes at an elementary school at the time. His doctor said his ailment was diagnosed as simple indigestion.

Expert Doubts Vaccine Can Conquer Polio

Some as yet unknown miracle drug, not a vaccine, is needed to conquer infantile paralysis, Washington doctors were told last night.

Such an infection-fighting drug "seems not only feasible but probably the only practicable solution" against polio and like virus diseases, said Dr. Thomas M. Rivers of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York.

Dr. Rivers, one of the Nation's leading virologists, spoke at the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md., to open the 1949-50 series of guest lectures sponsored by the Naval Medical School.

Need for a polio drug is most apparent, he told the physicians, "because by the time a patient feels sick enough, most if not all the cells in the patient that are going to be infected by the virus have already been infected."

U. S. Women Made Her Career, Thais Aided, Mary Garden Says

By Paul Hume

"The women of America made my career," Mary Garden said yesterday as the great operatic singing actress prepared to launch a series of lectures throughout the United States.

The Scottish-born soprano made headline news week after week during her two decades of singing in the opera houses of Chicago and New York.

Telling about it yesterday, Miss Garden said, "The women of America took their husbands to see my Thais or my Salome when the men wanted to go to the movies. But when they saw Thais," and here Garden's eyes sparkled in recollection, "and Thais was very nude, the men took the opera glasses away from the ladies and kept them all evening."

Her Salome, famous in newsprint and opera houses alike, was once described, according to the actress, "as resembling a cat in catnip, whatever that is."

Miss Garden will open her lecture tour Sunday night in Lisner Auditorium. Her remarks are titled, "Men, Money, and Music" but Mary Garden, scintillant as ever, says, "I don't know very much about men and I don't give a damn about money. So I'm going to talk about music and that's my life."

"And then," she continued, "I will tell young singers how to make a career, and how to keep one, and then how to leave a career."

Garden paused, and then said, "You see, that's what I did. I began my career at the top. I stayed at the top. And I left while I was still at the top."

Asked if she was doing her lectures for a fee or for nothing, Garden laughed: "I do anything free?" The singer was for one season managing director of the Chicago Opera Co. During that time she amassed a deficit of nearly one million dollars.

Speaking of America, which she has not seen for 10 years, Miss Garden said: "I never saw anything like the terrible hurry everyone seems to be in," and then she went on, "and I have never seen so many taxicabs. We don't have that many cabs in Aberdeen, you know."

Aberdeen, Scotland, was the singer's home during the war. When she is there she says she loves to go to the movies and the theater, and to play bridge. Asked what stakes she played for, Garden said, "That depends on the company. If I'm playing with gentlemen I play for a lot and win. If I'm playing with ladies we play for tuppence."

Garden's lectures will take her across the United States. After the tour, the singer says, she will return to Scotland. There have been rumors, however, she will remain in this country to teach and lecture and to coach singers in the roles she made famous before another generation.

4 D. C. Fiscal Offices Ask $1,953,276

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

The District government's four fiscal offices yesterday asked for $1,953,276 for operations in the year beginning July 1—an increase of $312,127 over present appropriations.

The largest boost was requested by Auditor A. R. Pilkerton to continue work on installation of a new accounting system expected to make possible closer daily checks on city finances in general and on individual departments.

Pilkerton asked for $531,877, a totaly of $103,877 more than his present budget. Almost $40,000 is earmarked for purchase of electrical punch card equipment and another $35,000 for installing changes in payroll procedures, allotments and appropriation controls.

Employment of four additional field examiners to keep tabs on collections of new and increased taxes adopted this year is proposed. A fifth examiner is requested to improve auditing of tax collections on the 170 million gallons of gasoline imported here each year.

Pilkerton warned in his budget request that at present his office does not have sufficient personnel to carry out a Commissioners' order of October 15, 1940, directing an audit of all city accounts, checking revenues and cash on hand four times a year.

He said there are 120 such units, which brought in $69,978,860 in revenue in fiscal 1949, which should receive this audit and, in addition, others should be checked from day to day.

Tax Assessor Edward A. Dent asked for $882,700 to carry out the handling of $78,302,000 in real estate, personal property, income, estate and inheritance, vaults, sales and use taxes.

Dent requested $3500 for microfilming of real estate ledger sheets, thus saving storage expenses and saving floor space.

Tax Collector Guy W. Pearson requested $407,899, for usual expenses, plus employment of six clerks in the new cigarette tax unit and six parking meter collectors. He pointed out that 1600 more meters are scheduled for installation during fiscal 1950, bringing the total number up to 4700.

Purchasing Officer Roland Brennan asked for three additional buyers and three clerk-stenographers to assist them in his $130,800 request.

Jewels Lost, Board Warns 2 Detectives

Two Ninth Precinct detectives received warnings from the Police Trial Board yesterday after a hearing on charges that they failed to turn in promptly property recovered during investigation of a grand larceny case.

The board also recommended $25 fines for two other policemen, one of whom was charged with absence without leave. The other was found guilty of failing to report to the police clinic.

Those warned were Detective Summerfield B. Tillet and Probationary Detective Joseph Bonaccorsy, who pleaded nolo contendre.

According to testimony by Capt. Irvin Umbaugh of the Ninth Precinct, money and jewelry seized by Tillett and Bonaccorsy last June 28 was placed in the precinct safe. The envelope containing them was noticed twice by a station clerk during last July, and its disappearance was reported by Tillett about August 1, Captain Umbaugh said.

An investigation has failed to turn up evidence as to what happened to the cash and jewelry, and the case is still open, Captain Umbaugh told a reporter after the hearing.

Charles E. Ford, counsel for the two officers, said the charge against them was a "technical" one, in that they could not turn over the seized valuables to the personal property clerk, because they were stolen from the precinct safe. He admitted they did not turn in the property "immediately and forthwith," as required.

The Trial Board dismissed a charge of feigning illness against Pvt. John J. Cullinane, now of the Eleventh Precinct, but recommended a $25 fine for failure to report to the police clinic.

Pvt. Lewis D. Crooke of the Twelfth Precinct, charged with absence without leave on September 13 and 14 and suspended on September 15, was restored to duty by the Trial Board

If You Will Say

There are so many songs in life . . . For you and me to sing . . . If only you are willing to . . . Remember everything . . . If you are still concerned about . . . The days we spent together . . . And all the happy nights we shared . . . Regardless of the weather . . . The way we walked along the street . . . The words we liked to say . . . And that inviting chapel where . . . We used to pause and pray . . . There are so many memories . . . For you and me to treasure . . . If only you will promise me . . . That I may serve your pleasure . . . If only you will say that you . . . Will be content to be . . . The partner of my heart and soul . . . For all eternity.

BARNABY

So that was a television aerial I crashed into? You ought to put lights on it. To protect low-flying Fairy Godfathers.
I'll tell Pop, Mr. O'Malley.
Television, eh? In that case, m'boy, I'll withdraw my patronage from Paddy's place. His request that I get out and stay out was really quite insulting—
Barnaby, are you all right?
Sure, Mom—
Mr. O'Malley just left, Pop. He's sorry he broke the aerial and will you get it fixed so we can watch the game tomorrow—
Here we go again—

Bill Gets an Invitation From Parris Island

M/Sergt. Charles D. Prindle, USMC, got to the point quickly.

"This letter from the young fellow who couldn't find a decent job," he began. "I was very much interested in it."

"Really?" I murmured. (It was my last chance to say anything for quite some time.)

"Yep," he went on. "Very much interested. We could use a lad like that in the Marine Corps. We can give him education, experience and adventure—and pay him while he's learning.

"You know, these days, every man in the Marine Corps is a specialist. Service schools, special training of all kinds, and the Marine Corps Institute all combine to make it well worth a young man's time to drop in to the Recruiting Office and talk things over. Yes sir. We could probably use that lad."

I know a cue when I hear one. I said: "Sarge, where's the Recruiting Office?"

"Fourteenth and the Avenue nw., across the street from the Willard Hotel," he replied. "And how old are you? You look like a healthy specimen."

"Punctured eardrum," I mumbled as I beat a hasty retreat.

MISCELLANY

The controversy over lipstick on restaurant glasses continues unabated. Mrs. Fletcher Brown of 300 E. Glendale ave., Alexandria, Va., says that etiquette books decree that excess lipstick should be removed before dining because it is very difficult to remove from your host's glassware and napkins . . . Dorothy Bond of 3361 Rittenhouse st. nw. adds: "And besides, any cosmetic counter carries smear-proof lipstick, or preparations to prevent smearing" . . . "What's more," adds Martha Hall, "the whole problem can be avoided through a proper application of the lipstick—followed by blotting on a piece of facial tissue" . . . Mrs. R. E. Zipp of 2024 S. 10th rd., Arlington, Va., wants me to be sure to mention the rummage sale at the Trinity Episcopal Church (Columbia Pike and S. He spent all evening trying to find out why his wife's iron wouldn't work—only to discover that the trouble was in a seemingly perfect cord . . . Ah, how often I've done the same thing myself . . . Memo to the circulation department: We're losing one sale a day in Boston because Ruth Contract, attending Boston University, reads the paper in the Boston Public Library. . . Mary Martin of 3902 Ingomar st. nw. tells me that if I knew the south or southwest, I wouldn't be surprised to learn that the manufacturers put headlights on tractors. Farmers prefer working at night to the 125-degree heat of the daytime . . . Marjorie Miller of Ashton, Md., is amused by a local cemetery's ad for salesmen. It indicates that positions at the cemetery are permanent.

KILLJOYS

The police certainly had their nerve in stopping that fellow who was handing out the $100 bills. Who knows? He might have come down our street.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Handsome cat wants city home; affectionate and a talented purr-er." (Logan 3-8072).

"Five cute little kittens, 5 weeks old, in excellent health." (Wisconsin 7866).

"Three little male kittens, 5 weeks old; all have blue eyes and are as cute as can be." (Shepherd 7527).

"Eight puppies; just plain dog, but cute." (Johnson 3-6400.)

MARCH OF PROGRESS

The Air Force is working on a plane which will outrun the sun. Secretary Symington says that if the ship had the range, "it would arrive in San Francisco before it left New York."

This certainly sounds like a great stride toward eliminating air crashes. If the pilot, on landing in San Francisco, has discovered that something went wrong en route, he could cancel the flight before taking off from New York.

On the other hand, it would probably be highly confusing. On the return trip, the pilot might meet himself coming back, and crash headlong into his own plane.

However, when the ship is perfected, it probably will be able to circle the entire globe, returning to the starting point the day before the take-off.

This will enable people who regret their past actions to relive their yesterdays, and correct all the mistakes.

Printers should get group rates, and columnists would be eligible for quantity discounts.

ENJOY IT WHILE YOU CAN

This is the time of the year when it's hard to realize that the weather will turn warm again before winter really sets in.

For Washington, it's one of the nicest seasons of all. The days are brisk enough for work, yet mild enough for play. The nights are perfect for sleep.

Later on, the rains come, and chilling winds foretell worse weather ahead. Die-hard golfers play in sweaters or leather jackets and learn to bend their shots into the wind.

Householders hold daily caucuses on the advisability of starting the furnace; the trees sketch an outline of denuded grandeur against leaden skies. And then it's winter.

But for a few more weeks, at least, the Weatherman will be on his good behavior.

VAGRANT THOUGHT

The British have invented a "better mousetrap," and many an American hopes we won't get caught in it.

Nor buying meats and fruits,
But hate the ever-present job
Of lengthening your suits.

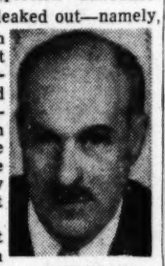
The Washington Merry-Go-Round

The Acheson-Makins Talks

By Drew Pearson

One significant incident which occurred at the time of the Russian atomic-explosion announcement has now leaked out—namely, how the British tried to prevent that announcement. They did not want President Truman to tell the world that the Russians now have the secret of the atom.



PEARSON

The argument occurred on Thursday evening, September 22, just before the President was slated to make his world - shaking statement. The Prime Ministers of England and Canada were also supposedly ready to announce, when suddenly the British Embassy in Washington asked the State Department for the use of a special airplane to New York. The private plane set aside for Cabinet use was thereupon placed at the embassy's disposal. Just why the embassy should have asked for an entire airplane instead of merely buying a seat on a commercial plane to New York was not explained.

However Roger Makins, Deputy Undersecretary for British Foreign Affairs, who was long stationed in Washington and an old friend of Secretary of State Acheson, flew to New York and spent part of the evening arguing with Acheson against making the Russian atomic announcement next morning.

Makins' argument seemed to hinge partly around the idea that the American people would be too alarmed and panic-stricken. One British counter-idea was that the news of Russia's possession of the atom secret should be leaked instead to a newspaper. This would give the American public a less sudden realization that Russia had the bomb.

There had also been some opposition to the announcement on the part of United States military men on the ground that we could better watch the Russians if they did not know we knew their secret. The British shared in this view.

However, the British arguments got nowhere. President Truman had made up his mind categorically that the American people were entitled to know what had happened, and no one could have deterred him.

That was why when the Cabinet met next morning he stated, "I have decided to make the following announcement." He did not ask the Cabinet for advice as to whether he should make it.

[Editor's Note—British Information Services last night issued the following comment on the Makins-Acheson talks:

"All conversations about the announcement of the Russian atomic explosion took place between Cabinet Ministers of the countries concerned, and the discussions led to complete agreement on the time and language of the announcement, which was made simultaneously in London, Ottawa and Washington. Sir Roger Makins, of the Foreign Office, went to New York from Washington as an adviser to Mr. Bevin in these discussions. He traveled by commercial plane."]

'Bomb' Explodes

With doors bolted and shades drawn, the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee got an advance report that Russia had exploded an atomic bomb.

The legislators listened with long, solemn faces to the announcement from Chairman Brien McMahon of Connecticut.

"This is information of transcendent importance," McMahon declared, dramatically. He added that it was also the most momentous news "since Hiroshima."

Then he read excerpts from a speech by Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky, in which the Soviet spokesmen used the words, "wreaking vengeance."

"That's the key to the whole thing—vengeance," broke in Senator Vandenberg, shaking a finger gravely.

Senator Gene Millikin of Colorado warned against hysteria, and Atomic Energy Commissioner Sumner Pike then gave his ideas.

Then, as if a practical joke from on high, the room was rocked by a resounding noise.

The legislators jumped in their seats, then broke into laughter. What they had heard was the beginning of a thunderstorm, breaking over the Capitol dome.

"There goes your Russian atomic bomb," quipped Millikin.

Miners' Welfare Fund

What very few people—including the miners—realize about John L. Lewis' welfare fund is that the pension part of the fund was never exhausted.

Coal miners saw red and struck when Lewis announced that payments would stop because the coal operators had not been contributing to the welfare fund. But what they didn't know was that:

1. Only three or four coal operators in the entire United States had stopped contributing.

2. The pension part of the fund was not overdrawn and could have continued paying pensions.

However, since no public accounting of the welfare fund is available, it was impossible for either the coal miners or the American people to know this. And, in the end, it is the American coal-burning public which foots the bill. Neither the miners nor the general public could know, for instance, that the pension fund has suffered from all sorts of extraneous expenditures—to say nothing of $35,000 paid annually to both Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire and Ezra Van Horn for sitting on the board.

When Lewis stopped all payments to miners just before the strike, it was announced that the welfare treasury had dwindled to $14,695,504. But what Lewis didn't reveal was that, out of this remaining balance, only a little over one million dollars was earmarked for pensions to retired miners.
